SHIPS TRY TO EVADE WAR BAN

FRENCH CLAIM 9 PLANES WHIP 27 GERMAN FLYERS

Report 9 Nazis Shot Down in Battle.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 6.—The most spectacular air battle the western front has seen was waged today between French and Nazi air fighters, according to the French general staff's communique tonight.

The battle, which apparently developed out of a reconnaissance flight, involved nine French ships which attacked 27 Nazi fighting craft. The French returned to their base without losing a single craft, according to the communique, which said nine of the German planes were shot down, seven of them falling behind the French lines.

American Type Plane Helps.

The communique did not reveal the scene of the battle, but the odds against which the French fought indicate that it began over German soil while French ships were on a reconnoitering flight. The skill of the French pilots and the maneuverability of their American model planes apparently explains the ability of the French to score the victory without loss.

Altho there was activity in the air all along the front today, no mention was made in the night communique of land fighting. Continued snow and rain have made a quagmire of the no man's land between France's Maginot line and the Germans' west wall. The French remain convinced, however, that once the weather clears the Nazis will be ready to launch an offensive.

Nazis Increase Pressure.

PARIS, Nov. 6 (AP).—Nazi ground forces today increased their pressure on the French frontier town of Forbach. German shelling alternated between intermittent shots into the town proper and a bombardment of three sides of the outlying sector.

Military sources said French artillery behind Forbach dominates the German industrial city of Saarbrueck-en, whose commercial activity has been paralyzed by military action.

The French general staff said the Germans were trying to reduce a salient that bulges into Germany where the frontier runs almost straight north from the village of Emmerweiler west of Forbach.

The French war ministry's communique tonight said:

"Great activity of the two aerial forces. During a violent aerial combat nine French fighting planes attacked a group of 27 German fighting planes. Nine of the latter were shot down, including seven, at least, in our territory. Our complete patrol returned unhurt."

[The German high command issued the following communique early yesterday: "In the west, somewhat livelier reconnoitering activity in several sectors of the front. Otherwise only weak artillery fire. In the region of Saarburg one French airplane was shot down by German pursuit planes."]

School Held as Guns Menace.

BASEL, Switzerland, Nov. 6 (AP).—School bells rang today for thousands of French children in the Alsatian cities of Mulhouse and Colmar.

Encouraged by quiet along the Rhine front, French authorities deferred plans to remove the civilian population from the two cities.

NAVY PLANE CRASHES OFF HONOLULU; PILOT BAILS OUT; 1 MISSING

HONOLULU, Nov. 7, Tuesday (AP).—A naval observation plane burst into flames in diving practice and crashed into the sea off Barber's Point yesterday. The observer was missing, but his companion was saved. The plane was from the aircraft carrier Enterprise.

The pilot, picked up by a naval boat after he had managed to stay afloat a few minutes, was Lieut. W. R. Wallis, who was slightly burned. The observer was W. T. Rhodes of San Diego, Cal., chief aviationists' mate.

After the plane caught fire Wallis said he climbed out on the left wing and told the observer to "jump!" Then Wallis' foot slipped and he was blown from the plane at an altitude of about 1,000 feet, he said. He parachuted safely to the surface.

9 U. S. VESSELS SEEK TO RUN UP FLAG OF PANAMA

Approval Indicated by Maritime Board.

U. S. Ship Threatened

New York, Nov. 6 [Special].—An official news bulletin broadcast tonight from Station DXB, in Berlin, Germany, was quoted as saying:

"The American ship Black Gull sailed from New York today at her own risk. Her cargo consists of contraband, allegedly destined for Belgium and Holland."

The statement was broadcast in German, and was not repeated in the English broadcast that followed from the station immediately afterward. It was picked up and translated by short wave listeners here.

Officials of the Black Diamond line said the Black Gull sailed last Saturday—not today—shortly before the new neutrality law went into effect. The ship carried no passengers.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6 (AP).—The Maritime commission announced tonight it was deferring final action on the United States Lines' application to transfer nine of its 11 trans-Atlantic vessels to Panamanian registry; a step which would allow them to carry goods to the belligerents of Europe.

Earlier commission sources had said the commission was approving transfering eight of the ships, but after meeting all evening it issued a statement at midnight saying:

"The commission is exploring all the circumstances involved in the transfer, as is customary when such applications are filed. The commission hopes to be able to reach a final decision promptly."

Gives Reasons for Approval.

Before the unusual night meeting, Commissioner Max O'Rell Truitt told reporters that approval would not contravene the new neutrality act, which forbids American flag ships to go to the danger zones.

"I don't see any element . . a dodge at all; I think it's a completely sound, bona fide situation all ar .and," Truitt said.

"Congress unquestionably intended to keep the United States flag from going down in the brine and to keep the United States seamen from losing their lives. But nowhere in the act does it say an American citizen could not operate a foreign flag vessel with a foreign crew."

If the commission grants the application, title of the vessels would be transferred to a Panamanian corporation. They would carry the Panama flag and would be manned by crews other than United States citizens.

Would Dodge War Zone Ban.

The commission's midnight statement said:

"The proposed transfer to a foreign flag would divorce the ships involved from any and all protection afforded by the United States flag. In addition, under the President's proclamation defining combat areas under the recently enacted neutrality law, no Americans can be carried aboard these ships either as passengers or crew into or thru these areas.

"And, further, American vessels transferred to a foreign flag, cannot, should they return to United States registry, enter coastwise or intercoastal service tho they may resume operations on foreign trade routes of the United States.

"Any favorable action would be taken by the Maritime commission only upon the definite understanding that operations of the vessels in question can in no way involve the rights of diplomatic protection by the United States or be made the basis of any claim put forward by the government of the United States.

New Ships Promised.

"In connection with the commission's responsibility for developing a strong and well balanced merchant marine, it has obtained from United States Lines certain commitments to undertake construction or purchase of new vessels. These include S. S. America, largest liner ever constructed in the United States, four combination passenger and cargo vessels, now building, and five C-1 type vessels for which orders recently have been placed.

FOOD—HOW 2 FOES FARE

England and Germany are grappling with the problem of feeding their populations in wartime. Here are interesting dispatches from correspondents of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE about food conditions within the two countries:

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 6.—A Santa Claus from the food ministry is showing his hand in preparation for the holiday season, judging by an announcement published today.

At Christmas Germans will receive an extra ration of almost a pound of rice and some grapefruit, and in the following two months each will get an extra pound of dried peas or dried beans.

Chocolate Also to Be Issued.

For those with a sweet tooth three and a half ounces of bar chocolate or four ounces of chocolates will be available this month, together with four ounces of gingerbread which will be issued on the strength of the general food card. In December the chocolate and gingerbread allowances will be doubled.

What will delight most Germans is the increase in meat rations promised for the four months beginning Nov. 22. It will mean that in addition to a pound of meat and bones, every German will get 31 grams [1.09 ounces] of meat weekly.

More Meat for Holidays.

Because of the December holidays there will be an additional ration of four ounces of meat for the month, and an extra half pound of butter.

Butter rations have been increased for children. Up to the age of 14 they will also get four ounces of cocoa a month. This is an innovation. The children's ration of margarine will be slightly reduced and those between the ages of 3 and 6 must take a cut in their milk ration, which will be a pint daily.

BIRMINGHAM, England, Nov. 6.—Men and women are digging in the ground along the roads between London and Birmingham on these wartime Sunday mornings. They are preparing to grow food.

Unused tracts of land have been divided into plots and it is easy for the city or town dweller to get a plot if he wants it. The British call the plots allotments. The idea was borrowed from Sweden. They hope to increase greatly the output of home-grown food and to save transportation costs. The practice may work a great change in British economy.

The slogan of the movement is "Let's dig our way to victory!"

No Gas for Autos.

One cannot tour England any more by automobile. No gas is available. Ordinarily a traveler arrives in Birmingham by train in less than two hours after leaving Euston station in London. By traveling thru Northampton, Rugby, and Coventry it now takes nearly four hours. The schedule is designed to save fuel and there are fewer trains. This requires long waits for connections with other trains.

Birmingham's industriousness in turning out guns and ammunition is reflected in its prices. My lunch at the Queen's hotel cost $1.50. It consisted of a small steak and a tough one at that. It cost 60 cents, potatoes were 20 cents, two or three lettuce leaves cost the same. Vanilla ice sold for 30 cents and coffee was 20 cents.

Birmingham is cheerful about the war. However, that spirit does not seem to change its Sunday habits. Ruffians yesterday heckled Gospel speakers on street corners under the tolerant gaze of policemen, who do not wear tin hats here as they do in London. Also fewer people here carry gas masks, altho one cannot get into a movie without one.

Chalk Scrawls Say: "Stop War."

On the billboards are government posters reading: "Your courage, cheerfulness, and resolution will bring us victory." A cantankerous undercurrent is indicated in chalk scrawls which read: "Mosley and peace!" or "Up, Britain! Stop this war!"

[Sir Oswald Mosley is the British Fascist leader. His automobile was stoned in London Sunday night.]

Birmingham's major reaction to the war appears to be boredom. Some wags have christened it the "Bore war."

The Shakespeare country, which is 25 miles south of Birmingham, has one complaint. The tourist business has been ruined. No one comes to visit the birthplace of the bard of Avon.

MayDigUp HollywoodBowl in Hunt for Pioneer's Gold

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 6 (AP).—The Hollywood Bowl association asked permission today to dig up its grounds in a search for buried treasure estimated to be worth $200,000. Association executives indicated recently discovered documents pointed to a hoard of gold, silver, and precious stones buried in pioneer days at a point now covered by the bowl's parking lot. County Manager Wayne Allen predicted an excavation permit would be granted.

Bernadine Has a Cop Putting All in Feedbag

Even the youngest detective, confronted with this situation, would whisper: "Cherchez la femme!" And he would be right. Except that in this case the lady is a horse—a horse with the singular name of Bernadine.

A Raffle Case for Raffles.

O'Donnell and a friend, Edward Canter, owned Bernadine. Now Loquist owns her. That's the trouble. Two weeks ago Loquist thought he was lucky; today he is kicking himself.

For a year Canter and O'Donnell used Bernadine on the bridle paths. Tiring of the paths, Canter, whose very name indicates he is a member of an old horse trading family, suggested they hold a raffle and get rid of Bernadine.

"Take the horse, or $50 cash," said Policeman O'Donnell.

Serpent Bears Its Ugly Head.

"Take the horse. She's worth a hundred bucks," advised the s. i. t. g. So Loquist and his partner, Gus Ring, hitched her to the back of their squad car and led her to a riding academy at 2432 Berwyn avenue.

"Horses eat, you know," said the attendant, rubbing palms together briskly. "That'll be $15 for a month, in advance."

Loquist paid. O, well, $100 minus $15, minus 25 cents for the raffle ticket would leave him a profit of $84.75. He and Ring canvassed the district.

Marseillaise Is Song of Hope.

Yesterday Loquist had an inspiration. He heard there was a delegation of Frenchmen in the city, seeking to purchase horses for the French army. The Frenchmen are staying at the Stevens hotel, and if you look closely this morning, you'll find Policeman Loquist waiting on the steps, ready to buttonhole the first one who emerges. Ross Demands Showdown on Paper Bottles

Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th], chairman of the city council health committee, announced yesterday that he is "disgusted with the buck passing between the board of health and the city's legal department over the board's recent recommendation approving paper milk containers." He said that unless there is action soon he will call responsible cabinet officials before the council committee.

"I want to know what is in back of this bluffing," Ald. Ross declared.

"Three weeks ago the board of health recommended that the city council amend the city's milk ordinance to include use of paper containers. The board sent the recommendation to the city's legal department, but not to the council. Now Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes says he received the board's resolution but no request for an opinion and so has nothing on which to act.

Calls Situation Absurd.

"It's an absurd situation. The two departments should get together and agree so that public hearings on the paper cartons may be held by the health committee.

"If clear cut action is not taken shortly I will ask the heads of both departments to explain the situation to the health committee."

Further pressure to place the paper milk container question before the council was contained in a letter received by Ald. Ross from Owen Rall, attorney representing the Ex-Cell-O corporation, manufacturers. The corporation has a suit against the city in federal court demanding the right to use containers here.

Federal Approval Cited.

Rall attached to the letter a proposed amendment to the milk ordinance identical to that approved by the board of health. He asked Ross to hold public hearings on the question of whether the City of Chicago shall continue to follow the recommendations of the United States Public Health service. The health service, which previously did not approve containers, recently has announced its approval.

Evidence of the disinclination of city officials to permit the use of paper containers for milk sold in Chicago [paper containers are permitted in the suburbs] was given yesterday when Hodes' office recommended that Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, refuse to examine the pasteurizing plant of Fieldcrest Dairies, Inc., at Chemung, Ill.

Fieldcrest now is pushing a suit in the federal court to force the city to permit the sale of milk in the paper containers. Dairy officials requested Dr. Bundesen to have the plant examined so that in the event the council approves paper containers their permit to sell in the city would not be delayed.

Dean Charges Delay.

When informed of the Hodes office advice to Dr. Bundesen, Sam Dean Jr., president of Fieldcrest, charged the city administration with "withholding as long as possible safe and sanitary milk at lower costs per quart to the consumer.

"If the spirit of the existing ordinance was kept in view the city would immediately inspect our ultra-modern plant and avoid having to do it later, thus speeding up the system of getting milk to the consumer in Chicago at lower prices.

"Four hundred eighty-eight cities and villages of the United States use and approve paper milk containers now—488 cities can't be wrong."

N. Y. MILK PRICES HIT HIGHEST PEAK IN EIGHT YEARS

New York, Nov. 6 [Special].—Consumers of milk in New York, already paying a higher price than any other city in the United States, tomorrow will start paying an additional quarter cent per quart and the highest retail price for delivered milk since 1931.

The price increase, anticipated after the signing of new agreements between the distributors and unionized employés, was announced formally tonight by leading distributing companies. Grade B milk, the most widely purchased grade, will be 15 cents per quart. Grade A will be boosted to 18 cents.

Spokesmen for the distributors explained that the higher prices are necessitated by new contracts between the 16,000 unionized employés in the milk industry and the distributors granting wage increases and shorter working hours that are expected to increase operating costs of the companies from $3,500,000 to $5,000,000 annually.

The boost in prices was blamed by many on the federal marketing agreement which fixes prices and otherwise regulates the milk industry. In its present form, the milk agreement went into effect last Sept. 1. Hardly a day has passed since then without the appearance of some complication.

SUPREME COURT KILLS STATE TAX ON HOLC LOANS

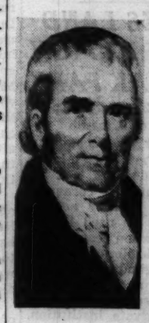
BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6.—Notwithstanding its reconstruction by the New Deal as noted last March by Justice Felix Frankfurter, the United States Supreme court still recognizes John Marshall, the great chief justice who affirmed in 1819 that "the power to tax is the power to destroy."



John Marshall.

Reversing a recent trend toward abolition of the doctrine of reciprocal intergovernmental tax immunity, the court today, in a unanimous opinion delivered by Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes, held that the state of Maryland cannot impose taxes upon mortgages recorded by the Home Owners' Loan corporation, an instrumentality of the federal government. The opinion by the chief justice relied specifically upon Marshall's decision in McCulloch vs. Maryland.

Previous Decision on Salaries.

Last March 27, when the court in an opinion by Justice Harlan F. Stone held that the state of New York could tax the income of HOLC employés, it was supposed that Marshall's historic precedent had been repudiated. Justice Frankfurter, in a concurring opinion, called attention to "the reconstruction" in the membership of the court, to which he attributed the puncturing of Marshall's "seductive cliche."

Justice Pierce Butler, dissenting, said the doctrine of reciprocal tax immunity had been marked for destruction.

Today's decision made it clear, however, that the court has not completely abolished the doctrine of reciprocal immunity. In the O'Keefe case, decided last March, and in previous decisions, the court repudiated the doctrine to the extent of upholding the right of the federal and state governments to tax the salaries of each other's officials and employés. Other decisions had upheld the reciprocal taxation of federal and state contractors. But apparently there remains a field of immunity, and direct instrumentalities of government come within its scope.

President Advocates Salary Taxes.

President Roosevelt has advocated not only the reciprocal taxation of federal and state salaries but of the income from federal, state, and municipal securities. The President takes the position that no constitutional amendment is necessary to remove tax exemption from all governmental bonds and other obligations; that congress can accomplish this by statute.

Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho], while conceding that congress can remove the exemption from the federal government's own bonds, insists that state and local securities cannot be taxed by the federal government without a constitutional amendment. Today's decision did not cover this larger question.

Exempted by Congress.

Justice Hughes' opinion emphasizes the circumstances that congress in creating the HOLC provided that its franchise, capital, reserves, and surplus and its loans and income shall be exempt from all state or municipal taxes. Whether the recording of a mortgage, as a part of the lending function, would be subject to taxation without the congressional immunity was not decided, unless it was implied in these words of the chief justice:

"We assume here . . . that the creation of the Home Owners' Loan corporation was a constitutional exercise of the congressional power and that the activities of the corporation thru which the national government lawfully acts must be regarded as governmental functions and as entitled to whatever immunity attaches to those functions when performed by the government itself thru its departments."

Questions Power of Congress.

M. Luther Pittman, the clerk of the Superior Court of Baltimore city, petitioner in the case against the HOLC, contended that congress had no power to confer immunity from nondiscriminatory taxation upon the federal agency. Congress, he maintained, cannot "grant an immunity of greater extent than the constitutional immunity."

But Chief Justice Hughes relied upon Marshall's dictum that "a power to create implies a power to preserve."

"Congress has not only the power to create a corporation to facilitate the performance of governmental functions, but has the power to protect the operations thus validly authorized," said the Hughes opinion.

In the O'Keefe case, involving the right of a state to tax the salary of an HOLC employé, Justice Stone noted that congress was silent on the question of immunity. The question at issue, he held, was whether the tax placed an undue or discriminatory burden upon the government agency.

Another Tax Decision.

In another Maryland tax case, decided today, the court held that social security taxes are not taxes, "applicable directly upon production, manufacture, or sale."

Justice Hugo L. Black wrote the decision in a suit brought by the Glenn L. Martin company of Baltimore, which contracted to supply aircraft to the government. In the contract dated June 28, 1934, the government expressly undertook to reimburse the company for any taxes subsequently imposed by congress and made "applicable directly upon production, manufacture, or sale."

The Martin company contended that $794.03 paid in federal social security taxes and $6,943.29 paid in state unemployment compensation taxes resulted from subsequent legislation and should be reimbursed.

"Since a tax on pay rolls, or on the relationship of employment, is not—but in fact is distinct from—the type of tax 'on' articles represented by sales taxes and processing taxes, respondent is not entitled to the additional compensation which it seeks," Justice Black's opinion said.

DOLE GIVES LAND FOR RECREATION SPOT IN OAK PARK

Andrew R. Dole, 220 North Euclid avenue, Oak Park, chairman of the board of the Hooker Glass company, presented the Oak Park village board last night with a deed of gift for property at the southeast corner of Augusta street and Harvey avenue. He specified that it be used by the village as a recreation center for children and a public library branch.

The property originally was occupied by a church, and for several years recently housed the Oak Park Junior college, a private institution, now closed. It is probable that the branch library at 208 Chicago avenue will be moved to the new location. Members of the village board said they understood Mr. Dole acquired the property recently.

ALD. DICKERSON ASSAILS HOUSING RENOVATION LACK

Ald. Earl B. Dickerson [2d] criticized the Chicago Housing authority yesterday for directing all its efforts to constructing new federal housing projects instead of rehabilitating old buildings in the blighted areas. He spoke at the City club luncheon at the Hotel Sherman.

At a round table discussion later Leo M. Lyons, Chicago relief administrator, said the CRA may establish a housing bureau in an effort to reduce rental costs to reliefers. "Until now," he said, "we have had cash relief and let the client handle his own affairs with the landlord. I am afraid that we may have been paying too much to absentee landlords."

CHICAGO HOUSING AUTHORITY PLANS TO SLASH RENTS

Tenants Fight; Fear Move to Oust High Earners.

Rents for homes operated by the Chicago Housing authority will be reduced Jan. 1 if federal approval is obtained. Miss Elizabeth Wood, secretary of the CHA, made the announcement yesterday. The proposed reductions would affect tenants in the Jane Addams, the Julia Lathrop, and the Trumbull Park apartments.

The three apartment projects house 2,400 families. Rents would be reduced from $1 to $2 per month for each unit, it was unofficially reported. Apartment rentals now range from $23.70 for three room flats to $31 for five rooms.

A large number of tenants in the Jane Addams buildings began organizing protest groups yesterday in the belief that the rent reduction plan would be used as a lever to force them out of their apartments.

Tenants Refuse to Move.

The nucleus of the organization is a group of two dozen tenants who were notified to move last June because income standards for the tenants had been changed. They refused and are still in the buildings.

John Krall, who led this fight against eviction, explained why a rent cut might force some tenants out. In June, he said, the CHA served removal notices on each tenant whose income was more than five times greater than the amount of his rent. Many tenants had been admitted whose incomes were not more than six times the apartment rental. The change, he said, was ordered shortly after the CHA took over operation of the buildings from federal authorities.

Krall led a delegation to the CHA offices to protest against the ouster. He said the CHA was told it would have to test in the courts its power to change the rules after tenants were in the apartments. The CHA did not go to court, he added.

Krall said more than 30 per cent of the tenants are borderline cases, earning about five times the amount of their rent.

"Thus," he said, "a reduction in rent will mean that these tenants are earning more than five times the amounts of their rents and they will be requested to move."

Admits Rule Will Be Applied.

Miss Wood admitted that tenants whose incomes exceeded the five to one ratio would be asked to move. She said, however, that the CHA will not act hastily and will give the tenants ample time to find other apartments.

She refused to give figures on maintenance costs and rental receipts to justify the reduction. The reduction is in line with the CHA policy of giving low rent, she said.

All apartments in each of the three homes are completely occupied and many applicants are waiting for vacancies. Many tenants notified to move have complained that they are having a difficult time finding suitable homes.

MRS. ROSE MADIA.

Miss Rose Madia, 35 years old, who had been sought for two years on a charge of ballot frauds in the April, 1936, primary, surrendered yesterday and pleaded guilty before County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki. Her brother, Ben, who previously had pleaded not guilty to a similar charge, changed his plea to guilty. Judge Jarecki said he will pass sentence today. Both Madias gave their address as 244 West 31st street. Miss Madia was a Democratic clerk and her brother a Democratic judge in the 34th precinct of the 1st ward in the primary. They admitted that they had allowed multiple voting at the polling place.

When the warrant for Miss Madia's arrest was issued in March, 1937, it was learned she was working as a clerk in the board of tax appeals in the county building. She eluded a deputy sheriff by way of a washroom fire escape.

An indictment charging Sidney Marovitz, Democratic precinct captain of the 61st precinct of the 24th ward, brother of State Senator Abraham Marovitz, and five others with violation of election laws was not prossed by the state yesterday before Judge James F. Fardy in Criminal court. The November grand jury, which was sworn in yesterday, is expected to hear witnesses today in connection with alleged irregularities in the 12th precinct of the 11th ward.

G. O. P. TO FIGHT BACK ON POLLS FRAUD REPORT

Holds Democratic Election Board Responsible.

BY PARKE BROWN.

What may become a Republican broadside reply to the report on election frauds made by the October grand jury last week will be begun this noon by Edward F. Moore, chairman of the G. O. P. county committee, at a luncheon of the 1940 club in the Hotel Sherman.

If Moore goes into a discussion of the report, which placed the entire responsibility for dishonest precinct judges and clerks on the shoulders of the party organizations, it is believed he may steal the show from the speaker of the day, Dr. Glenn Frank, chairman of the program committee of the Republican national committee.

May Be Attacked from Floor.

Many Republican leaders have expressed indignation over the grand jury's findings, and, since the club luncheons are something of a forum for free discussion, it may be attacked from the floor. It is the Republican contention that the responsibility for crooked polls officials rests on the Democratically controled board of election commissioners which has the sole authority to select, examine, and appoint judges and clerks.

After the luncheon there is to be a meeting at the La Salle hotel of the Republican county committee's special committee on fraud prevention. This body will have a complete copy of the grand jury report before it and may authorize a formal reply to many of its findings.

"For a long time the public has been deceived about where the law places the responsibility for honest elections," said Chairman Moore. "It is about time that attention be called to the provisions of the city election act which specify precisely how judges and clerks shall be chosen and appointed.

Another Candidate in Running.

"My remarks may be brief because we have had our special committee, consisting entirely of lawyers, at work on this subject for several months. If a full reply is to be made it should come from that committee, which is thoroughly familiar with what occurred in recent elections with the Democrats in complete control of the election machinery and all the law enforcement agencies."

Another name was added to the list of candidates for the Republican state primary next April by an announcement from State Senator Arthur J. Bidwill of River Rorest that he will seek the nomination for secretary of state. He was the nominee for secretary of state in 1936, a Democratic landslide year, and ran a good race against Auditor Edward J. Barrett downstate but was snowed under in Chicago.

Mineral, Ill., Nov. 6 [Special].—Mrs. E. C. Spudley, 74 years old, died this morning in her home after a prolonged illness. Mr. Spudley, two daughters, and a son survive.

EDUCATE PUBLIC ON RELIEF, CITY CLERGY IS URGED

Churches of Chicago and their pastors were asked yesterday by relief administrators to lead needed public education in relief problems. At a meeting held under Chicago Church federation auspices at Central Y. M. C. A., 19 South La Salle street, 200 pastors and relief administrators discussed the relationship of churches to relief. Charlotte A. Carr of Hull house, and Clara Paul Paige, director of the family service division of the Chicago Relief administration, asked the church federation to mail relief information to pastors periodically so they can present the facts to their congregations. Workers said that when the full effect of old age pensions and unemployment insurance is felt, 200,000 families can be removed from Chicago relief rolls.

In Divorce Court

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Audrey Brown and daughter, Barbara Ann, in court.

Her wedding anniversaries brought only grief to Mrs. Audrey D. Brown, 23 years old, she told Judge Rudolph Desort yesterday. She was married on June 9, 1934, to James J. Brown. And on their anniversaries in 1937, 1938, and 1939 he did his celebrating alone. Coming home intoxicated, he struck her on these three occasions, she said. The judge instructed her attorney, Harry X. Cole, to prepare a divorce decree. Mrs. Brown, who lives at 5046½ Washington boulevard, was awarded custody of her daughter, Barbara, 3 years old, and $7 a week for the child's support.

HUNTS CLOTHING OF SISTER, FOUND DEAD ON SHORE

The police were asked to search for the outer clothing and handbag of Miss Jennie L. Colman, 74 years old, whose body was washed ashore Friday near Chesterton, Ind., William H. Colman, a brother, said yesterday.

Miss Colman disappeared Oct. 27 from her home at 5339 Dorchester avenue, where she was last seen with $60 in her handbag, Coleman said. She had been upset when she was told she would have to move from the apartment where she had lived 13 years because of remodeling, her brother said. Miss Colman had been a Presbyterian missionary in India.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. today in the chapel at 123 North Northwest Highway, Park Ridge, with burial in Maine cemetery near Park Ridge.

World's Largest Sewage Plant Dedicated by City

The southwest treatment works, world's largest sewage disposal plant, was opened yesterday. The plant, located at 5900 Pershing road, took four years to build and cost $30,000,000. It is able to treat 400 million gallons of sewage daily and serves an area of 192 square miles with a population of two and a half million persons. At the dedication ceremonies were sanitary district and city officials. Mayor Kelly was represented by Loran D. Gayton, city engineer.

Morgan Wins 16 Firsts at Glen Cove Flower Show

Glen Cove, N. Y., Nov. 6 [Special].—J. P. Morgan, showing blooms grown in the gardens and greenhouses of Matinicock Point, his home on East Island in Long Island sound here, won 16 blue ribbons, three seconds, and three third awards with his 25 entries in the fall flower show of the Nassau County Horticultural society. The exhibition opened this afternoon on the Pratt estate. Morgan also won the president's prize for the largest chrysanthemum in the show and the Everett cup for the outstanding exhibit.

NATION WATCHES PENSION VOTE IN 2 STATES TODAY

California and Ohio Test Schemes at Polls.

Voters in California and Ohio will cast their ballots today on two old age pension plans which opponents call utopian, visionary, and ruinous. While citizens of several other states will be deciding more or less local issues with their ballots, the eyes of the nation will be on the outcome of the pension vote.

California will hold a referendum on a variation of the "ham and eggs" plan which was beaten by a narrow margin last year. The current plan proposes to give $30 every Thursday to unemployed persons over 50 years old.

In a last minute attack, Gov. Culbert L. Olson assailed the ham and egg plan as unconstitutional and a burden on the very people it is designed to aid.

New Levies Proposed in Ohio.

The Ohio pension proposition would guarantee incomes of $50 a month to single persons 60 years old or more and retired from gainful employment. Couples in the same category would get $80 a month.

The plan would be financed by a state income tax and a levy on high priced real estate. The Ohio Chamber of Commerce estimates it would cost $310,000,000 a year.

The elections in other states, while containing political implications in some instances, were regarded as chiefly of local interest. These states and the subjects before the voters are:

KENTUCKY—Both Republicans and Democrats closed their gubernatorial campaigns last night with victory claims. Democratic leaders predicted Gov. Keen Johnson would be elected by a majority of 120,000, while Republicans said Judge King Swope of Lexington would win by 35,000. United States Senators Alben W. Barkley and A. B. Chandler made radio appeals for Johnson, who campaigned largely on a defense of Chandler's administration. Johnson succeeded Chandler as governor Oct. 9 after Chandler resigned to take the senate seat of the late M. M. Logan. Judge Swope's campaign was based on attacks on the Chandler-Johnson régime.

Pari-Mutuel Plan Faces Test.

NEW YORK—Referendum on pari-mutuel betting at race tracks. New York has been the last stronghold of the old time bookmakers. Under the pari-mutuel plan, the state would receive a percentage of the money wagers. New York City will elect a new city council and 31 judges in the municipal area. There will be numerous local contests in which strength of the parties will be tested for the presidential campaign next year.

INDIANA—Election of officials in towns of less than 3,000 population, in which the prohibition question has arisen. Numerous dry candidates opposed to issuance of local liquor licenses have been nominated.

VIRGINIA—General election for state legislature and county offices, with some strife between factions headed by United States Senator Harry F. Byrd, critic of Roosevelt spending policies, and Gov. James H. Price, New Dealer.

Mississippi Slate Unopposed.

MISSISSIPPI—Judge Paul B. Johnson, Democrat, is unopposed for the governorship. A slate of statehouse officials and a new legislature, picked at the Democratic primaries, will be voted in.

PENNSYLVANIA — Mayoral election in Philadelphia and state-wide voting on a state Supreme court justice and three judges for the state superior court. Local option voting in 18 communities on proposals to relax blue laws prohibiting Sunday movies and Sunday sports.

NEW JERSEY--Election of state legislators, with Republicans seeking to keep control of the lower house and assured of a majority in the senate even if Democrats win all six seats being contested. State-wide referendum on proposal to issue $21,000,000 in bonds for relief.

There also will be mayoral elections in Detroit, Mich., San Francisco, Cal., and Cleveland, O., and city elections in various communities of Connecticut, Massachusetts, and Utah.

PHILADELPHIA'S STORMY MAYOR CAMPAIGN ENDS

Close Decision Expected at Polls Today.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 6. — This staid old city of brotherly love was filled with the cannonading of political warfare tonight as the hottest campaign for mayor in its history drew to a stormy end.

Tomorrow 700,000 voters will flock to the polls here to elect as mayor either Robert E. Lamberton, a former judge and the Republican nominee, or City Controller Robert C. White, running on a Democratic-Fusion ticket.

In a state-wide vote to fill a Supreme court vacancy and elect three Superior court judges, as well as in the purely local contests for county officials, the G. O. P. is expected to register a sweeping victory. However, here in Philadelphia the decision may be very close.

Cite Gov. James' Record.

The record of Gov. Arthur H. James, Republican, in cleaning up the mess of graft and waste left behind by the previous régime under Democratic Gov. George H. Earle is pointed to by Republican leaders as the reason for their rosy predictions of victory thruout the state.

In Philadelphia, however, beneath the smoke of ballyhoo and oratory the battle is a struggle for power between two formidable political machines. The ranks of the Republican organization are filled with city hall employés, while the Democratic-Fusion organization is manned by federal jobholders.

Democratic City Chairman John B. [Jack] Kelly, one time sculling champion, is predicting victory for White by 75,000 votes, while Republican City Chairman Jay Cooke is prophesying a clean sweep for his slate. Neutral sources believe the election will be decided by 10,000 votes either way.

Conditions Help Democrats.

Conditions in Philadelphia are helping the Democratic machine gain headway. All the municipal sins are heaped on the heads of the Republicans, who are now running the city thru the council and George Connell, acting mayor. Connell stepped in after the death of Mayor S. Davis Wilson, who was elected as a Republican, but swung over to the Democrats.

Controller White is charging that the city's debt of 577 million dollars is the highest per capita in the United States. The current deficit amounts to 20 millions. The municipal sewage system is broken down and injurious to public health. Vice and crime are running rampant.

In the biggest surprise of the campaign, the Evening Bulletin published by Robert McLean, broke a 92 year record for straight Republicanism by announcing its support of the Democratic-Fusion ticket.

Supporters of Judge Lamberton, whose personal reputation is unimpeachable, are recalling the scandals of the Earle régime to the voters. This argument is said to carry the most potency.

Independent Vote Is Key.

In his last minute appeal today, Judge Lamberton reminded WPA workers and relief recipients they could vote as they please tomorrow. He declared that in the last election "thousands of men and women on WPA and relief were given the brutal alternative of voting Democratic or starving."

This election in Philadelphia will hinge on the way the independent Republican vote goes. If it turns to the Democratic-Fusion ticket, the G. O. P. is sunk.

Registration figures give the Republicans an enrollment of 565,400 in the city, while the Democrats have 428,300. This Republican lead of 137,100 contrasts with the 83,797 G. O. P. excess over the Democrats in 1938.

Gov. James carried Philadelphia by only 9,689 votes last year, altho his state-wide plurality was 279,148. However, the low vote in the city was attributed to the efforts of Mayor Wilson for the Democratic state ticket.

PRESIDENT WILL VOTE TODAY IN LOCAL ELECTION

Hyde Park, N. Y., Nov. 6 [Special].—President Roosevelt spent a second day of a brief vacation at his Hudson river home today. He avoided official visitors, denied himself to the press, and gave himself up to enjoyment of the pastoral beauties of the countryside, taking a long drive in the afternoon.

Tomorrow, Mr. Roosevelt will vote in the local elections here. The Democratic party has yet to carry the President's home county of Dutchess since he became President and Republican candidates are expected to be elected tomorrow.

In addition to recording his choices for sheriff and town supervisor, the President will vote on a proposition to legalize pari-mutuel betting in New York state. He would not make known his position on this issue.

17 COUNTIES CAST VOTES TODAY ON BOARD MEMBERS

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 6 (AP).—The final 1939 Illinois election will be held tomorrow when the 17 counties under the commission form of government will each ballot for one member of the county board for a three year term.

Of the 17 counties, Democrats now have majorities on 11 of the three-man boards and the Republicans on six. Political control, however, will be at stake only in Randolph, Wabash, and Williamson counties, where the term of one of the two Democrats is expiring.

Other counties electing are Alexander, Calhoun, Edwards, Hardin, Johnson, Massac, Monroe, Perry, Pope, Pulaski, Union, Morgan, and Scott.

MAUREEN O'SULLIVAN.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 6 [Canadian press].—Film Actress Maureen O'Sullivan, in private life Mrs. John V. Farrow, may settle down in Vancouver to knit socks while her husband serves with the Royal Canadian forces. Farrow, an Australian, and a Hollywood director and screen writer, is here to join some branch of military service "I'm already knitting socks as fast as I can," said Miss O'Sullivan, adding that if her husband is accepted "I'll move up here with my baby and knit harder than I am right now."

Local Elections in 10 Lake County, Ind., Villages Today

Local elections will be held in 10 villages in Lake county, Indiana, today. In East Gary a spirited contest is expected among the Democratic, the Citizens, and the Independent parties to fill the posts of five village trustees and the combined office of village clerk and treasurer. The other villages in which elections will be held are Munster, Griffith, Highland, Schererville, Dyer, Schneider, Lowell, St. John, and New Chicago.

HIGH DENOUNCES ROOSEVELT RULE BY EXPERIMENT

Washington is the happy hunting ground of quacks and messiahs, Stanley High, former adviser to President Roosevelt, said yesterday in an address to the Commonwealth club at a meeting in the University club. High, who once collaborated with Roosevelt on campaign speeches and who later became an outcast from the brain trust, charged that the government is being run by experiments rather than experience.

Stanley High.

"All the prophets of the country have gathered in Washington to contribute their bit," he said. "The result is that we have too many schools of thought, too many lines of direction."

He also said that the New Deal has conducted an inquisition of American business. "In 1938 American business men answered 153 million compulsory government reports, probing into every aspect of their affairs," he said.

IT'S A DAY LOST, BUT BYRD STILL HAS HIS PENGUINS

Boston, Mass., Nov. 6 (AP).—Admiral Richard E. Byrd tonight estimated that 20 penguins had delayed his departure for Antarctica by approximately one day, so heavy was the response to his announcement that he wished to place the flightless birds in good homes before leaving on a south polar expedition. At his home, at his office, and at the navy yard dock, where the two expedition ships were loading, virtually nothing could be done today except turn away applicants.

This was before the public understood that Admiral Byrd valued each of the penguins at $150.

Some optimistic applicants arrived early, at the admiral's home, in two trucks, ready to carry off as many birds as possible, altho the birds are at a New York aquarium.

A Raleigh, N. C., applicant asked for two pair, adding: "My house is so hard to heat, I am sure the temperature would be ideal."

GERMANY TO GET SOVIET COTTON, OIL AND TIMBER

Nazis to Deliver 17 Ships as Part Payment.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 6.—THE TRIBUNE today learned some details of the Russian and German barter deal. In addition to 1,000,000 metric tons of fodder for German cattle which Russia is to deliver in two months, the pact provides that the soviet union send Germany 900,000 tons of oil, including oil from the Polish fields which the Nazi government turned over to Russia, 100,000 bales of cotton as well as timber, phosphate, flax, manganese and as much platinum as Germany can afford to buy.

Germany will pay for these materials with 17 ships now in Russian ports, equipment for two plants to produce synthetic gasoline from coal, heavy guns, airplanes, and equipment for six cruisers which the soviet navy wants. Germans expressed a conviction that all clauses of the barter deal will be carried out.

A large number of Japanese have arrived in Berlin. Many courtesies are being extended to them by the Germans who refused to disclose the purpose of conferences in the German capital.

War Dims Nazi Fête.

BERLIN, Nov. 6 (AP).—With quiet prevailing in the war on land and sea, official attention was diverted today to the anniversary celebration of Adolf Hitler's abortive Munich beer cellar putsch of 1923.

It has been traditional for Hitler to speak off the record on the night of each Nov. 8 in Munich's Buergerbrau hall to the survivors of the old guard who assembled there the night before the unsuccessful march to conquer Germany was staged.

This part of the program is to be retained Wednesday, but the traditional ceremony on Thursday, consisting of a solemn parade to two "temples" containing the remains of the men who fell during the putsch, has been canceled.

No Holiday This Year.

Munich, usually enjoying a holiday on that date, will work as usual Thursday and exercises will be limited to a simple ceremony of depositing wreaths on tombs of Nazidom's heroes.

[The revolt was quashed and Hitler, in April, 1924, was condemned to five years in prison. He was released in December, however.]

Orders creating "offices of trusteeship" in Poland were issued today by Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering as chairman of the council for national defense. This indicated that some form of government for German occupied Polish territories was being organized.

The immediate purposes of the orders were to "administer assets of the Polish state, regulate currency and credit systems and initiate economic measures."

Central Office in Berlin.

The central "office of trusteeship" is to be in Berlin, with subsidiary offices in Danzig, Posen [Posnan], Zichenau, Katowice, and Krakau [Cracow].

The hint of some forthcoming form of administration for all Polish regions occupied by Germans was seen in Goering's announcement that the Cracow regional office would have the authority of general government of those areas which it said remain to be "definitely fixed."

SEES NO THREAT TO JAPS IN BIG FLEET AT MANILA

SHANGHAI, Nov. 6.—Vice Admiral Koshiro Oikawa, commander of Japan's China sea fleet, today said he did not "wish to regard as a threat to Japan" the gradual strengthening of the American fleet based at Manila. His reply was in answer to a question whether the American action was related to Ambassador Joseph C. Grew's speech opposing Japan's new order in East Asia.

Admiral Oikawa said he believed the American Asiatic fleet was being strengthened because of the need of patroling American territory and of protecting American lives and property in the far east.

The admiral also denied that after 28 months of hostilities the Japanese navy was unable to secure adequate replacements and that its air fleet was living on "day to day" bomb supplies. He said he believed that the improvement in Russian-Japanese relations would not go as far as a nonaggression pact.

DIES ON STREET CAR.

John N. Olson, 70 years old, of 5934 Morgan street, died of a heart attack yesterday on a Halsted street car at 39th street. He retired in 1932 as a clerk in the county recorder's office.

For Misery from HEAD COLDS use MENTHOLATUM

Link them together in your mind!

ARE you at the mercy of a smitty, sneezy, smothery head cold? Why endure so much misery? A little Mentholatum applied in each nostril will soothe the irritated nasal membranes, check the sneezing, relieve the stuffiness, and help you to breathe more easily.

Also rub Mentholatum vigorously on the chest and back to improve the local blood circulation, and thus gain extra help in relieving cold discomforts. Rub it on the forehead and temples to allay headache and neuralgia due to colds.

Activity on the Western Front

French military sources announced that French artillery behind Forbach dominates the German industrial city of Saarbruecken. The large arrows point to salient which the French general staff said the Germans were trying to reduce. Inset map locates Forbach area in relation to rest of western front.

MOLOTOV URGES REDS ABROAD TO REVIVE ACTIVITY

Assails Britain, France and United States.

MOSCOW, Nov. 6 (AP).—Premier Molotov today outlined for soviet Russia an "undeviating" policy of peace which he said "is leading us to the ultimate victory of the soviet power" while capitalist countries "provoke the discontent of the masses" with imperialist wars.

In a speech to party members on the 22d anniversary of the Red revolution, the premier gave encouragement to party followers in the United States of America, Great Britain, and France. The governments of the 3 nations were singled out for attack.

Calls Neutrality a Mask.

Britain and France, he said, were deliberately prolonging the war with Germany to consolidate their "world supremacy" and thus "preparing new flames of anger against the capitalist power."

In an apparent reference to the United States he said:

"We also know that in the case of certain countries neutrality only serves as a mask to conceal their activities in fanning and extending the war from which they hope to make big profits at the expense, misery, sacrifice, and ruin of belligerent nations."

Molotov gave no hint that the soviet might supply military aid to Germany. On the contrary, foreign circles saw an indirect rap at Germany in a communist international manifesto, issued at the same time Molotov spoke.

No Mention of Supplies.

The manifesto said "Britain, France, and Germany are striving for world hegemony [mastery]."

Nor did Molotov make any references to supplies of raw materials which might be sent to Germany.

Passing an inferential dig at Japan with a reference to the "imperialist" war in China, Molotov said:

"We may rather expect that the present war in Europe and Asia will be turned into a new world slaughter of nations for the sake of preserving and consolidating world supremacy of the imperialist powers concerned."

Turkey's signing of a mutual assistance pact with Britain and France had created "serious problems," he said. Efforts to "drag some of the Balkan countries and certain Scandinavian countries, as well as other states, into the orbit of war is developing," he added. But the effort to spread the war met a check when Russia refused to get into it.

RUMANIA EXPELS CORRESPONDENT OF UNITED PRESS

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Nov. 6 (AP).—Ferdinand O. M. Jahn, who was United Press correspondent in Bucharest, arrived here today after being expelled from Rumania.

Rumanians said their government expelled him because of "official displeasure" over his dispatches. Jahn said no official reason was given for his expulsion. Jahn, Austrian born, now is a German citizen.

[The United Press said Jahn reported the Rumanian government press director told him informally that the government was displeased with his account of the 18th birthday celebration on Oct. 25 of Crown Prince Mihai (Michael). It said the dispatch referred to Mihai's "mild romance last summer with a commoner." The press director, it added, said the expulsion had no connection with Jahn's political reporting.]

COPENHAGEN MENACED BY DRIFTING MINES; 2 EXPLODE ON ROCKS

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 6 (AP).—Drifting mines torn loose from German fields during recent high winds reached the outskirts of the city today. Several rolled ashore on the Island of Amager, which forms the southern district of Copenhagen. Two exploded when they struck rocks 20 miles south of here, but no damage was reported.

Where German mines are operating.

Crews on land, sea, and the air battled against the advance of the mines. Scouting planes circling over the coast and in the Ore sound, between Denmark and Sweden, counted 150 mines. A derelict barrage balloon also drifted across Danish waters, dragging its cable and wrecking several telephone lines on northern Jutland.

BRITAIN COMPELS PACIFIST IN WAR OFFICE TO FIGHT

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Thomas A. Critchley, civil servant employed in the war office, today claimed exemption from military service as a conscientious objector.

Asked by a London court how he reconciled his war office work with his pacifist principles, Critchley, who is employed in the audit department, replied: "I don't feel I am assisting in prosecution of the war. If you think I am inconsistent, I am prepared to resign."

Even tho he said he would rather end his life than take that of another, the court refused to exempt the war office employé from military service. Critchley still has his job.

POLISH CONSUL GENERAL AWAITS TRANSFER ORDER

Dr. Waclaw Gawronski, Polish consul general in Chicago since 1934, will be transferred soon by order of the Polish ministry of foreign affairs in Paris. Dr. Karol Ripa, former Polish consul general in Pittsburgh and a former consul in Czecho-Slovakia, has been announced tentatively as Dr. Gawronski's successor. Dr. Gawronski, who joined the Polish diplomatic service when Poland became a nation 21 years ago, has not yet been told where he is to be stationed.

THREAT OF NAZIS TO SINK FLINT IS TOLD BY SKIPPER

Captain of American Ship Bares Experiences.

BERGEN, Norway, Nov. 6 (AP).—A threat by the German prize crew to sink the captive freighter City of Flint if her American sailors gave "any trouble" was disclosed today by Capt. Joseph A. Gainard, skipper of the vessel.

Capt. J. A. Gainard.

In a broadcast the captain, who is 50 years old, said the lieutenant commanding the prize crew told the Americans in good English that "If you make trouble, I will put you in your boats and sink this ship."

"This is a war measure," he quoted the officer as saying, "and whether any of us like it or not, I must carry out my orders."

May Sell Flint's Cargo.

The skipper did not refer in his story of the City of Flint's odyssey in northern waters to the next move for his ship. However, there were reports that the ship would sell the cargo which originally was destined for England.

An investigation of the City of Flint's case was made by Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, American minister to Norway, who talked with Capt. Gainard and his crew. She said discussions of the ship's next move will be continued tomorrow.

[A dispatch from Berlin said Germany appeared to be willing to let the City of Flint go on her way if Norway releases the interned Nazi prize crew.]

Capt. Gainard, in his broadcast, said he attempted repeatedly to contact the American ambassador in Moscow during the six-day stay of the City of Flint at the Russian port of Murmansk.

[In Moscow Laurence A. Steinhardt, the American ambassador, made repeated efforts to contact the crew at Murmansk. He charged the Russian government withheld its coöperation.]

Stopped by Flag Signal.

Gainard said the City of Flint was stopped Oct. 9 by a flag signal of a German warship [the Deutschland].

After the prize crew came aboard, the City of Flint was sailed by her own crew on "various courses" until Oct. 18 when the German prize crew blotted out all traces of American ownership and painted the name "Alf" on both sides of the bow.

"Canvas was secured on both sides amidship on which was painted the flag of Denmark," he said. "The Danish flag, however, was never flown."

The German merchant flag was hoisted Oct. 20—the day the ship first stopped in the harbor of Tromsoe, Norway.

Told to Drop Anchor.

Then followed the voyage to Murmansk and the return trip down the Norwegian coast.

While the City of Flint was sailing down the coast, Gainard said, a German merchant ship "which was ahead of us turned back to meet us, and, bridge to bridge, its captain shouted a message to the lieutenant aboard the City of Flint to anchor at Haugesund.

"After anchoring at Haugesund, a boarding party came aboard, removed the prize crew and stated that the City of Flint was free."

Store Windows in Glasgow Engraved with Swastikas

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Existence of an anti-Jewish organization in Glasgow, Scotland, was revealed today. Jewish business men reopening stores in the main shopping centers after the weekend found swastikas had been engraved in plate glass windows. More than 40 windows on one street alone were cut so deeply that all must be replaced. Glasgow police are investigating.

CLAIMS GERMANS RULE NORTH SEA WITH AIR FORCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 6.—Flying Lieutenant Hermann Buelow today told a gathering of foreign correspondents that "supremacy in the air is tantamount to supremacy on the seas," and asserted that Germany considers herself mistress of the North sea. He asserted British warships "no longer were in waters which we control—the Atlantic does not interest us, the Americans can watch that."

He said the German navy was unable to discover big British warships in the North sea after "five encounters with the German air force in which the Germans showed they held the upper hand." He said German long distance scouting planes attacked the warships Hood, Repulse, and Rodney in the North sea on Sept. 26. He said "the weather was ideal and we practiced dropping bombs without worry about the enemy's counterattack."

Lieut. Buelow asserted the Germans suffered no losses in that encounter nor in the one on Sept. 27. He also ridiculed British coastal defenses claiming he flew over them in a raid on the Firth of Forth "at an altitude at which I would not dare fly above the coast of my own country for fear of antiaircraft fire." He said the German planes were dropping bombs before the British antiaircraft units went into action.

U. S. SHIPS SEEK TRANSFER; DODGE WAR ZONE BAN

Approval Is Indicated by Maritime Board.

plication for transfer of registry, all of which were built during or immediately after the world war and are therefore rapidly reaching obsolescence.

"This new construction, which will total more than $25,000,000, will not be completed in its entirety until late in 1941 or early 1942."

The ships involved in the application are the American Shipper, American Banker, American Trader, American Traveler, American Farmer, American Importer, American Merchant, the President Harding, and the President Roosevelt. All nine vessels are owned outright by the United States Lines.

Connally Assails Law.

Senator Tom Connally [D., Tex.], one of the authors of the administration's purported cash and carry provision, which restricts trade with belligerents to cargoes paid for in cash in the United States and transported in non-American vessels, tonight assailed neutrality act restriction on American shipping as too drastic.

"The United States," Connally said, "is making the most tremendous sacrifice in its restrictions upon American shipping and American commerce in behalf of the preservation of peace that ever was made by any government in the history of the world.

"In view of these restrictions, it becomes vitally important for us to consider the effect of the embargo repeal act upon the American merchant and the general business and commerce of the people of the United States.

"There are 326 vessels of American registry, aggregating 2,150,000 gross tons, engaged in transporting passengers and dry cargo in our foreign trade. This does not include 75 American tankers aggregating 1,000,000 tons. About 130 combination passenger and cargo ships or about 800,000 gross tons must be withdrawn from present service."

New Travel Regulations.

The state department issued today three sets of regulations dealing with sections of the neutrality act with regard to the travel of Americans on belligerent ships, the collection of funds for belligerents, and the carrying of arms on American ships.

The regulations made it lawful for American diplomatic, consular, and military officials and their families to travel on belligerent ships if the public service requires.

In dealing with the travel of other Americans on belligerent vessels, however, the state department permitted travel only in what was roughly Atlantic coastal waters of the United States and in the Caribbean.

The area of the Atlantic closed to citizen travel would be bounded on the west by a line dropped from the Bay of Fundy at the southern tip of Nova Scotia [66 degrees west longitude] and on the south by a line from Cape Hatteras to Tangier on the African coast [35 degrees north latitude]. Also forbidden, without specific authorization of the secretary of state, would be travel on belligerent ships on other waters adjacent to Europe or its islands.

May Travel Outside Zones.

These definitions were taken to mean Americans could still travel on belligerent ships outside the danger area specifically defined. They could go, for instance, on a Canadian ship from Canada's west coast to the far east or on a British ship from New York to the West Indies.

The rules regarding the collection of funds followed precisely those already laid down under the neutrality act of May 1, 1937, which was superseded by the new act. Organizations collecting funds must have permission from the secretary of state to do so, must present satisfactory evidence of their efficiency, and must make detailed reports of their collections.

Secretary Hull ruled that arms which may be carried by American vessels were "such small arms and ammunition as the masters of these vessels may deem indispensable for the preservation of discipline aboard the vessels."

INSURANCE MAN DIES SUDDENLY.

David F. Butler, 52 years old, an insurance man, died suddenly of a heart attack last night while walking with his wife, Hannah, near 133 West Washington street. He was pronounced dead at St. Luke's hospital. Mr. Butler lived at 558 Washington street, Evanston.

THREAT AGAINST JAPANESE IS HIT BY VANDENBERG

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6 (AP).—Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] warned today against the making of "new threats of a one-sided, punitive embargo against Japan—too easily the first step toward war itself."

Vandenberg embraced the warning in a statement which followed closely a prediction by Chairman Key Pittman [D., Nev.] of the senate foreign relations committee that unless relations with Tokio improve before a commercial treaty with Japan expires Jan. 26, congress would enact the Pittman resolution empowering the President to embargo exports to Japan.

Vandenberg commented that "saber rattlers will not help at either end of the line." He said that "instead of erupting new threats" against Japan he suggested "a continuation of Ambassador Grew's judicial candor, plus a realistic, practical, common sense effort to find a give-and-take basis for a new treaty."

NAZI EMISSARY VISITS BULGARIA FOR SECRET TALK

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 6 (AP).—Franz von Papen, German ambassador to Turkey, arrived today for a conference with George Kiosseivanoff, Bulgarian premier.

Von Papen, who is returning to Ankara after a conference with Adolf Hitler following Turkey's signing of a mutual assistance pact with Great Britain and France, met with Jugo-Slav leaders in Belgrade yesterday in an unexpected visit. Members of the German legation explained merely that the ambassador arrived too late to catch a train for Istanbul.

At Ankara, where the Turkish national assembly was debating ratification of the mutual assistance pact, Rumanian Ambassador Vasile Stoica conferred for several hours with Turkish Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu. Stoica generally was credited with having asked Saracoglu to define Turkey's attitude should soviet Russia take steps to regain Bessarabia from Rumania.

BRITAIN CLAIMS HER NAVY HOLDS MASTERY OF SEA

Asserts German U-Boats 'Have Done Their Worst.'

LONDON, Nov. 4 (AP).—Great Britain laid new claim today to mastery of the Atlantic shipping lanes over German submarines and declared the Germans already have done their worst.

Expressing confidence in the ability of British escort vessels to protect cash and carry arms shipments from America, and admiralty spokesman said:

"Despite German boasting, the U-boats have been fairly mastered and many of them have been sunk. The task of the remainder is becoming increasingly difficult and dangerous."

List 55 Ships Sunk.

Official figures on losses of British merchant shipping since the start of the war listed 55 ships with a total tonnage of 238,795 as sunk. This was less than 1½ per cent of the total British merchant marine tonnage of 18,500,000.

[The German high command has asserted that Nazi submarines and bombers in the first eight weeks of the war sank 115 merchant ships—British, French and neutral—totaling 475,321 tons, in addition to 78,000 tons of warships. Britain on the same day—Oct. 28—placed her losses at 51 merchant ships, totaling 210,021 tons, exclusive of the warships Royal Oak and Courageous.]

Efficiency of the escort system was claimed after the week-end arrival at one port of 28 vessels in four convoys. They carried nearly 100,000 tons of food, as well as petroleum, ore, and lumber.

May Postpone Rationing.

Some politicians predicted that the supply situation would improve to the extent that the government could postpone rationing of butter and bacon until after Christmas at least. It had been announced for mid-December.

Parliament will argue the rationing plans this week and hear attacks on the present rationing of coal and coke. Gasoline also is rationed.

The official report gave this summary of shipping losses:

British—September, 37 ships, 155,636 tons; October, 18 ships, 83,159 tons; November, none; total, 55 ships, 238,795 tons.

French—September, 1 ship, 2,660 tons; October, 6 ships, 45,275 tons; November, none; total, 7 ships, 47,933 tons.

Gets All of Canada's Zinc.

The ministry of supply announced that the British government has arranged to purchase Canada's entire output of lead and zinc for the duration of the war after all Canadian domestic demands have been met.

Canada produces about $15,000,000 worth of lead and about $12,000,000 of zinc a year, the bulk of which is mined in British Columbia.

IDLE SHIPS LEAVE 100,000 BALES OF COTTON ON DOCKS

New Orleans, La., Nov. 6 (AP).—Approximately 100,000 bales of cotton were piled up at New Orleans and other gulf ports today as a result of cancellation of sailings to Europe through the barring of American flag ships from combat zones. At the same time American flag operators were confronted by the problem of what to do with the excessive idle ship tonnage.

Officials of the American Cotton Coöperative association said the cotton awaits delivery to France, and that probably little or no tonnage will be available to carry it for 45 to 60 days.

ITALY ADDS 3,000 OFFICERS TO LEAD NEW ARMY UNITS

Anniversary of Anti-Red Pact Ignored.

ROME, Italy, Nov. 6 (AP).—Premier Benito Mussolini added 3,000 lieutenants and noncommissioned officers to the army today to staff new troop units.

A communique yesterday said Il Duce had given military chiefs instructions for "preparing and amplifying army units."

Veterans Get Preference.

Mussolini ordered emergency recruitment of 1,500 lieutenants and 1,500 noncommissioned officers, preferably from among those with experience in the Ethiopian and Spanish wars.

Fascists said the new recruitments would help give the army its full fighting efficiency.

Ignore Pact Anniversary.

The Fascist press today ignored the second anniversary of Italy's inclusion in the anticomintern pact and there was no exchange of notes with the other signers.

Instead, Italian newspapers devoted columns to celebration of the Italian world war armistice anniversary and to Premier Mussolini's declaration that Italy was strengthening her forces for the future.

[Italy joined Japan and Germany in the accord against the comintern, the communist international, Nov. 6, 1937. Hungary and Spain joined later. A protocol then declared communism "continues to place the civilized world in constant danger of war." Since then, however, Germany has concluded nonaggression and friendship treaties with Russia and Japan has turned away from the Rome-Berlin axis.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 6 (AP).—Fireman Joseph W. Kaci, 25 years old, was crushed to death and three other firemen were injured today in a spectacular fire which swept a five story building causing damage estimated at $400,000. Kaci perished under a printing press which fell from the fourth floor to the basement. Twenty of the 150 workers, most of them women, employed in the building were trapped for a time when a fire escape ladder stuck at the second floor. Firemen reached them with a truck ladder. The blaze apparently was started on the second floor, which was occupied by a costume manufacturing company owned by the one time vaudeville team of Kolb and Dill.

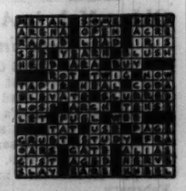
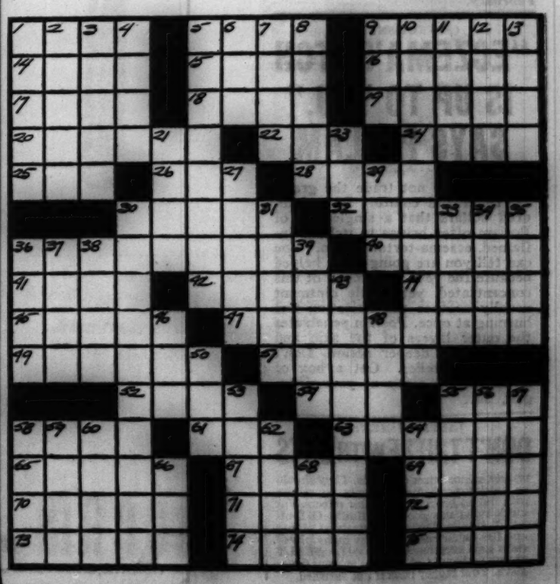
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED





ORDNANCE CHIEF WARNS: A GUN IN TIME SAVES NINE

Gen. Wesson Says Defense Job Far from Done.

The task of preparing America's army is far from finished despite the present extensive armament program. The country's industries, ordnance posts, and engineers must work with increased vigor to insure national safety.

These points were stressed by Maj. Gen. Charles M. Wesson, chief of ordnance for the United States army, when he spoke last night at a dinner meeting of the Chicago post of the Army Ordnance association in the Palmer House. The Reserve Officers association and Chicago chapters of seven engineering societies collaborated with the ordnance group in greeting Gen. Wesson.

Says Policies Require Backing.

"The Monroe Doctrine and the iron resolve of this country to avoid European brawls form the basis of our national policy," Gen. Wesson declared. "But a national policy of any kind is fatuous unless the nation is prepared to enforce it against all comers when and if an attempt should be made by others to violate it."

In time of war, Gen. Wesson said, raw recruits can be trained speedily to carry and use guns. But if those guns are not ready for use, then the recruit—no matter how well trained he may be—becomes pure "cannon fodder."

Need Hundreds of Millions.

"In July, 1939, the national defense program was stirred from its stupor by an activating dose of 50 million dollars for armament purposes," Gen. Wesson said. "Later congress voted an additional 120 million dollars. A few hundred millions more would be a small premium to pay for insurance of our national safety.

"Always remember that a gun in time saves nine. The job of preparedness is never finished. Reserve materials must be provided for a mobilized force of one million men."

Among the immediate tasks of the army's ordnance department, he said, is the construction of special machinery, such as powder making machines; the rehabilitation of arsenals which have been in comparative disuse since the world war decade, and procurement planning on a greater scale than ever before.

2 ORDNANCE UNITS TO BE ORGANIZED AT ROCK ISLAND

Rock Island, Ill., Nov. 6 [Special].—Orders for the organization of two ordnance companies to be trained at the Rock Island arsenal for duty in Panama have been received here from the army adjutant general, Col. Norman F. Ramsey, arsenal commanding officer, announced today.

One, the 20th ordnance company, will serve as a maintenance unit and the other, the 42d, will be an ammunition company.

Half the personnel of the new units will be made up of veterans in the ordnance division and half will be selected from among enlisted men in this vicinity, Ramsey asserted. The ammunition unit will include 85 men and the maintenance unit 49 men.

Two reserve officers will report to the arsenal for extended active duty in the training of the units.

Spends Afternoon Drinking Beer; Finds $2,500 Gone

Sometime between leaving his wife at church Sunday morning and his return home that night, Homer Mikewirth lost $2,500, he told the North Damen avenue police yesterday. He spent most of Sunday afternoon drinking beer in a tavern at 637 West North avenue, he said. The money, which he had received from the sale of stock, was in his overcoat pocket when he left the church and he thinks it was still there when he departed from the tavern. Mikewirth lives at 2217 Wilson avenue.

VILLAGE MAYOR LOOKS ON FROM SIDELINES AS FOES RUN SESSION

Mayor Thomas Collis Jr., and 540 spectators sat in the board room of the Forest Park village hall from 8 to 9 o'clock last night awaiting the arrival of four commissioners who, with Collis, make up the village board.

At 9 o'clock Collis declared the meeting adjourned and left the rostrum. The four commissioners, August Caocagno, Ben Hoffman, [illegible] Berliner, and Theodore Dannenberg, entered almost immediately with the village clerk, Louis C. Barnet. They held their own meeting, with Coacagno acting as mayor. Collis stayed among the spectators, listening as routine matters were discussed and voted upon. He recently demanded that Barnet resign.

"I'm still mayor and I'll fight to the finish," Collis said later. Collis and the commissioners were elected last April. One of the numerous points of village strife, it was reported, has been the gambling question. Collis recently ordered all gambling devices—even punchboards—prohibited. Collis, a milkman, receives no salary as mayor. Comissioners are paid by the month.

SCHOOLS EXCEED QUOTAS IN PILOT TRAINING COURSE

Instructors' Preparation Chief Problem Now.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

With actual flight instruction beginning in 86 institutions in 8 central states, it is apparent that college and university students have awakened to the advantages offered them in the government's civilian pilot training program. This statement was made yesterday by Capt. Ora Young, supervising inspector for the Civil Aeronautics authority here.

Capt. Young said that the chief difficulty at this time is in preparing civilian flight instructors for the carefully controled pilot training courses to be given under the CAA program.

Three specialists from the Chicago office and two other inspectors in this region are detailed to the preparation and rating of airmen who will instruct the students.

Larger Allotments Sought.

"Ninety-nine per cent of the schools in our district have twice to three times as many applicants as they will be allowed to train this year," said Young. "Most of these schools have petitioned Washington for increases in their student allotments."

The eight states in the CAA's 3d region are Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, and Kentucky. Capt. Young said applications exceed quotas in the following universities: Ohio State, Purdue, Indiana, Northwestern, Michigan State, Detroit, Minnesota, Illinois, and North Dakota.

Other schools which have an excess of student applications are Lake Forest college, North Central college at Naperville, Armour institute, Loyola university, and De Paul university.

Instructors Given Tests.

Capt. Young and Inspectors E. H. Briscoe and E. S. Hensley spent yesterday at Curtiss field at Glenview testing civilian instructors employed by Harold Darr, operator of the army and civilian flying school there, for their new special instructor's ratings.

"Our intention," said Capt. Young, "is to standardize the instruction. Our program of rerating the instructors is intended to be educational. We want to build up a standard type of flyer—a well rounded, completely trained pilot. We've never got such flyers out of civilian schools in the past.

"Our plant is not to have any one instruct who is not 100 per cent capable. At the same time we are not trying to take anything away from any pilot. If an instructor fails to meet the qualifications in a test we discontinue the test—we don't flunk any one. We will give such men a chance to repeat the test later, after discussing their difficulties with them."

The instructors whose tests were begun yesterday and will continue today are Bernard DeWitt, Dwight Morrow, Gus Palmquist, Carl Parker, Henry Jerger, and Warren Malvick. All will be given an oral examination, a written examination, and a flight test.

In the flight tests the inspectors assume the rôle of students and the instructors give an intensive course in theory of flight, the controls of an airplane, practice in operating airplanes, and methods of starting and warming airplane motors.

With the inspector in the student's cockpit, the instructor taxis out to the field, explaining proper methods of handling a plane on the ground, methods of making a take-off, and simple traffic rules. Afterward the instructor takes the plane into the air.

Demonstrates Flight Teaching.

Here he continues to exhibit his ability to teach flying by demonstrating climb, straight and level flight, turns, climbing and gliding turns, stalls and spins, and various training maneuvers such as "S" turns along a road, rectangular turns, chanelles, "lazy" eights, and precision landings from both 180 and 360 degree turns.

In making landings the instructors must demonstrate their ability to handle their craft by gliding from a height of 800 to 900 feet to alight within a 200 foot square drawn on the surface of the field. In the glide the instructor is not allowed to use his motor or to slip or skid the plane to lose height.

During the afternoon Fred Fagg, vice president of Northwestern university, and G. A. Maney, professor of civil engineering there, visited Curtiss field and conferred with Capt. Young. They announced they would send a telegram to the CAA in Washington asking that their allotment of 50 students for the school year 1939-'40 be increased by at least 30.

NAZI POSTERS URGE ARGENTINA TO TAKE FALKLAND ISLANDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 6.—A lightning offensive of Nazi propaganda—largely assuming the form of an anti-British onslaught—has been unleashed here.

Arrow locates Falkland Islands.

Thousands of posters demanded that President Roberto M. Ortiz take immediate steps to occupy the Falkland Islands which both Great Britain and Argentina claim. Simultaneously, a new afternoon newspaper appeared, attacking the railroads and other British owned enterprises. It also denounced the Argentinian press for printing American news agencies' war dispatches which were described as "colored."

A municipal law prohibiting booing or applause in movie theaters showing war films or activities of prominent politicians awaits the mayor's signature.

BRITISH FLYERS LEAVE CARDS AT NAZIS' DOOR: TINY BAGS OF COFFEE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 6.—Shortly before 7 p. m. tonight an antiair raid drill was held at the chancellery in Berlin. A huge bombing plane circled above Hitler's headquarters and numerous smaller planes could be heard. The most powerful searchlight ever seen in Berlin flashed across the sky. Near the antiaircraft guns on the roof of the chancellery soldiers could be seen drilling. Then in a few minutes blackness again enveloped the city.

This practice was held because the authorities wanted to convince themselves that everything is in readiness for any emergency. Hamburg last week was visited by British planes which were fiercely attacked by antiaircraft guns. None of the planes were brought down despite the heavy fire.

Reports from Hamburg said that the English this time, instead of dropping leaflets, dropped the tiniest bags of coffee holding just enough for a single cup with a note to the effect that the English had been there.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 PINTS A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Kidneys remove excess acids and poisonous waste from your blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

CANADA HOLDS POLISH LINER IN MORTGAGE SUIT

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 6 (AP).—The Batory, 14,000 ton Polish liner, was held today in an undisclosed port by a Canadian admiralty order resulting from a suit brought by her Italian builders.

The Gdynia-American Shipping Lines, owner of the three year old motor ship, was given six weeks to answer a writ asking payment of a mortgage of about $400,000. The writ seeks sale of the Batory unless the mortgage is cleared. Under a barter arrangement whereby it would be paid for in Polish coal, the Batory was built in Trieste, Italy. Poland's mines now are held by Germany and Russia. Five months' payment in coal were due when Poland fell.

Before the European war the Batory plied between Gotenhafen [Gdynia] and New York.

Lucey and Kamin Named as Assistants to Hodes

Patrick J. Lucey, former Illinois attorney general, and Alfred Kamin, former secretary of the Chicago chapter of the National Lawyers Guild and a member of the executive committee of Labors Nonpartisan league, have been appointed assistant corporation counsels, Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes announced yesterday. Lucey was elected attorney general in 1912 when Gov. Edward F. Dunne was elected. He has been city attorney of Streator two terms and mayor of that city for three terms. According to Mr. Hodes he has been a resident of Chicago for many years. Kamin ran for election to the state house of representatives from the 13th district on the Democratic ticket in the last primary and was defeated.

Oldest Mule in America Falls Dead in Barn Lot

Franklin, Ky., Nov. 6 (AP).—Old Kate, said to be the oldest mule in the United States, fell dead in a barn lot at Buford Chisholm's farm today. Chisholm, the owner, said Kate was 36 years old and had served the Chisholm family since 1909. The mule led the parade here on "mule day" last February.

FRENCH CAVALRY OFFICERS IN CITY TO BUY HORSES

Chicago Orders for Shoes and Grenades Reported.

The presence in Chicago yesterday of a purchasing commission of the French government brought to the central west the first effects of the arms embargo repeal.

Maj. Guy de Rouchefort of the French army reserves, head of the group, described himself at the Stevens hotel as the underchief of his government's missions in America. He takes orders from a superior in New York, he said.

Beyond this, however, Maj. De Rouchefort was reticent. Speaking English faultlessly, he stated his command of the language is so poor that it would be impossible for him to discuss his mission without his interpreter, who, most unfortunately, was not available.

Seek Horses for Army.

A quite different attitude was taken, however, by Rene Weiller, the French consul in Chicago. He declared that there is no mystery.

"The commission is in this country to purchase horses for the French army," Mr. Weiller said. "These men are all cavalry reserve officers. They also are visiting the horse and mule markets of East St. Louis, Ill., and Kansas City. [A Kansas City dispatch later in the day said French purchasing commissioners had inspected horses there.]

"The cavalry operations in the present war have not amounted to much, there is great need for horses behind the front. The winter weather soon will make the terrain in certain parts of the country impassable for trucks."

Big Chicago Orders Rumored.

Chicago military men who fought in France during the last war stated that horses might become of great importance to that nation. In the event of trouble with Italy, they said, horses would be needed in the Alpine passes to reach the plains of Piedmont.

Consul Weiller was asked about reports current in Chicago business circles yesterday, that France has placed an order for a million hand grenades and a million pairs of shoes with Chicago concerns. He said that so far as he knew, Maj. De Rouchefort's commission was here only to buy horses. The grenade order was said to have gone to a radio and refrigerator manufacturing concern which turned out grenades during the world war. The company denied that it is prepared to make munitions.

Buyers Active for Weeks.

French purchasing commissions have been active in this country for weeks, amassing materials to be shipped the instant the embargo on arms was lifted. France has advanced 5 million dollars to the United Aircraft corporation's Pratt & Whitney division and to the Curtiss-Wright corporation to construct new airplane motor plants.

Deals with other plane and motor manufacturers are reported to be under way. France has paid for 6,000 motors which are sorely needed. Larger orders are expected from the empire which admits the superiority, at present, of the Nazi air force.

Consul Weiller said last night that Maj. De Rouchefort's purchasing commission may be in the central west for several months.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In Sunday's metropolitan section the article on the New Trier Woman's Republican club said the membership was over 200. It should have been "over 2,000." Correct Constipation Before—Not After!

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of emergency relief. Why let yourself suffer those dull lifeless days because of constipation, why bring on the need for emergency medicines, when there may be a far better way? That way is to KEEP regular by getting at the cause of the trouble.

If it's common constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, a pleasant, nutritious, ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—goes straight to the cause by supplying the "bulk" you need.

Eat this crunchy toasted cereal every day—with milk or cream, or baked into muffins—drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Mississippi Negro G. O. P. Leader Shot from Ambush

Mound Bayou, Miss., Nov. 6 (AP).—Eugene P. Booze, 61 years old, Negro member of the Republican state committee, was shot from ambush tonight as he was leaving his office. His Negro chauffeur, Andrew Polk, 29, was less seriously wounded. Booze's wife is Republican national committeewoman. Physicians said Booze's condition was critical. Booze blamed the shooting on "political jealousy" and repercussions of the recent killing by officers of his sister-in-law, Stella Montgomery. She was slain when Booze summoned officers to prevent her from entering his home in defiance of a court order. Officers said she attacked them with a butcher knife.

BELGIAN MAYOR, HERO OF GERMAN INVASION, DEAD

Refused Premier's Post to Serve Brussels.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Nov. 6 (AP).—Burgomaster Adolphe Max, 69 years old, a Belgian national hero and bachelor mayor of Brussels for 30 consecutive years, died today of pneumonia.

Loved by the Belgians for his defiance of German invaders in the world war, he died shortly after Queen Mother Elizabeth visited him.

Adolphe Max.
[AP Wirephoto.]

Penknife Answers Gun.

Burgomaster Max took out his penknife and ceremoniously placed it next to the gun, thus beginning his resistance to the conquerors. His conduct resulted in his arrest and he was detained in a German prison until after the war.

Max escaped from the prison with a false passport written by himself.

Honors Heaped on Him.

When Max returned to Brussels a street was named for him, he was made a minister of state, member of the Royal Belgian academy and vice president of the Superior Congo council. The next year he was elected to the house of representatives. Honored by many foreign countries, he preferred to be known as Burgomaster Max. He declined a title offered by the king and in 1925 refused the premiership.

Max became the first Belgian member of the Brussels American club and an American flag was given to him. He decorated the city hall with it every Fourth of July.

New York, Nov. 6 [Special].—The thirteenth and fourteenth of a total of 60 Lockheed bombers being shipped from California for use in the European war were flown today to Floyd Bennett field from Atlanta, Ga. The bombers were knocked down immediately and crated for transport to pier 12, Stapleton, Staten Island, from which point they will be sent to England.

BELGIANS DENY NAZIS DEMAND SHOWDOWN ON NEUTRALITY STAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Nov. 6.—Responsible government circles tonight denied reports from Paris that Germany has demanded a neutrality showdown with Belgium. The reports were described as "pure invention." Government authorities at the Hague in telephone conversations said reports concerning threats to the Netherlands were equally unfounded.

THE TRIBUNE was informed that no note was received from Germany by either country on this subject. No cabinet meeting was held in Belgium today. King Leopold III, of the Belgians and his foreign minister, Henri Spaak, tonight were at the Hague, where they conferred with Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands. Official sources there said the king came to Holland to discuss "some aspects of the international situation" with the queen.

Officials here believed the reports Germany had demanded a neutrality showdown were launched to force the Berlin government to show its hand on reaction to British and French demands that neutral nations agree not to reëxport to Germany goods released from North Foreland. North Foreland is one of England's control system examination points.

[Paris dispatches yesterday said the Belgian cabinet met to consider a reported demand that Belgium remain neutral and refrain from calling for British and French aid if Germany decided to crash thru Holland, along whose border Germany has been reported massing troops.]

GANDHI BEGINS DRIVE TO FORCE INDIA'S FREEDOM

Britain Seeks to Pacify Hindus and Moslems.

BOMBAY, India, Nov. 6 (AP).—Mohandas K. Gandhi, Hindu leader, said today his followers had started passive resistance in India's constitutional crisis with the resignation of five provincial governments dominated by the Congress [Nationalist] party.

The Indian leader asserted, however, when en route from Delhi to Wardha last night, that "I will resist civil disobedience [active resistance] unless I find the country prepared for that."

Acceptance of the resignation of the Congress ministry of Orissa was announced today. The Congress party is protesting Britain's refusal to consider constitutional reforms for India until after the end of the European war.

Viceroy Seeks Unity.

Previous to Gandhi's action the British viceroy, Lord Linlithgow, expressed "disappointment" over the necessity of invoking "emergency measures" in many Indian provinces and undertook new efforts to bring together the country's rival factions.

Lord Linlithgow disclosed last night that he had offered cabinet positions to leaders of the Congress party and the Moslem league in some of the provinces in which governments have resigned.

The offers were refused, the viceroy said, but he expressed his determination to try again to achieve unity of the divergent factions.

In a broadcast address Lord Linlithgow called upon the country to "remember my difficulties and give me credit for an earnest good will."

Moslems Oppose Elections.

The viceroy released copies of letters he had addressed to Gandhi, Rajendra Prasad, president of the Congress party, and Ali Jinnah, Moslem league leader, urging coöperation with the existing central government for the duration of the war.

Prasad replied that his party stood by its original demands that a national assembly be called to frame a new constitution giving India immediate independence.

Jinnah said his talks with Congress party leaders had confirmed his conviction that they were unwilling to give the Moslems a fair deal, and added that he was opposed to a national assembly election because of the overwhelming Hindu majority.

CITY'S PROGRAM OF SUPERROADS HELD VISIONARY

Prospects of Completion Termed Remote.

[This is another of a series of articles by The Tribune's automobile editor analyzing the city's $205,000,000 superhighway plans in the light of 10 years of study of the subject.]

BY HAL FOUST.

In addition to a $32,000,000 Congress street program which would be a gross waste of the motorists' gas tax funds, the city's engineers have mapped 54.5 other miles for so-called comprehensive superhighway construction, with a total estimated cost of $205,000,000.

Aside from a northwest route, 10 miles to be built by the Cook county highway department at a cost of $30,000,000, this comprehensive map has included $143,000,000 worth of work with remote prospects of completion in this generation.

The aldermen who are asked to approve the Congress street job are given similar improvements for their wards on paper only.

Notes Would Be Issued.

The funds in sight for superhighways consist of $60,000,000 in notes to be retired half from Chicago's and half from Cook county's gas tax revenue in the next 20 years. These notes, authorized by the general assembly this year, can not be marketed until the legislation is validated by a Supreme court decision in a test case yet to be started.

A route included in the comprehensive plan with little expectation of its being built is a second west side highway, west from the north end of the central business district. There will be little need for two west side supers for many years.

Charles E. De Leuw, the city's consulting engineer, estimated that the initial usage of his Congress street proposal will be only about 50 per cent of its capacity. He is probably right.

There has been loose talk from the city hall that the state was going to build a southwest route. A telephone call to Springfield brought the information from Ernst Lieberman, chief highway engineer, that his department is not making any surveys or studies for Chicago superhighways.

Another Route Mapped.

On the De Leuw map is a superhighway from the southwest corner of the central business district, south from Congress street on the approximate line of Franklin street to about Cermak road, then southwest in the approximate line of Archer avenue to Damen avenue, and then due south to Garfield boulevard.

The cost is estimated at $29,000,000. The route would not serve the Chicago airport and, even with a $10,000,000 extension to the Southwest highway at Western avenue, would not connect with any important rural highway.

Another southwest route, planned for the distant future, would be a depressed roadway in the I. and M. canal bed. Also on the west side in this dream scheme, is a superhighway in Damen avenue from the northwestern route at about North avenue to the southwestern route at about 31st street.

Listed for immediate construction, without provision suggested for finances, is a $16,000,000 extension of the outer drive from 51st street to the Indiana line at Indianapolis boulevard.

It would use the lake front south to 79th street and from there to 106th street would consist of a depressed roadway behind the water front industries. This would serve the heavy traffic from south Chicago and from around the foot of Lake Michigan.

Also on the initial construction list and also without provision for finances is a $3,000,000 extension of the north side's outer drive from Foster avenue a half mile north to Bryn Mawr avenue. For the remote future is a $14,000,000 extension to Evanston.

North shore suburbs do not want large volumes of thru traffic on their lake front, attracting traffic to local east and west streets serving as feeders. They prefer a thru north and south route farther west, on Green Bay road or Skokie road.

The county's northwest job may give the north shore suburbs what they want. It will connect with Cicero avenue, the continuation of Skokie road. There also is some likelihood that it will follow the north branch of the Chicago river and the north shore channel as far as Bryn Mawr avenue before turning due west. It then might easily be reached from the west section of Evanston by way of Green Bay road and McCormick road.

Northwest Extension Planned.

Completing the list of future work in the comprehensive plan is an $11,000,000 extension of the northwest route to the city limits.

In review, it may be seen that the Congress street and the northwest routes are the only jobs definitely projected. For the west side, some observers believe that Mayor Kelly has been stuck with the Congress street location as a result of terms exacted by Secretary of Interior Ickes in a federal grant of $18,000,000 for the subway system. It is planned that gasoline tax money shall purchase Congress street right of way to be shared by subway lines.

If the Congress street route is to be built, some engineers have suggested that a modification on the eastern end might multiply its usefulness. So that all traffic would not be pinched at a bottleneck at a Canal street grade intersection in front of the post office, an arm of the super might be built in Ogden avenue from Congress street to Union park, thence east in Randolph street. According to studies by engineers for the Chicago Plan commission and for the Chicago Motor club, Randolph street is today's axis of a central business district that has been moving north for 30 years.

BROKEN ROMANCE SLAYER GUILTY; GETS 199 YEARS

Yorke Bodden, 23 years old, a painter, yesterday was convicted in Criminal court bench trial of the murder of Miss Anne Riermaier, 25, 3911 North Marshfield avenue, sister of his former sweetheart. Judge John Sbarbaro sentenced him to 199 years in prison.

Miss Riermaier's sister, Florence, testified she was present in the state's attorney's office on Sept. 2 when Bodden confessed the murder. Bodden blamed Ann for breaking up his three year romance with Florence.

Bodden was charged with having killed Ann on Aug. 11 while she was riding in his automobile, bound and gagged her body, and then stuffed it in a culvert near Volo, in Lake county. In his own defense, Bodden denied striking her, but said she struck her head when the car door fell open.

FINLAND PLACES MAIL AND WIRE MESSAGES UNDER CENSORSHIP

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Nov. 6 (AP).—Facing the critical stage in negotiations with soviet Russia, Finland will tighten her defensive measures still further tomorrow by placing a censorship on mail, telegraph messages, and telephone calls to foreign countries. The danger of spy activities, a government spokesman said, is the reason for the censorship.

The government still has taken no action on new instructions for the Finnish delegation which is waiting in Moscow to resume conversations at the Kremlin. The soviet is demanding, among other things, a naval base on the southern coast of Finland and border revisions to "protect" Leningrad.

TAVERN OWNER'S WIFE SHOT; HER HUSBAND SOUGHT

Mrs. Bessie Murawski, 34 years old, 4132 South Mozart street, was shot in the shoulder and left lung early today in the tavern of her husband, Albert Murawski, 40, at 4029 South Euclid avenue, Stickney. She was taken to the Berwyn hospital in a critical condition.

Sergt James Allegretti of Willow Springs county highway police, said that Mrs. Murawski was shot by her husband. Police immediately began a search for him. They said he was last seen in his car near Harlem avenue and Lake street.

According to witnesses, Mrs. Murawski dropped into the tavern to visit her husband. They went to a backroom. Loud talking was heard, then two shots followed. Murawski ran out of the back room, with a revolver in his hand, and ordered the patrons to stand back. "I'm going to give myself up," he shouted, according to police. Then he disappeared in his car. Albert Murawski Jr., 15, son of the Murawskis, told Lieut. Charles Baley of Stickney that his parents "were always quarreling."

New Models Seen by 113,000 in 3 Days.

BY HAL FOUST.

Attendance at Chicago's 40th annual automobile show last night had reached 113,000 for the first three days of the nine day exposition. This was an increase of 18 per cent as compared with last year's show.

A 10 per cent gain in car sales also was reported over last year. The industry is watching attendance and sales figures as a barometer of the business that might be expected from the 1940 models.

Evening crowds are filling the International Amphitheater, Halsted and 42d streets, scene of the show. The afternoon seems to offer the best opportunity for looking over the new automobiles. The show will be open daily from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m. through next Sunday.

A Hood Lifting Holiday.

The patrons are climbing in and out of the display models, fingering the gear shift levers mounted on steering columns, slamming doors, peering under radiator hoods, and opening luggage compartments. It's a free and easy holiday for those with curiosity about the 1940 vehicles, and this apparently includes a multitude.

A typical visit to the auto show includes a stroll through the new car displays, attendance at the big stage show, which is given daily at 3:30 and 9 p. m., and an inspection of the trailers, trucks, accessories, civic exhibits, gimcracks, and gadgets that fill the first floor.

Truck Has Power Hoist.

New this year among the special equipment exhibits is a sleeper that can be installed in any sedan. It can be made up as a single bed for alternate use by two drivers on a long trip or it can be made up as a double bed with blinds over the windows for camping.

New this year among the trucks, with their assortment of bodies for various special duties, is a tail gate with a power hoist to raise it from the level of a loading platform to the level of the truck floor.

Trailers are still attracting attention. Their interiors are more elaborate than ever.

The Chicago park district, the Illinois highway department, and the secretary of state and the city clerk have booths. There's also a special postoffice branch for this temporary headquarters of the automotive world.

HIGHER N. Y. COURT HALTS 10C TOLL FOR USERS OF HIGHWAY

New York, Nov. 6 [Special].—By a 4 to 1 decision, the Appellate division of the Supreme court in Brooklyn this afternoon reversed a decision by Supreme Court Justice Lee Parsons Davis in White Plains and granted a temporary injunction restraining collection of the 10 cent toll on the Hutchinson river parkway in Westchester county.

Ever since it was put into effect, Aug. 21, collectors of the toll have issued receipts to motorists enabling them to seek return of the payments if the charge were declared unconstitutional. On Oct. 15 collections were reported as totaling $100,250 since Oct. 21.

The Hutchinson river toll was imposed after Connecticut authorities had levied a similar toll on motorists using the connecting Merritt parkway.

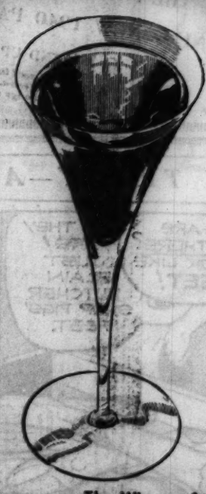
Reports MARGARET BOURKE-WHITE
"You'd be surprised how many of my guests select wine"

Many of America's most active people are among her guests
Famous Margaret Bourke-White has taken her candid camera to the earth's far places—brought back brilliant photographic essays on Czecho-Slovakia, Hungary and Russia. In private life she is Mrs. Erskine Caldwell. A frequent hostess, Mrs. Caldwell says, "The busiest people are the ones who need to relax, and they are also the ones who wish to be moderate. So I offer my guests a choice of beverages, and I notice more and more today select wine."
Hosts and hostesses from coast to coast are discovering it. These strenuous days, they find, growing numbers of their guests prefer wine.
Women entertaining in the afternoon remark about it. With cakes or with wafers and cheese, so many wives now like just a glass of fragrant, amber Muscatel.
Evenings, too. Hosts find that before dinner more and more men favor a cocktail-size glass of Sherry. Or a larger glass of ruddy, delightfully tart Burgundy complementing the main dinner course. Or later in the evening, a fine, mellow Port which you savor like a connoisseur—slowly sip, linger over.
That is why more people choose wine as their beverage today than ever before. They have found out that wine goes best with leisurely enjoyment—with genial, unhurried living.
Try it at your house. When next you have guests in, offer them an opportunity to choose wine—as Mrs. Erskine Caldwell does. For accepted wine serving ideas see your retail dealer.
ALL YOU NEED TO KNOW TO SERVE WINE
There are many varieties, but only two main types of wine...(1) Wines made "dry" (not sweet) especially to serve with meals, called table wines; (2) Wines for use with desserts or with refreshments, called sweet wines.
A famous "sweet" wine is Sherry, rich and nut-like in flavor. Serve before dinner or any time in the afternoon or evening, in a cocktail-size glass. (California Sherries are made dry and medium-dry too.)
One of the most enjoyed "table" wines is bright, ruddy Claret. Pleasantly tart, California Claret brings out the delicious flavor of good food. The usual serving is half the size of a water goblet.


The Wines of California: In the most discriminating households the good wines of our own country are usually served today. Actually more than 9 out of 10 hosts and hostesses are choosing wines grown here. The wines of California for example, are grown to strict standards of quality. True to type. Well developed. Inexpensive.

BUILDERS OF CHICAGO (18)

By CALEB

ROMANCE can claim no finer business exemplar than the subject of this sketch. For to this one man credit must be accorded for the civic creation of State Street—the inception of that street's largest single store—the establishing of a hotel without peer in the West—and modern merchandising principles that proved their worth a full generation in advance of his time.

Born at Rensselaer, N. Y., in 1826, he came to Chicago at the age of 26, and opened a drygoods store in the then fashionable trading district of Lake Street. But from the beginning his policies were in radical opposition to those of his competitors. Patrons who wished to do so could exchange their purchase, or have their money refunded. One could even examine goods at home before buying. Pronounced impossible and suicidal, as merchandising practices, they somehow worked; for, a decade later, Potter Palmer's was considered "the largest mercantile business in the Northwest."

Selling out his interests to Marshall Field and Levi Z. Leiter, Palmer next gave himself over to European travel; and on his return decided that the shopping future of Chicago lay, not on Lake Street, but in the eventual development of State Street—at that time little more than a narrow plank road. He purchased a solid mile of its frontage, widened it by twenty-seven feet, and proceeded to erect a row of buildings which included the original eight-story, 225-room Palmer House at State and Quincy Streets.

The latter structure was finished and opened on Sept. 26, 1871—just thirteen days before the great Chicago Fire. That holocaust, when it came, completely wiped out his new hotel and all his other buildings. His entire fortune was swept away. . . . But not his credit!—for such was his record that a life insurance company immediately advanced him the largest individual loan ever recorded to that date, $1,700,000, and a few years later he was again on financial bedrock.

A new $2,000,000 Palmer House was erected, embodying the best architectural ideas of Europe as well as America, whose sumptuous successor of today worthily perpetuates the name. In addition to serving three years on the South Park commission, Potter Palmer was one of the incorporators of the Board of Trade; one of the three creators of the Interstate Industrial Exposition of 1873; and also a director of the World's Columbian Exposition. At his death in his palatial Lake Shore residence, May 4, 1902, he had left for an enduring memorial not only a great career as merchant, realtor and builder; but above all else, lasting fame as founder of the nation's greatest single shopping district—State Street.

WIRE SHUTDOWN REPRIEVE WON BY ANNENBERG

Grant 3 Day Stay Pending Injunction Ruling.

M. L. Annenberg's two racing news distributing companies went to federal court yesterday and won an extension until Thursday noon of their right to transmit race results over interstate telephone and telegraph wires. Their clients number most of the bookmakers in the country.

However, an order by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson on injunction proceedings may be entered before that time, either permitting the communications companies to continue the service indefinitely or ordering them to transmit no further racing information over Annenberg wires.

Weymouth Kirkland and Hammond E. Chaffetz, counsel for the Annenberg interests, had come before Judge Wilkerson on injunction proceedings. They seek to restrain the American Telephone and Telegraph company and the Illinois Bell Telephone company from withholding service from the Nationwide News Service of Delaware, Md., and the Illinois Nationwide News Service, Inc. William J. Campbell, United States district attorney, and Thomas J. Courtney, state's attorney, were named joint defendants.

Judge Suggests Delay.

Judge Wilkerson proposed that service by the utilities remain in status quo until he disposes of the injunction proceedings. Kenneth F. Burgess, counsel for Bell Telephone, agreed, and Campbell did not object. The agreement was reached just 35 minutes before the Bell company was scheduled to have suspended service.

The Thursday deadline was adopted because the A. T. & T. and Western Union Telegraph company had previously announced they would stop service then as a result of a joint warning from Courtney and Campbell last Wednesday to desist or face prosecution.

Judge Wilkerson then began to hear arguments by Attorney Chaffetz on the petition for injunction. Chaffetz emphasized that the Nationwide services are engaged only in the distribution of news.

Denies Lottery Charge.

"The grand jury which returned lottery indictments against the Annenberg intrests last August heard this entire matter," he said, "but did not choose to indict the utilities companies. The federal district attorney has no authority to order people to do this or that on threat of going before the grand jury. He has no power over the grand jury, which is responsible only to the court.

"The demand on the utilities is based solely on the contention that handbook betting is a lottery and that the Annenberg companies are operating in furtherance of a lottery. If this interpretation is wrong irreparable harm would be done both to the Annenberg companies and the utilities.

Call Bets Private Transactions.

"The information carried over the wires of the news services is available to any one and can be bought by any one. The bookmakers don't even need it for their business. They could obtain the same information by telephoning any newspaper."

Chaffetz contended that what the bookmaker does is separate and apart from the activities of the news services. He stated:

"The bookmaker makes his own bets with his customers and we have nothing to do with that. All we do is supply him news of what goes on at the race track.

"The bookmaker even imposes limits on what he will pay the customer. It is a transaction solely between him and his client. The customers do not compete for one prize, as in a lottery, nor does the news service transmit any list of prizes."

Cites Federal Bureau's O. K.

The federal communications commission, in a preliminary report to congress a year ago, said that dissemination of racing news violated no federal law, Chaffetz added.

"Do you believe that the federal court has any right to interfere with the state's attorney on activities he thinks criminal?" asked Judge Wilkerson.

"I think so, because this is a matter of interstate commerce, which is entirely outside his jurisdiction," Chaffetz replied.

Attorney Kirkland said in his argument:

"I hold no brief for the bookmakers. So far as I am concerned, they could cut off all the phones to the bookmakers. But I do object to taking off our long wires that stretch across the country, supplying news to the newspapers, who certainly are engaged in a legitimate business."

In adjourning the hearing until today, Judge Wilkerson said he would first hear from counsel for the Illinois Bell and the A. T. & T. companies. Jacob Shamberg and Francis Clamitz, assistant state's attorneys, who represented Courtney, said their arguments would be brief, as did Samuel Klaus, special assistant United States attorney general, who will argue for the federal district attorney. It is possible that Judge Wilkerson may rule directly after the arguments are completed.

File Pleas in State Court, Too.

Counsel for the Annenberg interests, before the federal court hearing, filed similar injunction proceedings in Superior court against Illinois Bell Telephone company, Courtney, and Campbell. Judge Donald S. McKinlay continued the hearing pending action before Judge Wilkerson. The action in the state court was taken as a precaution in case the federal court held that it had no jurisdiction over Illinois Bell or Courtney.

Annenberg's attorneys said they would file still another suit in federal court against the Western Union Telegraph company, Campbell, and Courtney.

JURORS FREE YOUTH IN FATAL SHOOTING OF ILLINOIS FARMER

Toulon, Ill., Nov. 6 (AP). — Edgar Junior Lodwick, 16 years old, was acquitted today of a charge that he murdered John W. Rude, a bachelor farmer of Duncan, Ill., last June 21 in order to steal his automobile. A Stark county Circuit court jury of eight men and four women returned the verdict after an hour's deliberation.

The youth and his brother, Clifford, 13, who had gone hunting, testified Edgar shot at a brown thrush with a rifle and accidentally hit the farmer, who was trimming a hedge.

State's Attorney Marshall Faw contended the shooting was done deliberately to steal the car. Clifford testified they took the car to the home of their grandfather, William Sallee of Swan Creek, because they were frightened on discovering that Edgar's shot had killed the farmer.

The youths also are named in an indictment charging burglary and larceny of the car and a gun. A murder charge against Clifford was nol prossed Saturday.

SECRECY URGED ON NEW JURY IN GAMBLING QUIZ

Unusual instructions as to the necessity of maintaing secrecy and exercising initiative in returning indictments or refusing to do so were given yesterday by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson in swearing in the November federal grand jury. Twelve women were on the panel of 23.

"You should not return an indictment just because some one tells you to," Judge Wilkerson said. "The district attorney is not the grand jury. You are, and you act on your own responsibility."

United States Attorney William J. Campbell announced at the same time that he would seek further indictments for income tax evasion against gamblers. The evidence apparently was unearthed during the investigation which led to the indictment of William Skidmore, alleged fixer and collector for the gambling syndicate, on a charge of tax evasion. Judge Wilkerson's instructions regarding secrecy by the grand jury were believed to pertain to a leak which led to the flight of William Johnson, Skidmore's partner, before he could be subpenaed to testify in the Skidmore case.

POLICE STATION OPENS NEW ROOM FOR BOYS' CLUB

Richard Noe should have written this story. Unfortunately, however, Richard, who is 12 years old and lives at 910 Wolfram street, can't use a typewriter. He can, however, tie you a fancy knot, make fire without matches, identify any number of birds, and do other astonishing things. He learned them all at the Sheffield avenue police station.

Richard is a charter member of the station's branch of the Chicago Boys' club, which Capt. Thomas J. Duffy started three years ago. Last night every one in the neighborhood turned out to celebrate opening of new quarters on the third floor. The boys already had been using the second.

The Club's Advantages.

Richard joined because a friend brought him over. He is now a member of the Wolf patrol, troop 147, of the Boy Scouts. He likes the club, he says, because:

"We gotta lot of games. We can enjoy ourselves and keep off the streets. You can come in here and play and save yourself a lot of trouble. We got a radio club, a tap dancing class, a library, music, boxing, and acrobatics. This used to be a Municipal court, but Capt. Duffy started a club. He's swell! Gives us tickets to Riverview and to lots of shows."

A small member in the new uniform of the drum and bugle corps suddenly began flapping his arms under the cape. He uttered a shrill scream and ran across the room, to leap on one of the older boys.

"He likes to pretend he's an eagle," John Matthews, 854 Wrightwood avenue, said.

The eagle identified himself as Henry. He said his last name was Herman, and that he was 5.

Many Volunteer Helpers.

The club is run with Chicago Boys' club leadership and with many volunteer helpers. The scoutmaster, for example, is August Vandermeir, 2514 Sheffield avenue, a motorman.

Capt. Duffy says a recent survey showed that juvenile delinquency has dropped 50 per cent in the district since the club began. Business men, realizing its worth, recently donated $447 in a few days to aid in fixing up the new third floor. Parents raised $170 for new uniforms. Ask Capt. Duffy how he happened to start the club.

"I had two kids and lost them," he says.

KANKAKEE RESIDENT DIES.

Kankakee, Ill., Nov. 6 [Special].—Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow for Arthur Dellibac, 69 years old, former proprietor of a Kankakee confectionery store. He died yesterday in St. Mary hospital. He leaves a brother, Dr. L. R. Dellibac, of Kankakee.

5 ARE CONVICTED OF PLOT TO HIDE 2 RACKETEERS

New York, Nov. 6 (AP).—A federal court jury tonight convicted Carl Shapiro, four other individuals, and two corporations of conspiring to harbor Jacob [Gurrah] Shapiro and Louis Buchalter, better known as Lepke, when the now imprisoned garment racketeers were fugitives.

Convicted with Shapiro, brother of Jacob, were Nathan Borish, Samuel Smith, Philip Kasakova, Florence Dwyer, and the Raleigh Manufacturers, Inc., of Maryland, and the Raleigh Manufacturers, Inc., of New York, an affiliated company. The jury recommended extreme clemency for Miss Dwyer, secretary-treasurer for both organizations.

The government charged the defendants aided Lepke and Jacob Shapiro during their flight from federal justice in 1937. They face prison terms of six months to two years each and fines up to $10,000 each.

JUDGE DONOGHUE OPENS GAMBLING CASE HEARING

Judge Frank E. Donoghue yesterday started hearing gambling cases in the South State Street court. He succeeded Judge Stephen S. Adamowski, who was transferred from that court in what was described as a routine reassignment of Municipal court judges.

Seventeen alleged gamblers arraigned before Judge Donoghue demanded a jury trial and eight others were granted continuances. Judge Donoghue announced that defendants would be entitled to but one continuance.

POLITICS BEHIND PRISON BREAK, DICKINSON HINTS

Governor Orders Inquiry by Attorney General.

Jackson, Mich., Nov. 6 [Special].—Gov. Luren D. Dickinson suggested today that an attempt of six convicts to break out of the southern Michigan prison here yesterday was motivated by politics. The convicts killed an inspector of guards who attempted to stop them.

The governor, thru his legal adviser, Emerson Boyle, ordered Attorney General Thomas Read to investigate the break, in which three convicted robbers fled a mile and a half away from the prison before they were caught and three others were seized on the prison grounds.

Gov. Dickinson's suggestion was considered as an implication of an attempt to take pressure off Marvin L. Coon, warden of the northern Michigan prison in Marquette, from which four convicts escaped on Sept. 25, taking Coon and three others along as hostages. The state corrections commission is considering a recommendation for the removal of Coon.

Miner Says Inquiry Is Welcome.

"I wouldn't want it said that I have any suspicion about the Jackson break," said Gov. Dickinson. "The idea that some one friendly to Coon engineered the break came up in conversation, and it is an idea which might be considered."

"The break is certain to be regarded in a political light by the public," Boyle added.

John W. Miner, chairman of the state corrections commission, which has general supervision over all state prisons, scoffed at the governor's suggestion.

"The governor is in error," said Miner. "There is no criticism of Warden Harry L. Jackson nor his assistants. There is nothing to support the political theory and the attorney general is welcome to investigate. In fact, Warden Jackson and I will welcome an investigation."

Desperate Convicts at Marquette.

Marquette prison is known as the Alcatraz of Michigan because the most desperate, long-term convicts are housed there.

Yesterday's break was the first major trouble in Jackson prison in 20 years, whereas Marquette has had major trouble every few years.

The prisoners in yesterday's escape plot are: Paul Lawman, 33 years old; Jack Sullivan, 35; George Bodie, 28; Sam Sawaya, 26, and Leo Thifault, 24, all serving long terms for robbery; and Malcolm Stokes, 28, a rapist. Guards originally asserted that Stokes shot and killed Fred Boucher, 54 years old, inspector of guards, during the attempted getaway, but today Sawaya admitted he did it.

All six prisoners were arraigned in the warden's outer office this afternoon before Municipal Judge Arthur W. Wiggins on a charge of first degree murder. All stood mute. Preliminary examination was set for Nov. 15. The penalty for murder in Michigan is life imprisonment.

MOTHER TURNS IN SON FOR QUIZ ON ROBBERIES

A young man accused of taking part in several robberies in North Shore suburbs was turned over to the Willow Springs county highway police by his mother yesterday. He is James Kreusch, 19 years old, 2030 Schiller avenue, Wilmette. His cousin Robert, 20, 1734 Forest avenue, Wilmette, and David Cochrane, 26, of 516 Green Bay road, Kenilworth, also are in custody in connection with the robberies.

Cochrane and Robert Kreusch were arrested by Lieut. George Le Grue early Sunday after a car used in a holdup of a restaurant at Willow road and Skokie boulevard had been traced to Cochrane. When they named James Kreusch as an accomplice, police went to the youth's home, but his mother, Mrs. Agnes Kreusch, promised to notify them when he returned.

Yesterday James came home. Mrs. Kreusch called the police and they arrested him. "He's never been in trouble before and I want to do what's right," she said.

KICKED AND SLUGGED BY BANDIT.

Anthony Kramer, 32 years old, 1921 Washington boulevard, was kicked and slugged early yesterday by a colored bandit who became angry when he discovered Kramer had no money. The attack occurred on the elevated station at Damen avenue and Lake street.

KONKOWSKI FILES APPEAL; WOMAN JURY LAW BASIS

Frank E. Konkowski, former alderman of the 26th ward, and his former political aid, Stephen Idzikowski, think they might have had better luck if women had served on the grand jury which indicted them for conspiracy to sell police jobs.

Their attorney, Grenville Beardsley, filed a bill of exceptions yesterday in the Criminal court, listing several reasons why their convictions and sentences of one to five years in prison should be set aside. One of the reasons is that no women were on the grand jury.

Judge William J. Lindsay granted Beardsley until Jan. 7 to take his appeal to the Appellate court. The attorney said he expected a decision in February. Konkowski and Idzikowski have been free on bond since their conviction last July.

ST. CHARLES BOYS SAY THEY PREFER CELLS IN PONTIAC

Captured Fugitives Talk; Two More Caught.

State's Attorney Charles A. O'Connor of Kane county yesterday began his investigation of the St. Charles School for Boys by questioning five of the 13 inmates who escaped last Wednesday. Two of the fugitives, armed with a pistol, were captured yesterday, making a total of ten caught.

O'Connor demanded that the unwalled institution furnish him with a list of all employés. He said he expects to call most of them before the grand jury, which will act in regard to crimes committed by some of the inmates after their escape.

Supt. William Harmen replied that he must have the approval of A. L. Bowen, director of the state department of public welfare, before he will provide employés' names.

"Mr. Bowen had better give his consent, because I'm going to get the information I need, one way or another," the state's attorney said.

Charges He Was Kicked.

All the youths questioned by O'Connor declared that they would prefer Pontiac reformatory or a state prison to St. Charles because of beatings. Two who may have their wish fulfilled because of their latest crimes said that for this reason they would be glad to be convicted.

"If I get out again I'll be sure to steal something so I won't be sent back to St. Charles," said Robert Smith, 18 years old.

Superintendent Harmon, informed of the youths' complaints, branded them falsehoods. He pointed out that the escaped prisoners were experienced.

"It is typical of boys who are reluctant to admit that they have been at fault," he said. "When the self-protective motive is at work it often takes the form of counter-charges. There have been a number of instances where an inmate said he would rather be in the Pontiac reformatory, but when his challenge was taken up, he quickly changed his mind."

Smith and the others told of a "Dipsy Dooble gang" of guards who do "clean up duty" when a cottage father reports he is having trouble with the youths in his care. These guards then beat all the boys in the cottage, O'Connor was told.

Two Tell of Squatting Exercises.

Leo Moore, 20, colored, said that a guard nicknamed "Killer" [later killed in an automobile accident] took delight in striking him whenever he was within reach and in forcing him to do squatting exercises for punishment.

Leonard Hudzinski, 17, said a guard struck him while he was doing squats. He arose and flung his fist at the guard, who then knocked him down and kicked him in the face so that he was in the hospital for 11 days, Hudzinski said. This guard eventually was discharged for kicking another inmate.

Russell Crump, 20, colored, showed marks he said were inflicted by beatings. He said his only protest was against "lickings" which were undeserved.

"I'm going to see what can be done to improve this condition, if it exists," O'Connor told the youths. "But when you go back there I want you to spread the word around that there must be no more escapes."

There have been 76 escapes this year.

Yesterday's recaptures were of Joseph Sullivan, 18, of Belvidere, and William Baker, 20, of Kankakee. They were seized in an abandoned cabin three miles east of the Illinois river near Beardstown. Deputy Sheriff Gus Campbell went there after receiving information from a neighboring farmer who had noticed the youths for several days.

Sullivan had an unloaded automatic pistol in his pocket when the deputy sherig walked in. He refused to tell how he had obtained it. Both fugitives denied they had committed any crimes, however.

They said they had been led to the cabin by Vernon Mayes, 18, of Bluff Springs, which is near Beardstown, on Saturday. On Sunday Mayes hopped a west bound freight train, they said.

We thought you'd like it, but S-A-A-Y!

Hit of the Auto Show? Why, this 1940 Buick is the Biggest Hit in Our History, with Introductory Period Sales topping All Previous Highs, bar none!

YOU'LL pardon us if we seem a little overwhelmed.

We thought we had a winner in our 1940 Buick—thought you folks would like it almost as much as we do.

But s-a-a-y—even we didn't expect a reception such as Chicago has given this Buick.

Salesmen hardly had time to learn price information before you walked in—droves of you—with cash in hand and firm demands for delivery right now!

So in the first seven weeks of our new model year we've sold two 1940 Buicks for every one new car we sold in the same period last year!

Actual sales for our Chicago zone area totaled 6044 cars last time we tallied them—November 1—and they're still rolling in.

But even those figures don't tell the whole story.

For one thing they don't show the smiles of solid satisfaction you see on the faces of new Buick owners.

They don't reflect the instant decision with which people buy—how sure they are, after one swift survey, that this is the car they want no matter what the others may have to offer.

For most of these people have bought on Buick style, Buick room, Buick finish and appointments—mighty few of them yet know how really big a bargain they got because they haven't had time to learn about all of the 72 improvements that make this car new all over!

Some of them even still think we're kidding when we tell them this micro-poised Dynaflash engine is smoother than a wrist watch.

But they'll find out.

So will you, when you've driven a Buick awhile.

The important thing is that the best buy's Buick by popular agreement—and right now it's selling at prices that make it something to grab up while the grabbing's good.

Only car in the world with all these features

SLASH DEMANDED IN DEPARTMENT OF CONSERVATION

Lund Seeks $689,000 Budget Cut.

[This is the ninth of a series of articles analyzing by departments the $57,000,000 reduction in state spending proposed by Representative Lund.]

Jobs as "investigators" are regarded as among the most juicy political plums in the state department of conservation, Representative Arnold L. Lund [R., Riverside] said yesterday in explaining why he urged a 47 per cent decrease in its $1,478,120 appropriation.

The largest proportionate increase since 1933-'35 is found in salaries and wages, approximately $250,000, Lund said. His recommendations affect mainly pay rollers and their expenses.

Jobs Highly Regarded.

"Where does all the mony for increased salaries and wages go?" asked Lund. "My study convinced me that the fact that there are 125 investigators and inspectors on the pay roll, compared with half that many six years ago, explains it.

"These 'investigator' jobs are highly regarded by the average Chicago precinct captain. They find it possible to conduct investigations of downstate fish and game without leaving Cook county."

Not only must the taxpayers stand the cost of these salaries, but also the expense of additional automobiles, Lund said. Travel expense has been multiplied five times since 1933, from approximately $40,000 to $200,000, he said.

Reductions Urged by Lund.

"Again in this appropriation is found an item of $25,000 for so-called contingencies," said Lund. "Such items never are explained to the legislature, but no doubt are found useful by free spending department heads."

Appropriations for the two year period which started July 1 and the reductions urged by Lund follow:

	Appropriation.	Cut proposed.
Salary of director	$ 12,000	$ 2,000
Salary of asst. director	8,600	2,000
Salaries and wages	579,120	296,000
Office expense	25,000	10,000
Travel	200,000	140,000
Operation	14,000	14,000
Repairs	75,000	.....
Contingencies	25,000	25,000
Improvements	95,400	.....
Fish hatcheries	120,000	50,000
Maint. of game farms	250,000	150,000
Other items	74,000	.....
Totals	$1,478,120	$689,000

Lund, who operates several suburban motion picture theaters, said he has been criticized on grounds that he is a probable candidate for state office in the 1940 election.

"This is not true," he said, "because at the present time I believe I can best serve the people in the place where I am. This analysis was prompted because I am sincerely convinced the state is wasting money and it is my duty as a legislator to do what I can about it."

'ARRAIGN JERSEY OFFICER IN MAIL FRAUD CHARGES

New York, Nov. 6 [Special].—Lieut. Col. Leo E. Gaffney, N. J. National Guard, a member of the staff of Gov. A. Harry Moore, was arraigned in federal court today on charge of conducting a million dollar mail fraud. He was held in $4,000 bail.

Four other individuals and two corporations also are charged in the indictment with participation in the alleged fraud. Bench warrants were issued for Harry I. Pitney of New York City, Frank Ware of Garden City, N. Y.; Medford H. White of Wilmington, Del., and Willard R. Jeffrey of Dunmore, Pa. The corporations indicted were Bankers Industrial Service, Inc., which controls three banks in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Delaware, and Hitz & Co., 39 Broadway, brokerage firm accused of having marketed the stock of the first firm.

Assistant United States Attorney Boris Kostelanetz asserted he had evidence indicating that Gaffney, as president of Bankers Industrial, had diverted some $200,000 for the purchase of a yacht, fur coats, jewelry, etc. Investors included school teachers, physicians, attorneys, business men. One investor allegedly lost $130,000.

'LOUISIANA PREXY TOO ILL TO PLEAD GUILTY IN COURT

Baton Rouge, La., Nov. 6 (AP).—An attack of nervous indigestion today halted appearance of Dr. James Monroe Smith, former president of Louisiana State university, in District court here. He had announced earlier thru attorneys that he would plead guilty to four charges of forgery and embezzlement of university funds.

The Question.

Are our courts too lenient with young criminals?

Where Asked.

Michigan avenue.

The Answers.

John A. George, 174 East Chestnut street—I don't think they're any less lenient than those in other cities. Sometimes it's better to give a boy a break than to be severe. They usually come out of a reformatory as hardened criminals.

Fred Herman, 60 East Walton street—If the courts have been sending young criminals back to their old environments, I'd say they have been too lenient. It would be better to send them to a genuine correctional institution.

Miss Nora Young, 70 East Walton street—It's not a question of leniency, but what's best for the boy. If the young criminal is put back in the environment that made him a criminal, then the courts have been too lenient. Each case varies.

Miss Evelyn Marshall, 1204 Oakdale avenue—I can't see what good it does to be lenient with a young criminal if he goes back to the same bad habits. There should be some way to keep first offenders from becoming repeaters.

S. L. Eisler, 6233 Blackstone avenue—I don't think so. The courts are doing a fair job. It doesn't pay to be too tough on the young offender. If he goes to a reformatory he usually comes out a hardened criminal. It all depends on the boy.

2 UNDER ARREST IN LOTTERY CASE; HUNT 12 OTHERS

James H. Van Natta, a retired Chicago police lieutenant, was arrested in his home at 3926 North Monticello avenue by federal deputy marshals last night on a warrant seeking his removal to Boston, Mass., in connection with an alleged $20,000,000 lottery racket. He was locked up at the Summerdale station, where many of his old police friends now work. He will be taken to the United States courthouse today.

The lottery racket case was exposed last week thru a secret indictment naming 74 men and women. Fifteen were from the Chicago area, including another ex-policeman, Ernest Daliege, and Abraham F. Zimmerman, known as the "lottery king."

One was arrested last week, and the 14 others were expected to surrender yesterday. Only one, Thomas Sheehan, a former pugilist, did. Then Marshal W. H. McDonnell ordered the 13 others arrested. Van Natta was the first seized. Police are still seeking the remaining 12. Commissioner E. K. Walker is to hear pleas for and against their removal to Boston to face the indictment.

3,812 New Liquor Licenses Are Issued for Quarter

City Collector Louis Rixmann announced yesterday that 3,812 regular liquor licenses and 31 special permits have been issued for the six month period which started last Wednesday. During the preceding period 9,100 regular and 87 special licenses were issued. A special license permits cabarets, night clubs, and all night restaurants to serve liquor until 4 a. m. on weekdays and 5 a. m. on Sundays. It costs $700. The regular license permits operation until 2 a. m. on weekdays and 3 a. m. on Sundays and costs $400.

PLAN IS DRAFTED TO CUT PENALTY ON REALTY TAXES

Suit Expected to Pave Way for Reduction.

Taxpayers who pay their delinquent real estate levies within two years may obtain a reduction of half of the penalty payments due for the years 1928-'32 under a plan announced yesterday by Arthur Sullivan, attorney for County Treasurer John Toman.

Sullivan said that a suit which is expected to pave the way for the plan's application to all taxpayers who owe for the years 1928-'32 will be filed in Circuit court today or tomorrow. The suit will be filed by an individual taxpayer who owes back levies.

Bureau to Fix Payments.

It will petition for the reduction, which, according to the plan, will be granted for the years 1928-'32 on the condition that the taxpayer clears up all other real estate back taxes and penalties by paying them up in instalments within two years.

The instalments will be worked out between the taxpayer and the county bureau on tax collections. Instalments would run for a year, 18 months, or two years.

Judge Harry Fisher, in whose court the suit will be filed, has indicated he will coöperate in the plan by granting the reduction. The state's attorney's office then will move to vacate the decree. This motion will be continued indefinitely, so the case will remain open to enable other taxpayers to seek similar reductions without filing separate suits.

$5 Fee Is Planned.

Taxpayers would be able to obtain the reduction by paying a $5 filing fee to the clerk of the court provided they cleared up all back taxes by paying instalments to the collection bureau.

Legislation passed in 1933 gave the Circuit court power to grant 50 per cent reductions on tax penalties for 1928-'32. Heretofore, however, each taxpayer has had to bring a separate suit, and the expense has exceeded the possible reduction in many cases.

Toman yesterday began mailing refunds to more than 175,000 real estate taxpayers who protested their 1934 tax bills. The refund will amount to approximately $900,000.

Sam Brin, who was arrested Saturday in Cincinnati on bail bond racket charges, was locked up at the detective bureau last night after he had been brought here by policemen from the state's attorney's office. Brin had been a fugitive for several weeks since he and Judge Eugene L. McGarry of the Municipal court were indicted on a charge of conspiracy to take false acknowledgements of bail bonds and to obstruct justice. Brin is also under indictment on charges of forging the signature of a professional bondsman to seven bonds.

BLEACHED HAIR BANDIT PUTS HIS FATE UP TO JUDGE

Hubert Heintz.

The fate of a robber of good family, who first resorted to a stratagem to support his denial that he was a bandit, then admitted his guilt, and finally turned state's evidence against his two lawyers, whom he accused of arranging his trick to escape identification, was placed in the hands of Judge James F. Fardy in Criminal court yesterday.

The state, condoning the trickery practiced by the robber, Hubert Heintz, 31 years old, son of a Winnetka broker, informed Judge Fardy that it approved probation. Heintz has pleaded guilty to robbing the Household Finance company branch office at 3150 Lincoln avenue of $62.50 on Nov. 4, 1938.

Judge Fardy said he would rule on the probation motion Nov. 16. Edward A. Fisher and Francis J. Kennedy, former assistant United States attorneys now in private practice, were acquitted Oct. 27 by a jury on charges of conspiracy to obstruct justice. They denied Heintz' charge that they had arranged for him to bleach his dark hair to escape being identified in the robbery. Judge Fardy dismissed the remaining indictment against Fisher and Kennedy, charging them with being accessories after the fact of robbery.

FINANCE HEAD IS INDICTED BY KANSAS CITY JURY

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 6 (AP).—A. L. Darby, city finance director, was indicted today by the Jackson county grand jury on a charge of embezzlement by an officer. He was freed on $2,000 bond.

The indictment, returned after the jury's investigation of city finances under the rule of Boss Tom Pendergast's machine, charged that on May 29, 1937, Darby, as finance director, aided and promoted the disbursement of $7,501.50 of the city's water department funds into the city manager's emergency fund. It was charged Darby knew the city manager had no just or legal claim to water department funds.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike for another cause those whom they actuate to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second the arts of influence on the other."—From the Farewell Address.

BETTING ON THE HORSES.

Mayor La Guardia came out in opposition to the proposed constitutional amendment, voted on in today's New York election, to legalize the pari-mutuel betting system at race tracks. He concedes that the change would be less hypocritical than the present arrangement, in which betting on the horses at the track is illegal but not punishable. This evasion, which neither permits nor prohibits, has led to the widespread belief, to which Mr. La Guardia referrred, that betting at the tracks is legal.

It isn't legal, but the gamblers are allowed to get away with it, which is just about the solution made in most American regulation of what the law, presumably representing the conscience, regards as an evil and most people regard as a desirable and fascinating excitement, even when not profitable.

The objection to making one form of race track betting a lawful as well as a permitted business for the professionals, altho risky for the citizenry, is that the people who lose shouldn't have stripped themselves of their money in that way and that it is therefore on many counts bad social practice. The problem is an old one. Every large community and most small ones have it. The habits of the majority conflict with what the same majority will permit to be written in the law. People will not insist that their gambling instincts be recognized by their lawmakers. They prefer to have laws which do credit to their social feelings and then so far as possible they will forget the laws. In such a conflict of precept and practice there are bound to be absurdities, altho some of the by-products are not absurd to the persons who profit from them, and the damage to the integrity of law enforcement is hardly comic.

Illinois legalized pari-mutuel betting at the track because, for one reason, the state takes a percentage of the money and finds it a neat profit. When Mayor Kelly wanted to license the illegally conducted bookie business in this city, he found that altho pari-mutuel law did not overstep the proprieties the recognition of the bookie business would. He thought it wouldn't be as crooked if licensed, but other people told him that the results would be worse. Anyway, it couldn't be done and, altho every so often the raiders chop the bookies' furniture, apparently the joints flourish undiminished in numbers.

Mr. Courtney, the state's attorney, had a tally of many hundreds of chopped up bookie joints to his credit, but now he has joined the federal district attorney in obtaining an injunction to keep the same bookies from getting the wire service upon which their operations depend. Whatever may be the moral of that, it's apparent that the bookie business thrives under the ax.

Our moral complexities were summed up recently by a Cook county jury which acquitted some accused bookmakers because the jurymen and women could look out of the windows and see the buildings of a race track where gambling was legal.

THE TOPHEAVY NAVY.

We in the United States can now stop laughing at those stories of Japanese warships that turn turtle. The brilliant minds of our chair-warming admirals in Washington have made a long stride toward duplicating that possibly apocryphal performance.

One rear admiral has in consequence been assigned to command a toy fleet in a model basin, and another to amuse himself in a research laboratory. The reason is that a dozen destroyers, costing several million dollars apiece, have been found to be topheavy.

They are topheavy because they were designed by one independent bureau in the navy department, which turned the plans over to another bureau for construction. That outfit added from 80 to 100 tons of extra gadgets and armor in the building process, with the result that the ships' center of gravity was raised about one foot.

This is far from being the first incident of its kind in the navy. There was a flurry over defective battleships thirty years ago. The headless organization of the navy department that is responsible goes back beyond the era of modern battleships to that of wood and sail.

The construction and maintenance of the United States navy is carried on by eight independent and often mutually jealous bureaus. Each may report directly to the secretary of the navy. The only persons with legal authority to coördinate their efforts are the secretary and assistant secretary. The latter are civilian political appointees, frequently innocent of naval knowledge. We once had a secretary, from Indiana, who expressed surprise on learning that ships were hollow.

Many times efforts have been made to end this chaotic system and subject the bureaus to centralized control. Theodore Roosevelt tried it at the same time that he established the general staff in the army. From their padded armchairs in the navy bureaus the rear admirals checkmated him, aided by congressmen recruited thru social flattery and navy yard pork. More recent attempts have met the same fate. The present system provides a maximum of fat shore assignments in the delightful atmosphere of Washington society, and the rear admirals are not going to let go of it, whatever may happen to the navy.

The present proposal to put some control over this blundering burocracy may, therefore, be taken with a grain of salt. President Roosevelt has been dancing the war dance since his Chicago bridge speech in 1937, but he has done nothing to get the navy ready to fight. The Democratic majority in congress shares his responsibility. It has voted billions for ships, but has done nothing to see that the money was spent competently. It will not be spent competently until the topheavy burocracy that builds topheavy ships is put in its place.

A YARDSTICK BITES THE DUST.

A spell of dry weather has completed the unmasking of the motives of President Roosevelt, Senator Norris, and the other fellow travelers of socialism who have sunk more than half a billion dollars of tax funds in the Tennessee Valley authority.

Legally, TVA is a navigation and flood control project. That, of course, was only an advanced post, to be occupied by the legal skirmishers during the court battles. It was recognized at an early date, of course, that navigation and flood control, legitimate functions of the government, were the real by-products; that the primary interest of the TVA sponsors was hydroelectric power, and the legal activities merely camouflage to conceal the real cost of the power the President falsely labeled a yardstick.

Now water levels in the TVA pools have fallen to a stage where the hydroelectric stations are incapable of supplying the market that has been built up or expropriated from private utilities. TVA has had to resort to steam plant generation to supply that market.

The TVA protagonists' second line of defense has been shattered. TVA was no more a project to develop hydroelectric power than it was a project to improve navigation and provide flood control. It was, purely and simply, a project to put the government in the power business, where it has no constitutional warrant to be, and where the incompetence of political operation will lead it inevitably to failure. All the talk of navigation, flood control, and by-product power was a mere smoke screen to convoy this unconstitutional project past the courts.

The first requisite of a power supply is that it must be available when customers need it, the year round. Such a supply is called prime power. Power which is available intermittently is surplus power. It is naturally cheaper. The utility can get for it only the low rates that a customer will pay on the understanding that he can have it only when it is available.

Hereafter the TVA will be justified in classifying as prime power only that portion of its hydroelectric power that is available the year round. The rest is surplus power, unless there is added to the cost of hydroelectric generation the cost of maintaining and operating during low water periods the old and expensive steam generating plants that serve as standbys.

The so-called TVA yardstick has been a product of fraudulent bookkeeping since it was first produced. The cost of the hydroelectric dams was written off for the stimulation of nonexistent navigation and the prevention of trifling flood damage. The necessity of steam generation, if TVA bookkeeping even approached the standards of commercial honesty, would complete the demolition of the phony yardstick.

THE NATIVE MAY NOT RETURN.

Al Capone, having satisfied the criminal penalties for his failure to split with Uncle Sam the fabulous profits of murder, bootlegging, vice, and gambling, will step out of jail in a couple of weeks. Al apparently intends to bask on his island at Miami, at least until the government succeeds in attaching it for his unpaid taxes. This will be all right with Chicago, and it will probably be healthier for Capone. He will find Florida warmth more salubrious than Chicago heat.

If he were so indiscreet as to return he would not find the old town much changed. Liquor is legal now, to be sure, but the other rackets are still thriving, and thriving under the direction of the same boys who were running them when he left eight years ago.

The returns are somewhat more modest, but they are ample, and they are kept coming in with far less resort to murder than formerly. While a certain amount of murder is necessary to police the industry, it is always commercially undesirable. It gets the public to talking.

The mob's loyalty is on a strict cash and carry basis. The boys have a good thing, and all they want now is to be let alone. The reappearance of their old generalissimo would get the public to remembering things. If such a calamity threatened it is reasonable to suppose that Capone's old pals would liquidate the cause as quickly as possible.

Editorial of the Day

OUR RUGGED ELDERS.

[Birmingham Age-Herald.]

If you are 65 or older, that is a pretty good sign in itself that you are "strong" and "tough." Such is the assurance of Dr. Elliott C. Cutler, head of the department of surgery of the Harvard medical school, and, of course, a highly authoritative voice on such a subject. He has found that men and women who have passed the "breakdown age," which comes between 40 and 60, can withstand serious surgical procedures.

Which recalls how often one may read of persons in the 70s and 80s rallying and recovering from serious illness and operations. Lots of these folks are really tough fibered in body and spirit. They can take it. They can take many things that some far younger people cannot stand.

With such psychological encouragement as now comes from Dr. Cutler, new strength should be added to many of our elders. We hope it is. The rest of us not only are devoted to and in personal need of them in many obvious ways, but we desperately need the rugged proof they offer that mere human beings can withstand even modern life and plenty of it—and what's even more, like it, with all its struggles.

A NEW WORD ON THE AIR.

A new adverb is being foisted upon the American language by radio sports announcers. It is "inthere" for "in," and apparently the intention is to make the act of entering seem portentous. "Inthere" is a dreadful place where mighty athletes are mangling and maiming one another, and to go "inthere" is to become a superman. Last Sunday we heard an announcer of the Bears-Green Bay game, when describing replacements, use "inthere" five times in one sentence.

* * *

About 2 o'clock in the afternoon is the time we go "inthere" at the Tribune Tower.

* * *

Whenever a layman has said that the climate is getting milder, the experts at the weather bureaus have been derisive. But at long last they admit it. This is a moral victory of the highest importance for millions of plain citizens.

* * *

Now that the U. of C. Maroons have returned from their educational journey to Virginia, we hope that they will enlighten their publicity department and various sports copy desks on the following points:

The former home of President Monroe near Charlottesville [Albemarle county] is called Ash Lawn and not Oak Hill. The former home of President Madison [Orange county] is called Montpelier and not Oak Hill. The estate where President Monroe lived as a gentleman farmer after his retirement [Loudoun county] IS named Oak Hill. . . . And the score was not 60 to 0, but a mere 47.

We'd like to know why professional football teams fail to score freely against college all-stars, but run riot against their own kind.

A GIRL SMILED.

"Write a poem for me," she said,
A pleading smile upon her lips,
And did not know, for such a smile,
That men have gone to sea in ships;
That lines have flowed from a thousand pens
And battles raged and gold changed hands,
That men have died or lived in vain
At the merest breath of a maid's demands.

"Write a poem for me," she begged,
And had her eyes not been so blue
The words might not have flown so swift,
Nor meant as much nor been so true . . .
But smile she did, and for that glance
The verse to her I gave—O then,
Reward was mine a thousandfold

An Opie Read Story on R. H. L.

When Lucy Page Gaston, the anticigaret reformer, came to Chicago, the reporters escorted her to a number of supposedly infamous places, including the old Press club. There she spied Richard Henry Little [R. H. L.], sprawled out in a chair with most of him hidden under a table. He was puffing a coffin nail.

"Young man," shrilled Lucy, "you will never grow up tall and straight if you continue to suck those awful things! Don't you want to be tall and straight?"

R. H. L. stared at her for a moment, then drew himself up to his gangling 6 feet 7 [or maybe more], took a final puff, and said meekly:

"Yes, ma'am, I certainly do; I certainly do."

Explanation of a Possible Murder Case.

It would be unkind to suggest that THE TRIBUNE conduct special tours thru the Linemaster's secret files and department of inside information. That would only lead to the hasty extinction of one Kathleen O'Reilly. But it would make a lovely title for a murder:

The Hasty Extinction of Kathleen O'Reilly, who was Impertinent enough to suggest that Public Tours be conducted through the Sacred Files of the Wizard of the Line, whose tricks of legerdemain are the envy of his fellowmen.

The Tale of a Nom de Plume.

Re "Brewster's Millions" [Oct. 27]:

If memory serves me faithfully it was published serially in the Chicago Record under a nom de plume [Richard Greaves] in '96 or '97. George Barr McCutcheon was reported to have expressed the belief that a good story by an unknown author could find favor with the reading public, and this tale was the result.

The Record was a paper! Remember Ade's "Artie and Mame" and John T. 'Cutch's "little pup"? Remember also the prize mystery stories it printed? One of them, "Under Three Flags," was co-authored by Bert Leston Taylor [B. L. T.] and Alvin T. Thoits, who were then associated on the Duluth News-Tribune. Those were the days!

S. W. S.

[George Barr McCutcheon used a pen name for the first publication of "Brewster's Millions" because Dodd, Mead & Co. had offered him $15,000 advance royalty for a novel, and Herbert S. Stone & Co., his first publishers, thought that he owed them another book. The former got "The Sherrods," which didn't sell heavily; the latter got "Brewster's Millions" by the mysterious Richard Greaves, which was a knockout.]

An overlooked bet: No downtown restaurant, saloon, or tavern has yet named itself the Loophole.

AN ALARM OF FIRE—APPENDICITIS.

INSTINCTIVELY—when a conflagration is discovered—we rush to the nearest signal box and give the alarm. It would not take long to bankrupt our fire insurance companies if every one said to himself, "Yes, there is a fire, but why bother? It will burn out after a while. It may spread, of course, but enough buildings will be left. Then, too, it costs money to support a corps of trained firemen and to purchase and maintain the necessary equipment." Unfortunately, some of us assume this heedless attitude toward appendicitis—our most frequent surgical emergency.

Strangely enough, nature has left an elongated blind pouch attached to the lower end of the ascending colon. Into this sac putrefactive organisms may wander and give rise to inflammation. The most common culprit is the colon bacillus, altho many others may be involved. Then comes the formation of an abscess which may rupture, disseminating infection thruout the abdominal cavity.

The dangerous part of this whole matter lies in the fact that only a few hours may elapse from the first indication of trouble until pus forms and the distended organ bursts. True enough, in some cases, the irritation may smolder along for several days, finally receding with the disappearance of all signs of irritation. But who can tell whether your case or mine will terminate thus happily?

The most typical symptom is pain. At first it may be located deep within the abdomen—low down on the right side. Within a short time, perhaps an hour or so, it may center about the navel [umbilicus] or, as the patient will state, "in the pit of the stomach." Children particularly will complain of a stomach ache. As a rule the distress is not constant, increasing or decreasing with movement of the intestine.

While every attack of vomiting should receive attention, seizures of this sort may not mean appendicitis. Nevertheless, nearly all patients will vomit once or twice. Nausea, however, is far more common and persistent. In consequence, the sufferer usually refuses food despite the well meaning solicitude of those who urge the taking of nourishment. How often have we heard the remark, "Now, do take something. You must keep up your strength." The afflicted person senses that a single swallow of some edible may start contractions which will make the situation worse.

The universal tendency to give a cathartic must be forbidden—positively. In fact, many cases will end in disaster if this is done. The physician will be able to distinguish between a digestive upset and one that shouts "danger" in no uncertain terms. Sometimes the very position of the patient when lying in bed is characteristic. With a figurative blaze within the abdomen the knees will be drawn up and there may be considerable restlessness, indicating an effort to find a comfortable position.

We must be on our guard against this malady lest it filch away life. It is far wiser to call the doctor when he is not needed than to delay his visit until grave damage has been done. From the feel of the abdominal wall, the location of the pain, the white blood cell count, and other important manifestations, the diagnosis may be determined.

A case that came to my attention recently is that of a woman of 66 who scoffed at the idea that she could possibly become a victim. She felt the first twinge at about 5 p. m., the pain becoming steadily worse. Fortunately, she went to bed and when her physician arrived two hours later there was no temperature and the pulse was but slightly more rapid than normal. Somewhat puzzled he decided to wait a short while and returned at 10:30 p. m., when tenderness in the right lower portion of the abdomen was clearly marked. Meanwhile, the discomfort had lost its acute character, altho her temperature was rising. Operation was advised, which was performed at 11:30 p. m.—and a large gangrenous appendix was found.

We may look upon abdominal symptoms of all sorts as significant, always—a situation that deserves watching. In skilled hands, removal of the troublesome structure is simple and safe when it is performed early.

DRY PALMS.

M. H. writes: Ever since childhood I have suffered with dryness of the palms. What causes this?

REPLY.

More people complain of moist or sweaty palms—sticky fingers. The secreting glands in these regions are exceedingly numerous. Overactivity is governed by the nervous system and the circulation. If soaking the parts in warm water for half an hour once a day fails to stimulate the blood flow some bland ointment may be employed.

AVOID THE CAUSE.

T. T. writes: I have a callus on my right index finger. I have used a corn remover but it always comes back. What would you suggest?

REPLY.

Avoid the irritation and pressure responsible. A protecting pad or covering will be helpful.

NOT THE SAME.

M. T. writes: Is narcolepsy related to sleeping sickness?

REPLY.

No. Sleeping sickness [encephalitis] is an infection of the brain tissue. While the exact cause of narcolepsy is not known, the condition will respond to certain drugs, such as ephedrine benzedrine, etc.

ASKS HOW TO BOARD A BUS.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—Can some reader inform this disgruntled individual how to successfully board the buses furnished by the Chicago Motor Coach company during the evening rush hour?

Generally one has to wave a banner to get the driver of a bus to stop; then unless one is armed with a pile driver, pickax or telephone pole one can't get beyond the first step. The driver bangs the door shut, whisking off some of one's tail feathers, growls out for the fare, and tally ho! we're off.

Amid the sweating, swearing, swaying public one is jounced and bounced along. It's all very clubby, really; you poke some one in the snoot and some one amputates your foot. It will really be delightful when the Christmas shoppers are loaded down with children and bundles and no more buses are added. The Christmas season is just what prompted me to write this. How shall one cope with it? Any advice will be gratefully accepted and gleefully attempted.

THEIR GIBBERISH DISTURBING.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Last night with my wife I went to Evanston to absorb a little culture, have dinner, and see a movie. In the best theater in town the patrons' efforts to enjoy the program were constantly thwarted by the screeching gibberish of a mob of young idiots who seemed to want every one to know that they, as supporters of New Trier High, had something to shout about.

Reference to a list of results of games shows that this school tied with Highland Park in a football game yesterday. I shudder to think what might have been the case had New Trier won. The management of the showhouse professed not to be able to do anything about it. A few sessions in the old woodshed might help, but children should never be struck. Never???

THE GOOD OLD SALES TAX.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—Those who know say there never has been a time when those on relief, those on the ragged edge, have been in such distress as now.

On the other hand, many thousands with small means must pay a sales tax on every bit of medicine they buy. Prescriptions are expensive and, when the sales tax is added, are beyond many people's means.

Thousands who need expensive eye glasses in order to see and do their work must pay a sales tax on every pair they buy. I know of cases where it is a great hardship to do this.

It is bad enough to tax food, but it is a shame to tax medicines and eye glasses, which are necessities, and then to know that there are many thousands in this city who are suffering for lack of sufficient food and clothing.

FEARS EFFECT ON CRUISES.

New York, Nov. 2.—We wish to call your attention to the screaming headlines in yesterday's newspapers to the effect that a British ship was attacked by a submarine some 680 miles east of American shores.

If news of this type is to continue to be published in such a fashion, the steamship companies eventually will be forced to suspend cruise operations, which will hurt the business of the newspapers thru the loss of advertising—not only that of the transportation companies and the travel agencies but, in addition, the advertising of many large department stores supplying all kinds of wearing apparel for travel purchased by prospective cruise passengers, who will be frightened into abandoning their plans for holiday cruises in American waters. These areas, according to United States navy reports, are totally free from submarines or other craft of the warring nations and afford perfect safety for business and pleasure travel in neutral ships.

SOMETHING AMISS IN MILK.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—Your recent editorial on the need for an investigation of milk and the bungling of officials was courageous and timely. Certainly something is amiss.

If paper cartons mean less expensive milk let us have them, Mr. Alderman.

C. M.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—Before the health board passes a resolution for milk containers they should note the advantage of bottles.

In bottles the quantity of cream is visible. Bottles as a hygienic receptacle are known to all the doctors of the world.

ON RELIEF; WANTS ACTION.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—I am a registered voter of Illinois, born of American born parents. The conditions under which we, who have lost our place in the business world, are compelled to live is truly not American. At the same time let us have the truth as to what those on relief are getting.

If Gov. Horner wants a third term in Springfield, the way is thru the stomachs of those on relief—a fair number of the voters. I as a voter ask that the state legislature be called in extra session at once and three-fourths of the sales tax be at once diverted to relief—not to the university nor to popularizing the state.

ON TREACHERY TO POLAND.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 29.—You should be congratulated on your editorial, "The Fate of Poland." It should be framed and hung in the home of every right thinking American and foreigner lucky enough to live far away from Europe. By giving this editorial of yours the widest possible publicity it would set America thinking and would really keep America out of European entanglements, so profoundly "entangled" in bad faith, broken promises, and general habitual double-crossing! I hope to read many more such high minded, virile editorials.

POLICEMEN IN A SQUAD CAR.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—I have been reading a letter from "J. W. R." commenting on three or four park policemen riding in a car. I should have asked first, can I?

The squad cars of the Chicago park police cruising the Outer drive and other park thorofares are manned by two patrolmen, not three or four.

Experience has taught that one man in a car is poor police procedure, viewed from any angle. Would your correspondent, J. W. R., if he were alone care to chase a car containing three or four holdup men making a getaway? Would he force a car containing a gang of drunken hoodlums to pull over to the curb and then take them to the station?

As to the "three men on a horse" comparison, I once knew a fellow who went around making statements of that sort; later I heard it cost his father considerable money to get him passed into the third grade at school.

WHEN IS A SUPERHIGHWAY?

Chicago, Nov. 4.—Your map of the Congress street proposal is the most illuminating presentation of the subject which has come to my attention. The question as to when a superhighway ceases to be "super" has never been more clearly answered, and the difference between a superhighway for thru traffic and one for local traffic is clearly indicated.

West side groups which noisily protested against the 1937 plan of terminating a four-lane superhighway at Randolph and Market streets are silent about the engineering travesty of bottling up eight lanes at Canal street; twice the capacity is terminated a half mile farther from the axis than in the 1937 proposal.

SHORE RIGHTS.

Chicago, Oct. 27 [Legal Friend of the People].—I would like to make an inquiry regarding beach property. For example, if I owned a piece of beach property on Lake Michigan in Chicago:

1. What are my rights regarding it?
2. Can people cross my property right on the sand at the shore line?
3. Can they go thru the water fronting my property?
4. If I were to erect a pier projecting into the lake, could I keep people off of it? I should have asked first, can I build a pier out into the lake?
5. What are "riparian rights"?

1. Depends on the previous history of the title.
2. Not if you and your predecessors have title from the government running to the water's edge, and no right by adverse user has been established for twenty years.
3. Yes.
4. You have no right to erect a pier without government permit.
5. The rights of the party owning the shore. Such rights are greater with respect to non-navigable waters than with respect to navigable waters.

THE WORLD WAR 25 YEARS AGO

[From Tribune Files.]

[1023 day of world war; 68th day of present war.]

TOKIO, JAPAN.—The German garrison hoisted the white flag in Tsingtau, surrendering the city on the Northern China coast to British and Japanese forces. Thus Germany lost her last base in Asia after a long fight to retain it.

SAN FRANCISCO.—The British-German naval battle off the coast of Chile was reported renewed, despite the sinking of one British cruiser and partial burning and wrecking of two others.

BERLIN.—The kaiser ordered "one more attempt" to vanquish the British army and force a way to Calais before the great battle is fought near the Silesian frontier against Russia.

LONDON.—Earl Kitchener received a telegram from Grand Duke Nicholas, commander in chief of the Russian forces in the field, saying: "Following our successes upon the Vistula, a complete victory has been gained by our troops along the whole of the front in Galicia. It is incontestably the greatest success gained on our side since the beginning of the war. I am most confident of the speedy and entire accomplishment of our common task, persuaded as I am that decisive victory will be gained by the allied armies."

CHARGES HARRIS SEEKS TO DICTATE RULE OF TRANSIT

Council Group Replies to Banker's Criticism.

The council committee on local transportation yesterday asserted that Albert W. Harris spoke out of turn in assailing the city's proposals for a unified traction franchise.

Mr. Harris, chairman of a major transit bondholders' group and a leading Chicago banker, last Friday criticized the city's franchise proposals. He said they were financially fantastic and he assailed the city's use of the traction fund to finance subway construction.

The transportation committee's reply charged that Mr. Harris apparently sought to dictate an ordinance, although his bondholders' committee has no power in present franchise negotiations with the city for a unified transit system.

Committee Cites Negotiations.

"The statement of Mr. Harris seems to the representatives of the city to come with very poor grace," the transportation committee's statement said. "The representatives of the city are attempting, with negotiators appointed by Federal Judge James Wilkerson, to work out a solution to the traction problem. Mr. Harris is not a negotiator. He has attended no meetings. His interests are represented in negotiations by Guy A. Richardson. [Richardson is president of the Chicago Surface Lines.]

"Since he [Mr. Harris] has no standing in these negotiations, it would appear that he now presumes to dictate what the new ordinance shall be. It is our desire that Mr. Harris learn now that any ordinance to be drafted in solving this problem shall not be a 'Harris ordinance,' but that it shall be an ordinance drafted with consideration given to all concerned—the people, the employés, and the investors.

Interest Payments Told.

"The first mortgage bondholders, whom Mr. Harris represents, have been paid 5 per cent continuously since 1907 without interruption, amounting to approximately $135,000,000. In addition, there has been a substantial payment on the principal of these bonds amounting to $22,000,000. [These bonds are paying 8 per cent on their market price..

"Mr. Harris' bondholders have fared much better than the car riding public of Chicago."

Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], chairman of the committee, said Mr. Harris would be invited to attend a meeting of the transportation committee this week to present his suggestions for a transit franchise to the city's representatives.

Mr. Harris, who is chairman of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, is chairman of a committee representing $41,700,000 of first mortgage bonds on the surface lines.

Harris' statement last week asserted that a unified transit system could not keep the present 7 cent street car fare and spend $100,000,000 for modernization, as the city asks, without a subsidy from the city to guarantee the company's earning power.

Fort Sheridan Artillerymen Leave for Wisconsin Camp

Six officers and 175 men, comprising the remainder of the 3d field artillery stationed at Fort Sheridan, departed by truck yesterday for winter training at Camp McCoy, Wis. The party was in charge of Lieut. Col. George A. Pollin. A detachment of similar size went to Camp McCoy on Saturday. Horses, in each case, were shipped by train. There are now 40 officers and 1,283 men left at the fort. Of the soldiers, more than 800 are recruits recently enlisted.

MISS VIOLA CLANDERMAN.

Miss Viola Clanderman, 32 years old, 7822 Emerald avenue, a divorcee, pleaded guilty yesterday in Criminal court to a charge of forging a $350 check at the North American Acceptance corporation, where she was a clerk. Judge John Bolton sentenced her to serve from one to 14 years in the Dwight prison for women.

Miss Clanderman offered no defense. Earlier Assistant State's Attorney Julius Sherwin placed her peculations at $1,600. He said Miss Clanderman told him that she used the money to keep her daughter, 14, in a private school, and gave some to a young man who was her sweetheart.

A. F. OF L. BLASTS SLOWDOWN AND SITDOWN STRIKE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6 (AP).—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor today criticized the use of sitdown or slowdown strikes in announcing the opening of a national organizing campaign.

The A. F. of L. leader said more than 800 local committees had been organized with the assistance of city central labor bodies to make a survey of all unorganized plants in their areas. The survey will precede the sending of organizers into the field in a new membership campaign. The last report showed A. F. of L. membership in excess of 4,000,000.

Green expressed the opinion that using sitdown or slowdown strikes as organizing technique hurts the workers instead of helping them. "It is our purpose to stabilize industry by collective bargaining," he added, "not to destroy it and destroy the jobs of our members by coercive and revolutionary tactics."

Green's announcement of an organizing campaign followed a similar drive launched by the rival C. I. O. at its recent San Francisco convention. The renewed organizing efforts of the two organizations was regarded in some quarters as reducing the possibility of any imminent effort to reunite them.

DYSENTERY TAKES 12 IN A HOSPITAL IN CONNECTICUT

Norwich, Conn., Nov. 6 (AP).—Dr. Chester Waterman, superintendent of the Norwich state hospital, disclosed today what he termed a "little outbreak" of dysentery in the female infirmary. He said it had taken a toll of 12 lives during the last three weeks, but that now it was believed to be under control.

Waterman asserted that approximately 30 more of the 220 patients, all between 65 and 100 years old, had been stricken, but appeared to be recovering. The building has been isolated since the outbreak, Dr. Waterman said, and has been under supervision of the Norwich and Connecticut health departments. A new patient, it is believed, brought in the disease.

The institution has been under investigation by a special committee named by Gov. Raymond E. Baldwin after State Senator Joseph B. Downes of Norwich charged on the floor of the senate that conditions at the hospital "stink to high heaven."

DECIDES CUTTEN KIN SHOULD GIVE UP HALF MILLION

Master's Report Urges Surrender of Securities.

A report recommending that Paul C. Boomer, brother-in-law of the late Arthur W. Cutten, grain speculator, surrender securities valued at $500,000 was made yesterday by Master in Chancery John J. Kelly of the Superior court. The report will be presented to Judge John J. Lupe.

Under the master's recommendation, the securities would be turned over to a trust for the Home for Destitute Crippled Children, 1653 Maypole avenue. Boomer will continue to receive the income—estimated at $30,000 annually—until his death, when the principal will go to the home. If Boomer's wife survives him she will receive $5,000 a year from the trust until her death.

The master's finding was made in a suit for return of the securities brought by Robert F. Carr, as trustee of the fund, against Boomer and his wife, Laura, who live at 1448 Lake Shore drive. Boomer is a brother of Cutten's widow. Testimony was introduced by the plaintiff that Cutten created the trust on Aug. 27, 1924.

Tell Trust Arrangement.

"Plaintiffs contend," the report read, "that Cutten, lacking confidence in the ability of Boomer to handle financial matters and wishing to provide an income for him for life and for his wife after his [Boomer's] death, and in the end to make a substantial gift to the Home for Destitute Crippled Children, determined to make 2,000 shares of Texas Gulf Sulphur company capital stock the subject of a trust."

The trustees were Cutten, Carr, who is president of the Dearborn Chemical company and a former member of the school board, and George M. Reynolds, now retired, who was then chairman of the board of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company. Reynolds resigned as trustee in 1935.

Boomer contended that the trust agreement had never been consummated and that he had the right to retain the stock certificates.

Comments on Testimony.

"The master finds," the report read, "that when Boomer testified he evaded questions as to the whereabouts of the securities and that he did not remember where the securities were, but that they were in a safe place, and that at a subsequent hearing he stated they were in Chicago in his possession and they had been there at the time he gave his previous testimony and that said testimony had been false. He admitted he had possession of the securities at all times after the death of Cutten [on June 24, 1936].

"The master further finds that from the demeanor of Boomer on the stand and his utter disregard for the sanctity of an oath, he is not to be believed and his testimony is disregarded, except when it is corroborated by other testimony."

Master Kelly's recommendations, in addition to the return of the securities by Boomer, were that Boomer account for his income from them and that he be permanently enjoined from selling or assigning them to any one else.

Rat Drive Successful

Nov. 6, 1939.

ON FRIDAY, Oct. 13, farmers thruout Cook county took part in what they called the "first annual Cook county rat banquet." They served to rats on their farms thousands of meat and fish sandwiches containing red squill, a substance deadly to rodents but harmless to other animals.

Red squill has been used for years to poison rats on the Du Page county farm and on other farms scattered thruout northern Illinois, but this probably was the first attempt in this region to spread rat poison on the farms of an entire county at one time.

C. A. Hughes of Arlington Heights, who had charge of distributing the poison bait to farmers, estimated that approximately 80 per cent of the rats were destroyed on the 500 farms in the county where the bait was used.

Results Vary Widely.

Results varied widely with different farms. Many farmers have told Hughes they have seen no rats about their farms since the bait was put out. A few found no evidence that any rats had been killed.

Hughes believes that the failure to destroy any rats on some farms resulted from improper use of the bait. He said rats often will refuse to eat the most tasty preparations when the bait has been mixed or handled by human hands. He suggested mixing and placing baits with a stick or spoon. He has found that the poison usually is more effective when some of the bait is spread without poison until the rats have become accustomed to eating it.

About ten counties in Illinois tried rat campaigns this fall similar to the one in Cook county. All reported favorable results. Hughes thinks the work soon may be expanded to all counties in the state.

Drive May Be Repeated.

Farmers in Cook county who joined in the eradication work this fall believe that rats could be controled at relatively small cost if all farmers took part in persistent efforts to rid their farms of the pests. The county campaign may be repeated next spring if there is enough red squill available at that time.

The European war is said to be interfering with shipments of red squill to this country. Plants from which the poison is extracted are grown in countries bordering on the Mediterranean sea. G. C. Oderkirk, district agent of the federal biological survey, said an attempt may be made to produce red squill in some of the South American countries.

Constructing rat proof buildings and cleaning up piles of rubbish and waste lumber that may harbor rats are considered effective means of controling the rodents. Oderkirk advised stacking lumber high enough off the ground for dogs and cats to get under the stacks and rout the rats. He said some farmers are able to keep down rats without the use of poison.

WOMAN'S GLOVE TRACED FOR CLEW TO HIT-RUN DEATH

Police last night were hopeful that a blood stained woman's white glove would lead them to the hit-and-run automobile driver who killed Frank Marshall, 55 years old, 1426 Newberry avenue.

Marshall's crushed body was found early yesterday in a prairie near Polk and Des Plaines streets, apparently having been dragged there by the motorist. The glove was beside the body. If the driver was not a woman, police believe a woman may have aided the motorist to dispose of the body.

Marcellus Neal, 55, colored, 3656 Michigan avenue, died yesterday in County hospital of injuries received Oct. 20 when he was struck by a hit-and-run motorist at State and 37th streets.

Carsten Smevald, 23, 5017 Concord place, died in St. Anne's hospital of injuries received Oct. 29 in an automobile collision at Cicero and Fullerton avenues. The other driver was Nolan Ellenbecker, 17, of 4815 Wabansia avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 726 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 557 were killed in Chicago, where 18,883 were injured in the same period.

POPE AT MASS FOR MUNDELEIN, OTHER CARDINALS

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 6 (AP).—A special mass was sung today for cardinals who died in the last year, including Cardinal George Mundelein of Chicago.

Pope Pius XII. was seated on his throne in the Sistine chapel during the service, which was celebrated by Cardinal Raffaele Rossi. Later the pontiff gave absolution upon a small symbolic bier borne before the throne.

Twenty-one cardinals and diplomats accredited to the Holy See were present.

The pope will suspend private audiences from Nov. 26 to Dec. 2 to hold spiritual exercises. He plans to hear four sermons daily by a Jesuit father.

FOUR CHICAGOANS HURT WHEN 9 CAR TRAIN IS DERAILED

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 6 (AP).—A nine car Chicago to Boston express train was derailed in a deep cut near here today injuring six persons and bruising a dozen others.

Four Chicagoans were taken to hospitals with injuries. They are Gustave Callerman, 54 years old, of 1200 Lake Shore drive; Margaret Swidler of 5526 Potomac avenue, Charles F. Williams of 830 South Michigan avenue, and Edward Endman.

Mother, 4 Daughters Die as Auto and Truck Crash

Wanaque, N. J., Nov. 6 [Special].—A mother and three of her four daughters were killed tonight when their automobile collided with a truck. The dead were Mrs. Dora Sheppard, 24 years old, Ringwood borough, and her daughter Losi, 3½; Diana, 2, and Janice, 4 months old. Mrs. Sheppard's husband, Jacob, and another daughter, Leah, were critically injured. Morris Bradley, driver of the truck, was uninjured. He was arrested.

Heart Attack on Street Car Fatal to Postoffice Veteran

Grafton S. Harris, 61 years old, of 1706 North La Salle street, a Chicago postoffice employé for 35 years, died of a heart attack last night on a southbound Clark street car as it reached Illinois street. Harris was assistant superintendent of city mail deliveries. Police are attempting to locate relatives.

OBITUARIES

Dr. Frederick Adams Woods.

New York, Nov. 6 [Special].—Dr. Frederick Adams Woods, noted American biologist, died yesterday in Rome, Italy, after a long illness, according to word received here today. He was 66 years old. Dr. Woods was an instructor in histology and embryology at Harvard Medical school from 1898 thru 1902, and for 20 years thereafter lectured on biology at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He is survived by his second wife, the former Baroness Marie Therese de Lebzeltern-Collenbach of Austria and New York, and a sister, Miss Florence Woods of Dover, N. H. His first marriage to Miss Ellen Payson of Chicago terminated in divorce.

James P. Walsh.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 6 (AP).—James P. Walsh, 80 years old, for 30 years vice president of the Pittsburgh Coal company and later secretary-treasurer of the Carnegie Metals company of Pittsburgh, died today. He retired 15 years ago, but had continued to attend directors' meetings. Born in Cleveland, he was sales manager for the M. A. Hanna Coal company before going to the Pittsburgh company. In his latter years with Pittsburgh coal he also served as president of the General Coal company. In the world war he was a dollar-a-year man.

COURT APPROVES SETTLEMENT IN STRAUS ESTATE

Judge George Fred Rush yesterday approved an out of court settlement by which Mrs. Hortense Langley Straus, 48 years old, of Miami Beach, Fla., will receive $7,500 a year from the trust estate of her husband, the late Arthur W. Straus, investment banker.

Straus' two daughters by a previous marriage, Anne E. Straus of the Shoreland hotel and Mrs. Marjorie S. Cummings of Hollywood, Cal., will divide the next $1,500 of annual income. Income in excess of $9,000 will be two-thirds to the widow and one-sixth to each daughter.

Straus, who died Feb. 26, 1937, at the age of 57, left an estate valued at $785,156, a portion of which went to charities.

The present settlement was negotiated after the two daughters filed suit in Circuit court charging that Straus was influenced unduly by his second wife to discriminate against the daughters. By terms of the will the widow was to receive the entire trust income.

Auto Hurls Girl Into Path of Train; Result: Bruises

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 6 [Special].—Marian Suhrheinrich, 8 years old, while on her way to school today, was struck by an automobile and tossed in front of a speeding train at a Chicago and Eastern Illinois crossing. The child staggered to her feet and got off the track just as the train whizzed by. Although unconscious when rushed to a hospital, she was found to have only a minor head injury and a bruised right leg.

BreaksLeg inFall on Church Roof; Rescued by Firemen

Clifford Flora, 39 years old, caretaker at Emerald Avenue Presbyterian church, 6700 Emerald avenue, was rescued yesterday by firemen after he had broken his leg in a fall of 10 feet to an extension of the roof of the church. He was cleaning a rain spout when his ladder slipped. Firemen summoned by passersby who heard his cries set his leg in splints and lowered him to the ground in a canvas carrier.

How to Hold FALSE TEETH More Firmly in Place

Do your false teeth annoy and embarrass by slipping, dropping or wabbling when you eat, laugh or talk? Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. This alkaline (non-acid) powder holds false teeth more firmly and more comfortably. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH today at any drug store.

MARINE BOARD TO INVESTIGATE SUICIDE IN LAKE

Circumstances of the suicide of Mrs. Thomas Hyland of Hammond, Ind., who leaped to her death from the steamship City of Grand Rapids off Wilmette on the night of Aug. 27, will be investigated by a marine investigating board. The department of commerce announced yesterday that the board will meet at 10 a. m. tomorrow in room 1104 at the United States courthouse.

The board was ordered after a preliminary report by the bureau of marine inspection and navigation. At a hearing Aug. 29, Capt. Oscar C. Bjork and other officers testified that efforts to rescue Mrs. Hyland were delayed by an apparent mistake in orders and inability to assemble an emergency lifeboat crew. Crew members said Mrs. Hyland, 32 years old, had been drinking and quarrelling with her husband, who lives at 227 Clinton street, Hammond.

The board will be composed of J. Frank Staley of the department of justice in Washington, Commander Gordon W. MacLane of the coast guard, and Capt. Chester W. Willett of Cleveland, supervising inspector in the bureau of marine inspection. Should the board make a finding of negligence, those named would be tried before another board with the power to suspend or revoke a seaman's license.

FINAL ACCOUNT OF NELLIE B. LOEB ESTATE GETS O. K.

A final accounting in the estate of Mrs. Nellie Busch Loeb, a daughter of Adolphus Busch, founder of the Anheuser-Busch breweries, was approved yesterday by Joseph F. Geary, assistant to Probate Judge O'Connell. The assets are listed at $575,522, but actually the estate is believed to be considerably more because several Busch family trusts were included in the accounting at only nominal values.

Of the assets listed $251,206 will go for state inheritance taxes and federal inheritance and income taxes. Mrs. Loeb, who was 71 years old, died March 27, 1934. She was married three times, her third husband being Jacob W. Loeb, Chicago lawyer, who died in 1911. She left her estate to a son and a daughter and two grandchildren.

DECLARE PICKETS COERCE WORKERS AT DODGE PLANT

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 6 (AP).—A Chrysler corporation spokesman charged tonight that C. I. O. United Automobile Workers pickets prevented workers from entering the Dodge forge plant today "after telling the management that unless it employed certain men who were not needed the C. I. O. union would close the plant."

Negotiations in the dispute that has closed virtually all Chrysler production units and made close to 100,000 employés in automotive, rubber, and glass plants idle, were resumed here today.

Arthur E. Raab, chairman of the state mediation board, reported that "substantial agreement" was reached on sections of a proposed new Chrysler-U. A. W. contract dealing with seniority, leave of absence, and bargaining procedure.

Anna Ri Jaques Will Be Bride Next Thursday

BY JUDITH CASS.

ROMANTIC news of interest is revealed in the announcement Mrs. Louis Tallmadge Jaques is making today of the engagement of her daughter, Anna Ri, to Paul John Chittenden. The wedding will take place on Thursday at the Jaques home in Kenmore avenue, but because of the recent death of the bride's father it will be a very small one.

Miss Jaques and her sisters, Mrs. Claude B. Chipperfield [Abbie Jane Jaques] and Mrs. Peter Gyala Sandor Mero [Lois Jaques], are widely traveled young women. The Chipperfields were married in Aden, Arabia, just three years ago, and the Meros lived in Budapest and London following their marriage several months earlier. Mr. and Mrs. Mero are living in Chicago now, but the Chipperfields will send their good wishes from Athens, Greece. The wedding will take place at 8:30 o'clock in the evening. Mrs. Mero will be her sister's only attendant. Lewis Linn McArthur will be best man for Mr. Chittenden, who is the son of Mrs. Spencer Charles Van Antwerp of Chicago.

Mr. Chittenden and his bride will make their home in Chicago, as he is engaged in business here. Miss Jaques attended the Francis W. Parker school, Rosemary Hall at Greenwich, Conn., and the Finch school in New York. Mr. Chittenden is a graduate of the University of Michigan. He studied law there and at the Kent College of Law in Chicago.

Racquet Club to Hold Opening Ball Dec. 16.

The Racquet club has decided to have its opening ball on Saturday, Dec. 16, at 10 o'clock. There will be a formal dinner for the governors and their wives, and the women's advisory committee and their husbands preceding the ball. No other dinner reservations will be accepted that night, but a supper of game will be served at the ball.

The preview of the remodeled club will be held on Friday, Dec. 1, when tea and cocktails will be served from 4 until 7 o'clock. All activities of the club will be closed until 4 that day. The preview and the ball are for members only.

Mrs. Clive Runnells, Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, Mrs. Clarence Prentice, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey Jr., and Mrs. Michael Cudahy are on the women's committee.

Plan Preview Party for Art Masterpieces.

Cards are out for the formal opening of masterpieces of Italian art at the Art institute on Friday evening, Nov. 17, from 8 until 10:30 o'clock. It will be a real party, with music and even rugs on the floors of the galleries where the magnificent masterpieces, lent by the Italian government, will be displayed. The music will be of the Italian Renaissance period. There will be enough people in evening attire to make it a gala occasion, for a number of dinner parties have been planned to precede the opening. Chauncey McCormick, one of those instrumental in bringing the show to Chicago, and Mrs. McCormick are among those who will give dinners that night.

The masterpieces are those that the Italian government loaned to the San Francisco World's Fair and that will be on view in the Chicago Art institute from Nov. 18 to Jan. 9.

In listing the debutantes of last season who are being invited to their first Bachelors and Benedicts' party the young men of the committee over-

Good Morning!

EXTRA! Girl taxi dancer proves to blue-blooded scion that life is real and life is earnest and that Judy O'Grady is apt to be much nicer under the skin than the colonel's lady.

So far as the story of this one goes it is just plain bla. But I'm beginning to be sure that no film could possibly be quite that with Lana Turner in the cast.

In this pretty child, my darlings, I see a most promising runnerup for Ginger Rogers. Lana can dance. Lana can act. And Lana has personality plus. In that plus is to be included a charming smile and a really lovely figure. I wish her luck and I think she's going to have it.

Due to aforementioned scion's invitation to attend the college house parties at Kingston, Jane, the little taxi dancer, finds herself in the rarefied atmosphere of a college town, surrounded by girls she had always thought of as "glamour girls" and boys who had been her idea of what she would like a man to be. Does she get an awakening . . . !

But she tells 'em! And, because, inside, Philip S. Griswold is really a glamour boy, is why Miss Jane Thomas doesn't find herself so badly off, after all. . . .

Lew Ayres, and, in fact, all the other young folks in the cast do nice work. All they needed was a story.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Memories.

Pismo, Cal., Nov. 6.—Your reporter is waiting here at the Butler hotel for Joan Crawford, Clark Gable, Director Frank Borzage, and the rest of the "Not Too Narrow, Not Too Deep" company of strolling players which takes up a location stand here today. It had been quite some time since I'd been in a small town hotel, and the more you consider it the more certain you become that some of the most vivid memories of your life are bound up in hotels.

To me the most exciting hotel I've ever stopped at was the Savoy at London. For sheer color that tops them all because the lobby always was distinguished by maharajas, diplomats, gayly caparisoned officers, and continental looking ladies wearing the most enormous gems.

The Royal Danielli at Venice was colorful. Motorboats fetch you from the train to the hotel that borders the Grand canal, and at night you engage gondolas thru the porter. . . . It was our last night in Venice and four of us determined to go for one last gondola ride. The moon silvered the canals and the beauty of the ancient city caught at your throat. The gondolier, standing behind us, flied his sweep and called out warning "hallos" in Italian as we came to intersections in the canal. . . . As we were unloading at the hotel pier I said to the swarthy gondolier, "There is no place so beautiful as Venice, signor." To my astonishment he replied in English: "I disagree. This is not so beautiful as Miami Beach, Fla." He had been there with six other Venetian gondoliers, engaged by John Mc Bowman for the opening of the Miami-Biltmore hotel, and he wanted to go back.

The funny little hotel at Flemington, N. J., during the Hauptmann trial would fit into these memories. And the hotel at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., where I used to stop with Jim Rice, then Columbia crew coach, on the eve of the Poughkeepsie regattas.

The gorgeous Castle Harbour hotel at Bermuda, where from your window you can see the big liners beating their way down the channel to anchorage in water that is greener and bluer than any water in the world. . . . The Congress hotel at Chicago, where a week before the Dempsey-Tunney rematch I sat in one night on the conference that almost elected Hymie Miller as the referee. Had he been named there would have been no long count and Dempsey would have regained his title. It seemed of such vast importance then, so relatively unimportant now. . . . The George V. at Paris. I met big Bill Tilden in the lobby and told him that I'd sent back a column to America attacking him for having rooted for Von Cramm against Donald Budge, American Davis cupper, at Wimbledon. "I helped to teach Von Cramm," said Tilden. "It was quite natural that I'd root for him." Well, difference of opinion makes international situations.

But enough of memories. The big fellow outlined in the doorway of the Butler hotel is Gable. And alighting from the car are Joan Crawford and Frank Borzage. It's interesting to watch the faces of passersby as they suddenly come face to face with the movie stars. At first there is no recognition, and then, boom! Their heads snap around in "double take" that Jack Oakie couldn't mimic. . . . Not expecting to find these glamorous figures in their town on their main street, the residents are entitled to their excited recognition, even if it is a delayed recognition. "Would you sign this for my little girl, Miss Crawford?" asks a woman timidly. Her hair is gray white, her face is lined, and the hand she extends shows a lifetime of hard work. The lines disappear as if by magic as she reads the autograph from La Crawford. A gray life suddenly has been hit by an electric shock.

Miss Cornell Is Effective in Adult Comedy

"NO TIME FOR COMEDY."
Comedy in three acts by S. N. Behrman. Staged by Guthrie McClintic. Settings by Jo Mielziner. Costumes by Valentina. Presented by Katharine Cornell and the Playwrights' company in the Harris theater, Monday evening, Nov. 6, 1939.

THE CAST.

Linda Esterbrook	Katharine Cornell
Gal Esterbrook	Francis Lederer
Amanda Smith	Margalo Gillmore
Philo Smith	John Williams
Clementine	Gee Gee James
Makepeace Lovell	Tom Helmore
Robert	Larry Fletcher

BY CECIL SMITH.

Katharine Cornell's venture into the realm of modern comedy—her first in a good many seasons—was crowned with success at its Chicago opening last night, as every one knew it would be. Not that Miss Cornell is brilliant or always even effective as a comedienne. In sheer command of the contrivances by which drawing room comedy may be made to glitter and sparkle, she is not in the running with Ina Claire or Gertrude Lawrence, or perhaps several others you can think of.

But Mr. Behrman's adult and provocative play is no mere froth and spray. Quite as much as it seeks to make merry, it undertakes to state, and if possible find a solution for, a quandary of modern artistic creation: Is it a playwright's duty to come to grips with the dolefulness of contemporary life, or may he rightfully seek to embroider upon the lighter side of life, if his talents run more naturally in this direction?

The main task of presenting this problem falls to Miss Cornell, and probably no other American actress could have improved upon the sincerity and zeal with which she clothes Mr. Behrman's speculations.

Her interpretation tends to move on too even a keel, but the play is too completely shot through with barbs of the most cutting wit to suffer from her intense poise. She evidently aims her performance at adults, able to grasp the humor of things without needing to be spoonfed, and willing to temper fun with thoughtfulness. And it is a fine, honest performance, even if it never becomes in the least heady or intoxicating.

Mr. Behrman presents his argument by means of a triangle. Miss Cornell's Linda is a successful actress of comedy, and Francis Lederer is the playwriting husband who has kept her supplied with bright vehicles. Margalo Gillmore, however, as the wife of a phlegmatic banker [John Williams] undertakes to bring out what she thinks are the young playwright's "latent possibilities" as an author of problem plays. When he finally realizes the force of Miss Cornell's argument that he should return to his own métier of comedy, and with it to the wife who loves him and is stronger than he is, Miss Gillmore quickly recedes into her uniquely filmy world. The story is told in passage after passage of the most literate, thought provoking and amusing prose the recent American theater has produced.

The impulsive Mr. Lederer makes his playwright a crude, lovable, roaring young cub. Miss Gillmore, an effective and well schooled blonde foil for the heroine, turns Amanda into a divertingly nauseating dish of intellectual whipped cream. John Williams, as the impregnably self-satisfied business man, Tom Helmore as a vacuous social asset, and Gee Gee James as a fresh but indispensable Negro maid, furnish superb support.

Maurice Evans' full length production of "Hamlet," which opened last night at the Grand Opera house, will be reviewed tomorrow.

MATUTINAL MORES.

I sing not of Homeric dawns
With rosy tint'd, dewy lawns,
Nor yet in manner Kiplingese,
Of morns like thunder from the seas.

I really hate to see the dawn;
In fact, I keep my blinds well drawn.
Some coffee and a cigaret

Boyce Brown, Saxophonist.

A saxophone player nationally known among swing musicians and record collectors, but almost unknown to the public, plays every night at a small North Clark street café. He is Boyce Brown, alto saxophonist, one of a three man orchestra at the Liberty inn. Hugues Panassie, French author of Le Jazz Hot, wrote about Brown after listening to some records made when the saxophonist was with Paul Mares' band at the New York Bar in 1934, and his comments are picked up in the current issue of Downbeat:

"I doubt whether any other white man has ever played alto with as much swing as Boyce Brown. . . . In my opinion Boyce Brown is the best of all white alto players at present and probably the greatest of all, apart from Johnny Hodges."

Brown, who is 29, is handicapped by failing eyesight, so he chose to leave the big bands and continue with his first love, little jam groups. His mother, with whom he lives, is usually at the café where he plays, looking as if she ought to be home with her knitting instead of in a smoke-filled nitery. Although musicians know Brown as a great saxophonist, he also is a composer. One of his compositions is Dance of the Nature Spirits. Another, Requiem to Biz.

Inconsequential Bit.

One of the little elderly ladies employed by an insurance firm is planning to retire in the spring. She is a flower and garden enthusiast and was telling an office associate of her plans. "Yes, sir, I'm going to get out in my garden and dig, and dig, and dig!" she said. And the auditor, poring over his books, mumbled unenthusiastically, "Well, all right; well, all right; well, all right."

Food Again.

The epicures of the town now are dining at a little restaurant on North Dearborn street, the little French café of the Park Dearborn, to eat Henri Charpentier's chicken Diamond Jim Brady, his shrimps served with a delectable sauce, his crêpes suzette. Henri, whose patrons have included Edward VII. and Sarah Bernhardt, in his high white chef's hat, his intelligent blue eyes sparkling with kindliness and humor, prepares his dishes on alcohol burners before your eyes and serves them from the saucepan to your plate, accompanied by a Gallic bon mot. The chicken dish is so called because it was the favorite of the late Diamond Jim Brady. M. Charpentier estimates that he has prepared some 3,000 chickens thus for him and his parties.

A Girl of 20 Wins Rave at Opera Debut

BY EDWARD BARRY.

A performance of Thomas' "Mignon" at the Civic Opera house last night served to introduce Virginia Haskins, a 20 year old St. Louis soprano, and to re-introduce Gladys Swarthout, the renowned American mezzo. The former made an operatic debut in Italy a year ago last summer and an appearance here in a semi-professional opera performance last season. The latter has long been absent from the Chicago operatic stage and has made only two concert appearances here in recent years.

In reviewing the debut of Miss Haskins one must first write off the lump that would rise into the throat of any one of 20 [or of 60] confronted with such an ordeal. Also one must write off the breathlessness of some parts of Philene's "Polonaise" on the ground that the absence of such breathlessness would, under the circumstances, be slightly unpleasant and unnatural.

With this done the superlatives can flow like water. Virginia Haskins is a natural born coloratura whose voice is of a delicate but firm texture, whose agility makes light of the most fearfully involved and rapid passages, and who never forgets that vocal fireworks are an abomination unless they are every moment a delight to the ear. The voice never became stony and hard. Its brilliance was the easy brilliance of jewels.

Miss Haskins phrased with an intoxicating grace. The music never ran away from her, but was kept well under control so that singer and audience both could occasionally linger over and revel in some more than usually luscious passage.

The singer's tiny grace of person and her utter at homeness on the stage detracted nothing from the favorable impression she made. If a reporter may turn prophet for a moment, this little artist without any important fault will find a distinguished place for herself in the uncrowded coloratura field.

Miss Swarthout was attractive in the opera's title rôle, displaying plenty of histrionic vigor, but surprisingly little musical. She did not lead imperiously, except in her most distraught moments in the second act, but was content to go along with the orchestra. By the way, the brasses of the orchestra seemed a bit distraught themselves and accounted for a few pieces of fine ragged work.

They Hunted a Fox

By Alice Campbell

[Copyright: 1939: By Alice Ormond Campbell.]

SYNOPSIS.

Alison Young and her fiancé, Dr. Colin Ladbroke, are guests at Chenerys, the English country estate of Tom Boldre, to attend a fox hunt and ball. Wynn Marchmont, sister of Tom's wife, Pat, is engaged to Tom's brother, Derek. Alison overhears a love scene between Pat and Arthur Kingsclere. Chenerys is mortgaged to the hilt. Gregg, Tom's agent, urges him to accept an offer made for the estate, but Tom refuses to sell. At the hunt, from a far off hill, Alison and Colin see Tom thrown and a man bending over him. Reaching the accident they find Derek stooping over Tom's prostrate form. A farmer, Glover, happens along and helps them. Tom, revived, is surprised that Derek, rather than his neighbor, Maj. Fitts, found him. Three weeks later Tom is again thrown and dies soon after. Alison visits Wynn at Chenerys. Riding near the scene of Tom's first accident they find the dead body of Glover. Official verdict is that Glover was killed by a shot from a passing car. Kingsclere, Derek and Maj. Fitts all drove that way. Inspector Headcorn from Scotland Yard finds the murder weapon. It belongs to Maj. Fitts, but was stolen the afternoon of the day Glover was shot—after Kingsclere and Derek had called. Dr. Blount, who'd attended Tom, admits he gave Tom an anti-tetanus injection—which caused his death, as he had not been desensitized after a previous injection. The first injection must have been given Tom after his first fall when he was unconscious—whoever gave it must have murdered Glover because he was a witness. Derek admits having anti-tetanus serum which was taken from his room. Derek goes out for a walk in the night—that same night Mrs. Glover is beaten up by some one evidently seeking to destroy evidence. The inspector finds Wynn battling with Mrs. Glover over a syringe which Glover had apparently found. Derek is arrested. Wynn and Alison figure some one else may have reached Tom after his first accident before Derek. Wynn finds out Maj. Fitts rode behind Tom. A fire breaks out in Wynn's room at Chenerys in the night. She believes some one is trying to murder her and Alison. The inspector investigates a James Elderson-Brown, who'd tried to buy Chenerys. Maj. Fitts accompanies Wynn and Alison to the chemist's.

INSTALMENT I.

The cool gaze turned on Colin. "O, no, they had the car." A pause. "They're all right," said Kingsclere quietly. "Fitts had them in tow."

By his annoyance as by his relief Colin realized the magnitude of his own fear-obsession. The next moment, seeing the pale, uneasy face of the butler look inquiry from the house door, he wondered if Kingsclere had spoken the truth.

"The ladies, sir?" Padgett cupped his ear. "Not in, certainly, and I couldn't tell you where they was heading. Mr. Gregg may know. He was in front when they started out."

"I see. Will Mr. Gregg be at his own place?"

Headcorn signaled, and the Rover, edging past the Rolls-Bentley, swerved off the main drive. "Well?" he challenged.

"O, nothing like!" declared Hardmore positively. "This chap's too young, too fair, and, I'd say, half a foot over Elderson-Brown's height."

Floods lashed the car as it crunched into the narrower alley, stiff foliage scraped the mudguards. Presently, through a gray gossamer of rain, the agent's cottage emerged, water spouting from its eaves. Headcorn was out, hammering with the iron knocker, while in the back of the car Colin braced for the test he had been dreading. On the coming moments, he reasoned, his friend's life must depend.

Hardmore stirred suspiciously. "Long time answering. Think he's looked out and seen who we are?"

The same idea was rousing hope in the doctor's breast. Long, indeed! Those thunderous knocks ought to wake the dead.

"See——" warningly. "He's just opening the door."

"O! You again, inspector?"

The drawled greeting was easy, but the deep-sunk eyes strayed past to the dim occupants of the Rover, and as Headcorn spoke the smile on Gregg's face became more arid. For a second only the door space widened. Then it contracted and the man inside sidled away from the driving torrents. The movement revealed the fact that his right hand nestled into a heavily-bagging pocket. Now he was answering, his words just carrying above the deluge.

"Chemist's," they said. "Must have got hung up after this broke. Are you sure they've not come in?"

"Quite. Then they didn't intend a longer excursion?"

"I gathered not. Fitts was with them, of course," said the agent with meaning.

Colin, as he heard the plural pronoun, felt a new, stabbing alarm. Was Gregg trying to convey that Alison herself was courting danger while in her hostess' company, and that only the presence of a third person could guarantee safety?

With a jolt he remembered the purpose of their visit. Hardmore was staring fixedly, his expression that of wavering indecision. He looked back to the half-concealed figure in the doorway and saw what had till now escaped notice—the slow trickle of water, oozing in an outward direction, toward the sill. It dripped from Gregg's clothing. Why, the fellow was soaked!

"Odd," drawled the tired voice again. "A moment ago I'd have sworn I heard a car shoving into the garage. Just over there, you know. Shall I see if they're inside sheltering till this holds up?"

"We'll do that," said Headcorn tersely, but he remained where he stood, a stolid, streaming monument.

Gregg appeared to jump at the suggestion. "Drive round. I'll cut across and join you." He ducked, slamming the door.

The inspector resumed his seat. "Yes?" asked he softly.

Hardmore hesitated. "Don't quite know. Difficult with this curtain of rain, and he kept dodging back. Right coloring. Right height, I think, and certainly it's the hair, getting thin on top, as I said. When I've got a close-up on him——"

"Close-up!" snapped the doctor. "God, don't you see that's what he's had of you? The man's been in the open during the last few minutes. He's armed. Right now he's skinning out the back way. Let me get out."

He was hurling himself into the rain when a rough clutch hauled him back.

"Get moving," ordered the inspector sternly, and now Colin saw that Gregg was issuing forth again, though in a black rubber cape with a flapping sou'wester obscuring his features. Shouting a direction he trotted from view into a clump of sopping lilacs. All at once the girls' absence assumed terrifying significance. Kingsclere, stationed watchfully in the drive, the shut-faced butler concernedly peering—what did it mean?

The Rover circled back, entered the stable yard gates, and stopped on the worn bricks. No sign of Gregg and the garage doors closed. Sodden desolation on every side. All Colin heard was the steady downpour as it sluiced upon the uneven red tiled roofs and, from unseen boxes, muffled stampings and whinnyings. Yet the inspector seemed to be listening.

"Shut off your engine." He slid down the pane.

"Hello!" he said queerly. "That is the car. What the devil——" He plunged past to the garage.

Colin now heard it—a busy chug-chugging from inside the sealed doors. Recollection reared its head.

"That damned gear box!" He was out, tugging savagely at the doors. Off the rollers? They refused to budge. Or the man beside him was hindering. Those shaking hands. . . .

"Stand clear!" roared the inspector. He made a bull charge.

Back slid the doors. Colin fell through into stale gloom and perfect orderliness. No one visible. The car, though. Small, vibrating like a live thing, backed toward them—its windows fast closed. Doors wrenched open now, all three men choking and gagging, some one's hand shutting off the inpouring fumes. Down low, where the matting had been freed, Colin saw them huddled together. There came a hysterical shriek.

"Both!" crackled Gregg. "Fitts said it might happen." He folded up like a jackknife against the running board. Something caromed from his pocket to clatter on the concrete floor a short distance away.

Directly over the leakage hung the two heads, sun-gilded locks intermingled with dark, roughened curls. Wynn's arm, in its green-brown sleeve, lay heavily clamped around the other girl's shoulders—weighting them down. Two slack forms, coupled in death. Wynn Marchmont had accomplished her purpose. She had removed not only herself but the one damning eyewitness.

Alison—so staunch, so precious a life partner, gone. . . .

Fuzzy Sleeping Togs Combine Style, Warmth

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Shivering early risers will be warmed by the late arrivals in the lingerie departments. All the newest ideas in fuzzy flannelettes have been unpacked with the arrival of freezing temperature readings. Sleepers with long sleeves, high cozy necklines, and plenty of length to the pajamas as well as nightgowns assure all kinds of protection against duck bumps these chilly mornings.

The pajamas are tricky combines good enough looking to forestall any critical comments at the breakfast table. Tops are of solid color, the lower halves of eye catching plaids and checks.

Such unusual trim as cotton fringe filched from the furniture and slip covers departments outlines the collars, cuffs and pockets. Polka dot affairs are always good. This fall they are smaller and less violent of color contrast, shell pink and cloud blue being the most popular against white or pastel colored backgrounds.

The fuzzy flannelette nightgowns with long sleeves are cut and fitted with the precision of an evening gown. Bias cut skirts that certainly fit smoothly over the rib and waistline fall in graceful fullness and make these practical sounding cold weather comforts into gowns with lots of personality.

Beauty Is Doomed if the Voice Is Harsh and Rasping

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"A woman who is beautiful until she starts to speak would be wiser to remain 'dumb,'" declares Friedrich Schorr, Metropolitan opera star and voice coach. Mr. Schorr claims that few women really know how to use their vocal chords as nature intended.

Mr. Schorr, who has launched many a talented young singer on his or her career, contends that a good speaking voice, well trained and wide in tonal range, is the greatest asset a woman can possess. "A lovely face and a pretty gown never can make up for a voice that is harsh and rasping or nasally shrill."

"So many women," Mr. Schorr continues, "have a tendency to lose control of their voices. They do not know how to manage and train their speech mechanism, or how to use their lips and tongue properly in enunciating words.

"One of the commonest faults," he maintains, "is what might be called 'subway voice.' It would seem that women have become so used to talking above the roar of trains and traffic that they continue to shout in normal conversation. I know one dainty young lady, who looks as tho she could not talk above a gentle whisper, yet she will discuss the most confidential matters in a voice that would do credit to a time-caller in a station.

"Then there is the woman who will discuss war or clothes or a new food recipe in the same monotonous tone that never varies a note.

"To possess charm and glamor a woman must learn to modulate her voice and accent it. The use of vocal highlights and color are as important in conversation as they are in song."

But this great vocal teacher's pet annoyance is the woman who whines.

"There is nothing," he states, "that a man finds quite as irritating as a woman who talks on and on in a shrill, whining voice. She might be a modern Venus, but if she ends every sentence on a whine and converses incessantly with her voice always in the upper register, the chances of her ever seeing the same man more than once are very slim!"

Mrs. Whiteman Tells Role of Wife

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

There is, of course, no special formula that every couple can follow to gain perfect marital bliss. However, it is the firm opinion of Mrs. Paul Whiteman, wife of the famous orchestra leader, that a husband's profession should be a lifelong career for both the man and his wife.

Mrs. Whiteman says that a woman can form the basis for a happy marriage by supplying an impulse to her husband's ambition. In a subtle way, she can urge him on to greater heights, help him broaden his social relationships, and give him an abundance of confidence to battle the trials of our present day economic warfare.

If she tends toward opposite extremes, she can cause the downfall of her husband in his profession and make a general mess of their home. Memories of a squabbling household furnish a severe mental handicap thruout the day for a husband. What has he to work for? What achievements can he share with his wife? He finds there are none and his work becomes drudgery.

Mrs. Whiteman admits that her status is different from that of many other women, since her husband's name is a byword among millions. But she considers that the elementary issues of a happy marriage remain the same despite a husband's high position.

Reams of good press notices cannot match the sweet words of praise from a wife's lips. If they are missing, the urge the next time may be missing.

Mrs. Whiteman has a neat habit. She asks herself: "What can I do to make my husband happy today?" She believes that such self-interrogation should be the daily duty of every wife. It is her opinion that words and acts of tenderness are fully reciprocated.

New or inexperienced cooks always are amazed that quick bread loaves can be so good when making them is so simple. The ingredients are only stirred together, not beaten, and no tricks or acquired cooking techniques are involved. They're not too difficult for the 10 year old cook.

There are endless varieties, starting with the plain nut breads, thru all kinds of fruity breads to chocolate, butterscotch, and others.

Orange Nut Bread.

2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup chopped pecans or other nuts
1 egg
1 cup milk
1 cup orange juice
Grated rind of 1 orange
1 tablespoons melted shortening

Sift flour, baking powder, salt, and sugar together. Add nuts. Combine beaten egg with liquids, rind, and shortening. Add to dry ingredients and stir just enough to blend. Pour into a greased loaf pan and bake at 350 degrees, moderate oven, for 1 hour.

Butterscotch Bread.

1 egg
1 cup packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons melted shortening
2 cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup sour milk or buttermilk
½ cup chopped nuts

Beat egg, add sugar and shortening, and beat well together. Sift flour, soda, baking powder, and salt together. Add to egg and sugar mixture alternately with milk. Add nuts. Pour into a greased loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 45 minutes.

Banana Bread.

¼ cup butter or other shortening
1 cup brown or white sugar
2 eggs
1 cup mashed bananas
1½ tablespoons sweet or sour milk
1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 cups sifted flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon soda
1 cup chopped nuts

Cream shortening and sugar together. Beat eggs and add. Force bananas thru sieve, or mash them in an electric mixer. Three large ones will make about a cup of pulp. Add milk and lemon juice to bananas. Combine with first mixture. Sift dry ingredients together and stir into the rest of the dough. Add nuts. Bake in a greased loaf pan at 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

Bran Apricot Bread.

1 cup chopped dried apricots
1½ cups sour milk or buttermilk
3 tablespoons shortening
½ cup sugar
1 egg
1½ cups bran
2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup chopped nuts

Soak chopped apricots in sour milk or buttermilk for 15 minutes. Cream shortening and sugar, add egg, and beat well. Add bran, apricots, and milk. Let soak until bran takes up most of the moisture. Sift flour with baking powder, soda, salt, and nutmeg. Combine with nuts. Stir into first mixture, only until mixed. The batter should be somewhat lumpy. Bake in greased loaf pan at 350 degrees, moderate heat, for an hour and 3 minutes.

Numerology

By Evelyn Holmes

Nov. 7, 1939.

The combination of 11-7-22 [11th month, 7th day, and 22 or 4] makes this a peculiar day calling for the highest motives and the most unselfish action. During this master year these numbers have carried a fatal significance. On Oct. 24 the British reported the "worst day" in loss of ships. That was an 11-day. If this is your birthday this has not been an easy year for you, but you can look forward to more freedom in 1940.

Slip Styled for New Gowns

WOMAN'S AND MISS' PRINCESS SLIP.

The lines of this princess slip are designed expressly for those of the new gowns, with a snug bodice, an infinitesimal waistline, and a flared skirt below a molded hipline. Such an undergarment will not make ugly bulges beneath your smart frocks.

Created in lingerie silks, cottons, or linens, this slip is one you will like for yourself, and which your friends will delight in receiving as gifts. It may be left strictly plain and tailored, or be given detail in bodice and at the hemline with lace and ribbon.

Style No. 3025 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 2⅝ yards of 39 inch material, 1¾ yards of lace for hemline, 1½ yards for bodice.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

According to CULBERTSON

(Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.)

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Here is a hand held by my husband and myself in a recent game. As you can see, it was a cinch for six-odd. The trouble was that we stopped at four, which was due, in part, to a troublesome bid from an opponent:

"East, dealer.

"Both sides vulnerable.

"My husband sat North, I, South. East dealt and the bidding went:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 heart	3 spades	4 hearts
Pass	Pass	Pass

"I shall not encumber you with any of our arguments which, needless to say, were long and windy, but instead hope that you will consent to be our judge. We will appreciate any hints you may give as to the proper bidding.—Mrs. F. H., Massachusetts."

It is not difficult to appreciate that West's unkind three spade bid made the road rocky for North and South. Incidentally, this is not a bad time to point out that interference bids, when logically conceived [which is to say, when high enough to be of real nuisance value and when safe enough to justify their own height], are potent defensive-offensive weapons. West deserves a vote of thanks from his own partner for making it pretty tough for North and South to reach their laydown slam.

This is not discussing the point put up to me. The specific question is whether North-South could have overcome the "interference." I think they could have.

North should have been a bit more enterprising; his four heart bid did not adequately express his values in support of hearts. Admittedly, it would have required a little nerve and willingness to jeopardize a game for North to have made any stronger bid. But it is my considered judgment that his holding warranted that aggressiveness. From North's point of view, it should have appeared sufficiently safe to contract for eleven tricks in hearts. If South's bid were based merely on the A-Q of hearts and an outside ace, surely only two tricks figured to be lost, the two aces in the hands of the opponents. [Of course, the spade ace might lie over the king instead of under it, but this was very unlikely.] If South's bid were a "minny," he would pass to five hearts and almost certainly make the contract. But if, on the other hand, he had an extra trick, as he did have, North's jump from three spades to five hearts would spur South sufficiently to make him go to a small slam.

Obviously, South could not move over North's four hearts. For all South could tell, the four heart bid, instead of being conservative, might be slightly stretched. Hence, the burden of getting the partnership to the right spot was entirely on North and, as is so often the case, aggressiveness was the vital prerequisite to the best result.

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's column.

Write your bridge troubles and problems to Ely Culbertson, care of The Tribune, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

On the House

This may be the month when you make a discreet decision and decide that the old dusty attic is just the answer to a rather crowded home, for its spaces, if skilfully insulated, will be just as warm as any other spot in the house.

Attics need no longer be frigid zones in winter and sweltering zones in summer. Insulate your attic, finish it with the help of one of fifty or more insulating boards, and you'll save a part of the cost in definitely lowered fuel bills.

Teen Age Needs Plenty of Good, Filling Foods

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

We realize keenly that the baby, getting his start in life, must be correctly fed or he will not grow, he will not gain, he will not develop, he will not resist disease as he should.

But what many parents do not realize is that in adolescence a tremendous spurt of growth takes place, comparable to the rapid growth of a baby. Great demands of growth and development are made by nature upon the teen age boy and girl, and great demands are made upon them by their emotional and social growth and development, too.

In this often trying period—trying for the young person as well as for us—one of the greatest contributions we can make to his well being and resistance to disease [and adolescence is a period of susceptibility to certain maladies] is to feed him correctly. Don't fall into the error of thinking that well-balanced food with an abundance of milk is no longer important, now your son is as tall as his father and your daughter taller than you. Great energy is expended in athletics and dancing and being generally on the go, but it is also expended in the process of growth.

If your child has, over the years of earlier childhood, learned to eat everything it will take only a little tact to see that he continues to eat properly now, and does not waste his appetite on an excess of sweets that he may crave for actual fuel. Especially should you keep a weather eye on your son's or daughter's lunches if either has to have the midday meal at school. If that is necessarily light, make up for it by providing a hearty breakfast and a light, nourishing, mid-afternoon snack.

Having passed thru many food fads experts on nutrition have come to the idea that all sensible people have held to thru the years, namely, that some of all foods creates a balanced diet, and that there should be [especially for growing bodies] an accent on green vegetables, fruits, milk, and other dairy products and whole grains in bread, hot breads, and cereals. Meat, chicken, fish, and eggs should be freely used in this diet, and meat substitutes such as cheese and nut dishes; and potatoes, both white and sweet, and macaroni are not to be neglected. Desserts other than fruits, such as puddings, jams, jellies, wholesome cakes, ice creams, and custards, and pies with light thin pastry have their place not only for the palate, but for the energy they supply to active bodies.

Variety in the way foods are prepared and good judgment in combining them have a great deal to do with encouraging young people to eat properly. Lima beans, potatoes, and rice with watery spinach and overcooked meat is an honest-to-goodness example which I witnessed, one day, of a valid reason for poor food habits. Here was bad choice, bad preparation.

Before closing, let me stop to suggest that you have your adolescent child examined yearly by a doctor.

looked the fact that Mrs. Alexander Chartis Bell was a bud last year. She is the former Miss Tita Johnson.

Hospital Benefit at Theater Tonight.

The Harris theater will present a gay scene tonight at the second performance of Katharine Cornell in "No Time for Comedy." The woman's board of Grant hospital has taken over the theater for the evening, and its members and their friends will fill the house, clad in the newest of theater gowns.

Mrs. Frank S. Porter, president of the woman's board, will dine with Edgar J. Uihlein before the play. Her sister, Miss Katherine Lefens, has come from her home in Pasadena for a visit, and also will be in the audience tonight.

Storm Bull to Play at Mills College Benefit.

The Mills college scholarship fund will benefit from an interesting recital to be given next Sunday night at the Goodman theater. Storm Bull, pianist, will be the artist. Mr. Bull, who recently married Ellen Cross, made his debut at the age of 15 in Oslo, Norway, with the Philharmonic Societ's orchestra. Last season he played with the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

A retrospective exhibition of Georges Braque's work will open at the Arts club this afternoon. Walter P. Chrysler Jr., who is loaning 18 of the artist's paintings, will be a guest.

Chamber Music Series Starts Today.

The first of the Lake Shore Chamber Music society's musicals in this winter's series will be given at 11:30 o'clock this morning at the Arts club.

The lecture that Hanson W. Baldwin will give on "Can Germany Break Thru" at a luncheon meeting of the Council of Foreign Relations today at the Palmer House will be illustrated with slides. Mr. Baldwin, military correspondent for the New York Times, was educated at the United States Naval academy.

The Woman's Faculty club of Northwestern university medical school will have a sewing meeting at 10:30 o'clock today at the home of Mrs. Leander Ripa, 399 Fullerton parkway, to make Christmas stockings for the children who go to the Northwestern university clinics.

On Nov. 25 the club will hold its annual benefit party at the Hotel Knickerbocker. The affair will be a dinner-dance.

Chicago Presbytery Meets at Woman's Club Tonight

Dr. Sam Higginbottom, moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America, will be the guest speaker tonight at the meeting of the Chicago presbytery. The meeting will be held at the Chicago Woman's club, 72 East 11th street.

Whimsical Silhouette Figures

BY NANCY CABOT.

Here is a pair of charming creatures who are destined to brighten any young girl's room. They may well be named Industry and Obedience, as well as night and day silhouette pictures. The pictures measure 7x9 inches, and the hot iron transfer patterns for the cut-outs is accompanied by complete directions.

For the hot iron transfer pattern, No. X-636, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

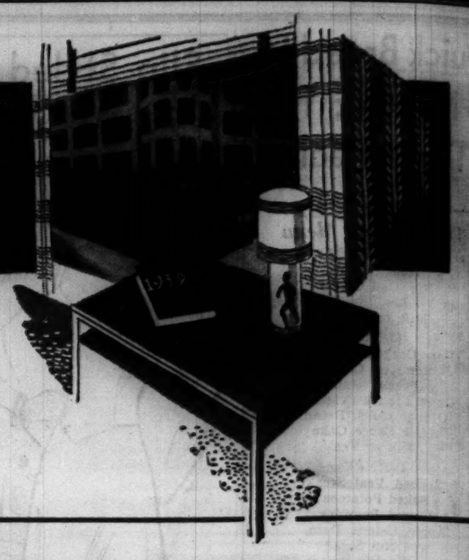
85th ANNIVERSARY SALE



Carson's 85th Anniversary Sale . . . by all odds the most exciting merchandise show of its kind that we've ever held. Every section in the store, including the numerous sections of the basement, participates. Nothing has been left undone to assure the success of this event and identify this Anniversary celebration as the most spectacular exhibit of values to be presented this year.

8-PIECE SUITE OF ALL-MAHOGANY

very special $139

One of our consistent best sellers is a beautiful 18th Century dining room suite priced at $198. This is a special purchase, and equals our $198 set in every respect! It's of all mahogany, with a double-pedestal-base table, a buffet with four drawers and two storage compartments, and six solid mahogany chairs (two of them armchairs). It also comes in all walnut with ten-leg table. It is one of the most outstanding values we have ever offered, and one you must surely see.

Dining Room Furniture, Ninth Floor, Wabash.

MATTRESS AND BOX SPRING-ON-LEGS

complete $29.50

We've sold thousands of these mattresses and box springs-on-legs to space-saving, budget-wise Chicagoans. Now we add the unpainted wood headboard (which is fun to paint, paper or slipcover), and the metal casters, which make it easy to roll (a nicety you'll appreciate if you use two of these side-by-side and move them apart to make them). The mattress is well built, sisal and felt insulated, with hundreds of tiny ventilators to keep it perpetually clean. It is covered in a beige and brown striped woven ticking, as is the matching box spring, and the combination is a wonderful buy!

Bedding, Ninth Floor, South, State.

Oriental Rugs

YOU rarely see "used" rugs advertised by Carson's. These, however, are such extraordinary values that we're proud to present them. Some have been used in display. Some were slightly damaged in shipping. Others are semi-antiques that show signs of wear. We've collected and cleaned them and now offer them at ridiculously low prices. You'll recognize the names of best-loved weaves in the partial listing below. There are dozens more to choose from. If ever you've longed for an Oriental but couldn't quite stretch the budget, see these! None will be sold before 9 A.M. No mail or phone orders. No approvals. Naturally, the prize rugs will go first, so hurry in!

IOWA MENACES NOTRE DAME VICTORY STREAK

NEW YORK CASTS VOTE TODAY ON PARI-MUTUELS

Report Opposition Gains Strength.

New York, Nov. 6 [Special].—Whether New York shall have pari-mutuel wagering at its race tracks instead of the present antiquated system of handbook betting will be decided by the voters tomorrow in a state-wide election.

At the top of the ballot to be handed to all voters tomorrow will be the proposed amendment to the constitution of the state, marked amendment No. 1, and providing for legislation of machine, or pari-mutuel wagering at the numerous New York race tracks.

Tonight, on the eve of the election, in which the pari-mutuel proposition is the only item of state-wide interest, the odds in favor of the amendment's adoption had dropped considerably and politicians, while divided on the probable result, indicated a certainty that the vote would be close.

Would Amend Article.

Earlier, the expectation had been that approval of the mutuels system was certain. However, the larger registration upstate, which habitually casts an adverse vote on constitutional changes, plus an ardent opposition campaign lead by church groups and Mayor Fiorello A. La Guardia's last minute plea for its defeat, have increased the chances that the proposal may be beaten. Pari-mutuel advocates have not waged a particularly active campaign, although the state federation of labor today renewed its pledges to support the proposal.

The proposed constitutional change would amend section 9 of article 1, which at present is as follows: "... nor shall any lottery or sale of lottery tickets, pool selling, bookmaking, or any other kind of gambling be authorized or allowed in the state."

The proposed amendment repeals as part of the existing section, but would add to it the following: "... except pari-mutuel betting of horse races as may be prescribed by the legislature and from which the state shall derive a reasonable revenue for the support of the government."

Bookies Free to Operate Now.

Though contrary to the constitution, bookmaker gambling already is recognized at all race tracks in the state. This is accomplished by a statute which prohibits such gambling, but carries no penalty, thus leaving both the statute and the constitution unenforceable. The amendment would legalize track gambling with odds made not by bookies but by the play in the pari-mutuel machines, as is the case in Illinois and many other states.

Such betting would be taxed by the state, with a resultant revenue which has been estimated as high as $10,000,000 yearly, altho this figure has been ridiculed by numerous opponents of the pari-mutuel system among whom are included Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia and Tammany Hall.

State Collects $500,000 Yearly.

Upon approval of the amendment by the electorate, pari-mutuel betting would become effective only if and when the state legislature implemented it by additional statute. It would be within the power of the legislature to prescribe all regulations and supervision for track betting and to fix the rate of revenue the state would receive.

LIGHTSPUR HURT AT DOWNS; MAY BE DESTROYED

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 6 (AP).—John T. Hirsch's 3 year old colt, Lightspur, probably will be destroyed because of a broken bone in his ankle, Trainer Jimmie Goose said tonight.

Lightspur, son of Blue Larkspur-Chickelight, whose earnings the last two seasons totaled $16,755, suffered the injury in the Brown Hotel handicap on Saturday, closing day of the Churchill Downs meeting.

Goose said the final decision whether Lightspur would be destroyed rested with an insurance company, with which the colt is insured for $10,000.

PERRIN BEATS LANDER AGAIN IN CLOSE BATTLE

New Orleans, La., Nov. 6 (AP).—Jimmy Perrin of New Orleans won a close 12 round decision tonight over Eddie Lander of Chicago. Both weighed 127 pounds. Lander was the aggressor thruout and Perrin scored for the Chicago battler charged in. Perrin and Lander fought two weeks ago and Perrin gained a close 10 round decision.

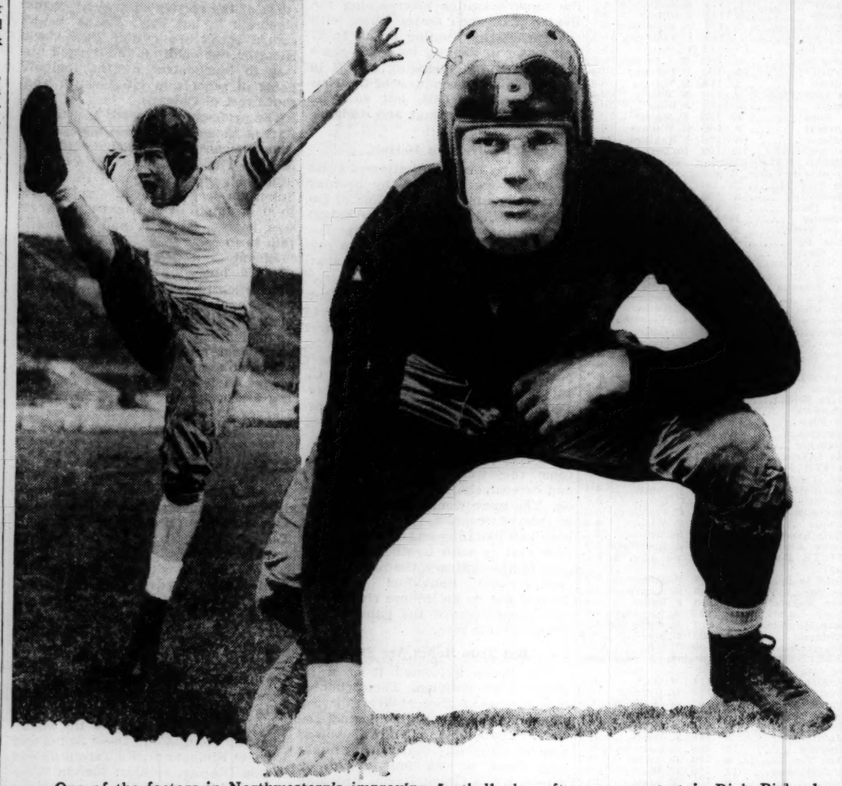
They'll Help Make It a Lively Game in Evanston



One of the factors in Northwestern's improving football play after a poor start is Dick Richards, quarter back, shown getting off a long kick. Right is Felix Mackiewicz, who is figured to play a lot of end for Purdue Saturday when the Boilermakers meet the Wildcats. N. U. still has a mathematical chance for the Big Ten title. Purdue has yet to win a game in the conference.

N. U. Warned Purdue Will Put Up a Fight

Lest Northwestern's Wildcats display a tendency towards over-confidence this week, Coach Lynn Waldorf issued a strong warning yesterday that "Purdue will give us as tough a game as we'll have all year."

Waldorf and his coaching aids have much respect for the offensive prowess of the Boilermakers, feeling that in Brown, Brock, Byelene, and Galvin they have four of the most dangerous backs in the conference.

Usually Suffer Letdown.

Altho Northwestern emerged from the Minnesota game without additional injuries, Coach Waldorf fears that the hard fought engagement may have weakened the team physically. He pointed out that in previous years the Wildcats have usually suffered a letdown the week following a Minnesota game.

This was particularly true last year when Northwestern lost to Wisconsin, 20 to 13, the week after having handed Minnesota a 6 to 3 licking.

Waldorf had praise for the entire Northwestern line. John Haman, who played all except one minute of the Minnesota game, received particular mention as did Hal Method, Joe Lokanc, and John Goldak, guards; Frank Young and Corne Aarts, tackles. Waldorf said that he thought Bob Daly and Ted Grefe, ends, played the best ball of their careers in the last three games.

PURDUE SEEKS POLISH.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 6 [Special].—Seeking to regain the early season blocking precision and offensive and defensive line charge that has been missing in the last two games, Coach Mal Elward sent Purdue's football squad through an extended scrimmage session this afternoon in preparation for the battle with Northwestern's title contenders in Evanston Saturday.

As a result of a siege of injuries and the week long trip to the Pacific coast and back for the Santa Clara encounter, the Boilermakers have had few chances for scrimmage sessions in the last three weeks, and Elward is hopeful that intensive contact work this week may bring back a semblance of the running attack that averaged nearly four yards per try against Notre Dame, Minnesota, and Michigan State, and then slipped to less than two yards against Santa Clara and Iowa.

Yale Eleven Is Lashed by Pond; Nine Are Demoted

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 6 (AP).—Ducky Pond raised his voice above the howl of a stiff n o r' e aster that lashed across the Yale gridiron today and called his Eli varsity "the worst I've coached at any time at Yale." Then he demoted nine of the regulars.

Ducky Pond.

The Eli's usu a lly complacent head coach said that of the regulars who played in last w e e k' s D a r t m o u t h d e b a c l e only Capt Bill Stack, center, and Bob Brooks, tackle, and Ted Harrison, reserve back, were certain to start against Brown here Saturday. He indicated, following one of the severest shakeups in modern Yale football, that the other positions were wide open.

Regulars ousted were Fred Burr, Hal Whiteman, Hovey Seymour, and Hank Wood, backs; Alan Bartholemy and Bill Zilly, ends; Bob Knapp, tackle, and Cape Burnam and Frank Kemp, guards. In declaring these positions open, Pond indicated that any one of these players could regain his former status if he again convinced the coaches that he was better than any other candidate for the job.

"I don't mind saying" asserted Pond, "that the team on Saturday was the worst I've ever coached at any time at Yale, the worst team I think I've ever seen on a Yale field!

"What caused the collapse is something I don't know, but I do think I know the cure for it. Maybe one answer is to make more use of Harrison. I think you'll be seeing a lot of him from now on. It certainly wasn't nice to watch Bill Stack working his head off Saturday, trying to keep the team together and not getting any place. After a 33 to 0 beating it may not sound right to say that any one on the losing side played a good game. But Stack did. He played a great game, as did Brooks."

Pond's wrath also was directed at the "attitude of some of my players" which he described as "not satisfactory at all."

Parker Runs, Passes, Kicks; Dodgers Win

New York, Nov. 6 [Special].—Pittsburgh's Pirates, who haven't won a National Football league game since Whizzer White and Frank Filchock helped beat the Giants a year ago, still were in reverse tonight after their meeting with Ace Parker and the Brooklyn Dodgers in Ebbetts field. The score was 17 to 13, and the hapless Pirates now have failed in their last 14 league encounters. A crowd of 8,951 saw the game.

Pittsburgh never was in the lead and was outplayed more convincingly than the score indicated. The Pirates' lone touchdown came in the closing minutes on Hugh McCullough's passing barrage. Armand Niccolai kicked two field goals.

The 168 pound Parker, playing all but one minute, dominated the action. In the second period he charged to the line of scrimmage, leaped up and fired a touchdown pass to Schwartz, who fell over the goal line when tackled. In the next quarter he sprinted 28 yards to another touchdown and in the last period kicked a 28 yard field goal.

Ralph Kercheval, star Brooklyn kicker, was taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital for observation after suffering a slight concussion in the second period. Dr. Jerome Asch, team physician, said the injury was not serious.

Leader—Thomas.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The boys in the bright hued shirts were tossing the lead in the 42d six day bike race around like a hot potato last night in the Stadium, and out of the furious pedaling emerged early this morning Gerard Debaets-Bobby Thomas and Tino Reboli-Al Letourner in a mileage deadlock. Debaets-Thomas held a technical lead on points.

At the start of the night's cycling the Peden brothers were leading the race, in a mileage tie with Debaets-Thomas, and the Audy-O'Brien pairing. During a series of jams around 10 o'clock, Letourner and Reboli became very zealous and grabbed the lead all by themselves. They were, however, possessed of only 25 sprint points. So when Audy-O'Brien caught up with Al and Tino they became technical leaders on sprint points.

Letourner-Reboli then hung in there despite their absence of sprint points, and Audy-O'Brien finally were shaken off the top and Debaets-Thomas moved in to assume the leadership on the sprint point basis.

The Quiet Is Disgusting.

The racing thus far has been as diligent as recent six day grinds in the past and there has been much hollering during exciting intervals in the racing. However, the strike of the hucksters has left a vast void for many of the addicts.

Many of the habitues say they can't feel the same, with no hucksters stepping on their feet, no raucous crying of wares in clouds of garlic, no impairment of vision by body stymies. Some of the old-time spectators, who go to sleep during lulls in the jamming, used to rely upon clumsy vendors to wake them up at intervals. Now, they find, they sometimes snore for hours with no human alarm clock to rouse them.

Very few screwballs have shown up at the race so far. Last night a man came into the hall with a bicycle made out of shotguns. He put the vehicle on display and was so pleased with the interest manifest that he asked permission to fetch down another novelty he made with his own hands. It is a tandem with a sewing machine attached.

What's a 3pill to Moretti?

He explains that his missus rides on the sewing machine end, doing her stitching on power supplied by papa's pedaling. The man said he and his spouse have had many happy hours on the utilitarian vehicle, the little woman frequently dismounting after a vigorous spin, with a brand new kimono, formal gown, mother hubbard, or, on shorter rides, perhaps a nice apron.

There was only one spill during last night's going. Cesar Moretti, the lad who had such a hard time getting here from Antwerp, hit the boards, but did not feel nearly so shaken up as he did during the fourteen days of submarine dodging before he landed in New York Sunday noon. REMEMBER 'way back last winter when certain groups thought Bob Zuppke had outlived his usefulness to Illinois? . . . Zuppke and his Illini not only whipped Michigan last Saturday but they flattened every gridiron prognosticator in the land. . . . More power to them. . . . We can take it. . . . The No. 1 wisecrack of the week goes to Postmaster James A. Farley, who was asked the night before the Army-Notre Dame game if he would be neutral. . . . He replied, "As neutral as an Irishman can be." . . . Three members of the Ohio State eleven—Johnny Raab, full back; Claude White, center, and Tommy Welbaum, full back, are married. . . . Paul Derringer and Bucky Walters of the Reds won major league work horse honors for 1939. . . . Paul worked 301 innings and Bucky 319. . . . Bob Feller of the Indians was third with 297. . . . Roger Bresnahan, himself once a great catcher, calls Bill Dickey the all-time champion at that position. . . . Which ought to make it unanimous everywhere except on Chicago's north side. . . . You can't beat New York sports writers for getting to the bottom of things. . . . One opined that the reason the heavyweight boxing exposé was broken in Chicago "is because a newspaper there didn't want a Baer-Galento fight to conflict with its big amateur tournament." . . . Wonder if he ever has tried to get a seat at the Golden Gloves finals. . . .

Rix Yard, veteran Pennsylvania tackle, is a descendant of John Burgoyne, British commander in the revolutionary war. . . . Chris Cagle, one of the greatest backs who ever played football for Army, weighs only eight pounds more than he did as a cadet. . . . He is an insurance salesman in New York. . . . So is Elmer Oliphant, one of football's all-time greats. . . . When Jimmy Crowley wants to needle Elmer Layden he remarks that the most vivid recollection of his Notre Dame playing days is the blocks Elmer missed when he [Crowley] was carrying the ball. . . . In 1911 rain caused a lapse of a week between the third and fourth games of the world series. . . . The Giants and Athletics were the participants. . . . An executive of one of New York's largest hotels informs this department that his place makes more money the night before the Army-Notre Dame game than it does on New Year's eve.

The Cold Facts.

We know now how Fritz Crisler and Mal Elward feel. The results of last week's forecasts were 48 winners, 30 losers, and 3 ties. The season's record: 277 winners, 104 losers, and 25 ties. Percentage—.727.

DI MAGGIO AND MISS ARNOLD TO MARRY NOV. 19

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 6 (AP).—Joe DiMaggio, New York Yankee outfielder, expects to marry Screen Actress Dorothy Arnold in San Francisco on Sunday, Nov. 19, his family said today.

Joe was not at home, but his older brother, Tom, said invitations to the wedding would be mailed tomorrow. It will be held in SS. Peter and Paul's Catholic church, in San Francisco's Latin quarter, where the DiMaggios live.

The brother's disclosure of plans for the wedding date followed an earlier announcement in Duluth, Minn., credited to Miss Arnold's friends, that she and Joe would be married tomorrow.

REVIVED TEAM GIVES HAWKEYE FANS NEW HOPE

45,000 Will See First Clash Since '21.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 6 [Special].—Enthused over the best record of any Hawkeye team in the last decade, University of Iowa football partisans today became conscious of the possibility that Notre Dame's victory streak of six straight games might end here Saturday.

Eddie Anderson.

Beaten six times and tied once in eight 1938 games, this year's Iowa team has done a complete about face to win four of its first five starts. As a consequence, Iowa City and most of the state is going into a mild frenzy over the second meeting in history with Notre Dame, and the first since 1921, when Iowa's Western conference champions defeated the Irish, 10 to 7. That was Notre Dame's only loss in eleven games that season, and Iowa swept on to an unbeaten, untied record.

Expect Capacity Throng.

Additional interest in this week's game is created by the fact that Eddie Anderson, serving his first season as Iowa coach, was captain of the 1921 Notre Dame team. Both coaches of the rival teams are natives of Iowa. Anderson hails from Mason City. Davenport is the home of Elmer Layden of Notre Dame. Both started their coaching careers in Dubuque, Ia., at Loras college [formerly Columbia].

Altho tickets still are available, a capacity crowd of approximately 45,000 is expected to witness the engagement. Notre Dame's record alone would be enough to lure them into Iowa stadium. The Irish have beaten Purdue, Georgia Tech, Southern Methodist, Navy, Carnegie Tech, and Army. But Iowa, too, has been on a victory rampage, beating South Dakota, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Purdue, altho losing to Michigan.

They Get No Rest.

The revived interest in Iowa football fortunes is reflected in the fact that 2,000 cheering students and townspeople turned out yesterday to welcome the team home from its 4 to 0 triumph over Purdue. While neither the coach nor the squad members made any speeches, they had to fight their way thru the crowd to waiting automobiles. Traffic in downtown Iowa City was blocked for fully an hour by the parading students.

Today Coach Anderson changed the usual order of Monday procedure and instead of excusing those who saw service on Saturday, called the entire squad out for practice. The drill, however, was light, being limited to jogging around the field, passing and punting, and general limbering up exercises.

Injuries Are Minor.

Anderson indicated that practice this week would be light, with offensive work coming in for chief attention. In Nile Kinnick, the Iowans believe they have a dangerous triple threat to the Irish.

The Iowa squad is in good physical condition. Only Ken Pettit, former end who played 60 minutes as a guard against Purdue, and Buzz Dean, right half back, were handicaped. Pettit's injury to the calf of his leg was described as minor. Dean developed a bruised shoulder and back against the Boilermakers.

IRISH GET NO RECESS.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 6 [Special].—A comparison of notes by Notre Dame scouts led Coach Elmer Layden to cancel the Monday recess and to call all hands out for a brief workout today.

The scouts were agreed that Iowa, next Saturday's opponent, is the most dangerous team on the schedule thus far, and that the Hawkeyes have to concede little if anything to Carnegie Tech in the way of ruggedness and aggressiveness. Notre Dame nosed out Carnegie, 7 to 6.

Four Regulars Missing.

It appeared that the Irish might be without the services of four regulars this week, although Tad Harvey, right tackle, may be able to play. Harvey, Bud Kerr and Tor Gallagher were unable to play in the 14 to 0 victory over Army.

Kerr was confined to the infirmary last Tuesday and will not be released before Wednesday, the team physician said today. The senior left end is suffering from a kidney infection.

Lou Zontini was added to the casualty list when he suffered a recurrence of a shoulder injury which he received a week ago against Carnegie. His blocking effectiveness was impaired Saturday, and he may be benched this week.

$10,000 PIMLICO HANDICAP GOES TO CHALLEPHEN

6 Year Old Brann Horse Wins by Two Lengths.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 6 (AP).—Owner W. L. Brann and Trainer Lou Schaefer, who sent Challedon out to win the 3 year old championship, scored again today when Challephen won the $10,000 added Riggs handicap with a gallant rush in the closing steps.

The 6 year old bay gelding, running with a stride reminiscent of his great stablemate, barely got up in the final dash to the wire to beat Mrs. John D. Hertz's Count d'Or by a head. Brandywine stable's Masked General, the favorite, was half a length back in third place.

Wins with Closing Rush.

The track was slow and Challephen's time for the mile and three-sixteenths route was 2:01 3-5. He earned $10,125 for Brann and paid $16, $6.50 and $4.70 for $2.

A crowd of 8,000 saw Jockey Nick Wall hold Challephen back in third place while Jockey Johnny Longden on Count d'Or, and Moose Peters, on Masked General, battled for the lead.

At the one mile pole, Masked General was leading by a head, but coming into the home stretch Count d'Or stuck his nose out in front. While these two battled, Challephen came from three lengths back to catch them both.

Pass Up Bimelech Race.

Owners of Challedon and Kayak II., the horses that ran one-two in the Pimlico Special, indicated today they would not accept E. R. Bradley's offer to match his 2 year old champion, Bimelech, against any comer under rigid conditions laid down by the Kentucky sportsman.

Charles S. Howard, whose Argentine-bred Kayak II. was beaten by Challedon in the Special, said his horse was trained for long races and there wasn't time before the Nov. 15 deadline to prepare him for as short a duel as Bradley stipulated.

STABLE WINS BY 2 LENGTHS.

Pawtucket, R. I., Nov. 6 (AP).—Stable, 3 year old daughter of Swift and Sure, today won the featured claiming race at Narragansett park. Ridden by M. Packer, the filly started well off the pace until the last quarter mile, then rushed to the front. She won by two lengths from Ruth Sidell's Hope Diamond, which nosed out F. S. Trumbull's Jest Once for the place.

Army Riders Retire Cup in Horse Show

New York, Nov. 6 (AP).—The United States Army team tonight accomplished the retirement of one of the national horse show's most prized trophies when it won the Irish Army Challenge trophy.

The Army team, a selected group representing the whole cavalry corps, had to win it the hard way in a jump-off with the Fort Myer, Va., team which tied the winning riders in the first time through the eight-jump course.

Riding for the Army was Lieut. F. S. Henry and Capt. Carl A. Raguse, who rode The Lovable Dakota. Henry rode two horses, Renzo and Masquerader. They finished the first trial with only two faults, as did the Fort Myer team—Capt. Charles H. McClelland on Smacko, Lieut. J. H. Polk on Clipped Wings, and Capt. R. L. Taylor on Eyes Delight.

Then in the jump off Lieut. Henry went through with two faults, Capt. Raguse on Dakota picked up two more and then Henry, this time on Masquerader, rode smartly to pick up only one. The Fort Myer team started sensationally with Capt. McClelland making but one error but then Lieut. Polk, on Clipped Wings, made 5¼, and Eyes Delight refused Capt. Taylor to total seven. That gave the Army team the ride-off by a score of 5½ faults to 13½ for Fort Myer.

Bazso Beats Duco in C.Y.O. Tourney Bout

A pair of lightweights stole the show in the opening west side matches of the annual C. Y. O. boxing tournament last night in the Madison Athletic club, 4711 West Madison street. Additional bouts will be contested tonight, starting at 8:15 o'clock.

Martin Bazso, a 135 pounder from St. Gall's parish, unleashed a stirring offensive for three full rounds to defeat Joe Duco, altho Duco earned the plaudits of the crowd.

Welterweight contenders dominated last night's program, which also saw candidates in the 118 pound class make their bid for sectional honors. Tonight entrants in the 112, 126, 160 and 175 pound classes will go into action, in addition to boys in the other four weights. Winners will qualify for the quarter-final round of the tournament.

BADGER SHAKEUP PUTS 5 NEW MEN ON FIRST STRING

Wisconsin to Get Heavy Work for Illinois.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 6 [Special].—Five new faces were on Wisconsin's first string varsity eleven this afternoon as Coach Harry Stuhldreher speeded up preparations for the Illinois game in Champaign Saturday.

Gordon Gile.

As a result of one of the most drastic shakeups of the season, Tommy Farris, a Chicago sophomore, was at quarter back in place of Fred Gage; Johnny Tennant, a junior from Fennimore, Wis., was at left half back where Billy Schmitz and Bob Peterson have been carrying the major load; Don Koibusz, Green Bay sophomore, was at left guard in place of Bob Holloway; Gordon Gile, a sophomore end, was at left tackle in place of Bob Eckl; and Al Dorsch was at right tackle in place of the towering Elmer Tornow.

Tennant and Farris won first string berths in the back field as a result of Saturday's scrimmage when, as members of the third team, they helped beat the first team, 14 to 0. Koibusz took over Holloway's job at guard when the latter was injured in the Northwestern game and threatens to keep it.

ILLINI GO BACK TO WORK.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 6 [Special].—Despite its hard battle with Michigan, Illinois' football squad was in the best after game condition of the season today as it began preparations for the Wisconsin game Saturday.

Laverne Astroth, sophomore half back forced to leave the game with a cramped leg muscle, will be available. Chuck Purvis, senior half back, was used only sparingly Saturday, but will be in better condition for full time duty this week. Nate Johnson, sophomore tackle, out since the Indiana game, also is ready.

Cliff Peterson, junior full back, was in uniform for the first time since the Southern California game Oct. 14. He alternated with George Rettinger at full back, running signals with the first team, and may be available Saturday.

FATHER OF YOUTH WHO LOST LEG BACKS FOOTBALL

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 6 [Special].—The "fervent hope" that "no foolish outcry against football" may be raised as the result of the accident in the Princeton-Brown game that resulted in his son's loss of a leg was expressed today by Donald Grant Herring Sr. Herring, a member of the Princeton class of 1907 and one of the university's great football figures of the past, said:

"The play was absolutely clean and the mathematical chances against an injury so serious must have been many millions to one. It is the fervent hope of the boy who was injured, and of his family, that no foolish outcry against football be raised as the aftermath of an accident almost unprecedented in the 70 year history of the game."

CHICAGO ROLLER SKATERS MEET NEW YORK TEAM

The New York Gardens' roller skating team will arrive this morning to prepare for its series of races with the Chicago squad, which starts tonight in the Coliseum.

The two teams will line up as follows:

CHICAGO—Bob Brink and Delores Hoffman, Eddy Gallagher and Peggy O'Neill, Jerry Mercer and June Thomas, Bill and "Ma" Bonner and Johnny Kosasco and Ivy King.

The Chicago team ended its series with the Canadiens in a 175 to 172 victory last night.

George Downer, Wisconsin Publicity Director, Better

Madison, Wis., Nov. 6 [Special].—George F. Downer, University of Wisconsin athletic publicity director, was reported to be recovering in a hospital tonight after a week's illness from what physicians described as intestinal influenza. Downer, who won letters in track while a student at the university in the '90s, coached for a number of years before becoming sports editor of the Milwaukee Sentinel. He returned to his alma mater as director of athletic publicity in 1918. Downer is 63 years old.

Michigan May Lose Services of Evashevski

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 6 [Special].—Coach Fritz Crisler of Michigan faced a gloomy future today. The Wolverines, rudely knocked out of first place Saturday by an inspired Illinois eleven, may meet Minnesota this week minus the services of Forest Evashevski, star quarter back, and also the second string signal-caller, Harry Kohl.

Evashevski suffered a strained and badly bruised ankle on the third play of the game at Illinois which severely handicapped him during the game, and following X-ray examinations yesterday, Dr. George Hammond gave him only a 50-50 chance to play Saturday. Kohl, Evashevski's first replacement, has not yet recovered from a foot infection.

GOPHERS SEEK PUNCH.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 6 [Special].—It was a battered and disillusioned University of Minnesota football team that went back to work today in unhappy anticipation of the Michigan game at Ann Arbor Saturday.

Syrus Johnson, veteran tackle, was out for two weeks with a dislocated elbow. Bob Smith, sophomore guard, was out temporarily with pulled leg muscles, but it appeared certain he would be ready for Michigan. George Franck and Earl Ohlgren also were ailing, but likewise will be ready.

Light work was the order of the day, with Coach Bernie Bierman concentrating on a search for new prospects to give the Gophers the punch they lacked against Northwestern.

WESTERN LEAGUE VOTES TO EXPAND TO EIGHT CLUBS

Sioux City, Ia., Nov. 6 (AP).—The Western Baseball league will have eight clubs next season instead of six. Members of the league voted to add two members at their annual meeting here today.

Medinah Bowler Ball Is Set for Saturday Night

Charles J. LaMena, president of Medinah Country club, announced yesterday that the fourth annual Bowlers' Ball will be held in the club this Saturday night. Otto Karsted, general chairman of associated bowling leagues, and many prominent Chicago bowlers and golfers will be present.

Larry Kelley to Fly to Chicago for Rugby Game

Larry Kelley, former All-American from Yale, will fly to Chicago to take his place in the lineup of the New York rugby football club when it faces the Chicago team Sunday afternoon in Soldiers' field. Kelley explained that his coaching duties at Peddie prep school in New Jersey would delay his start until Saturday afternoon.

Kelley's appearance in rugby football scanties marks his first visit to the middle west as an athlete. While Kelley won All-American honors as en end, his job with the New York fifteen will be that of a forward, which partially corresponds to the line in regular football.

However, because rugby is so wide open and any player may run, kick, or pass the ball laterally at any time, the former Yale ace will have opportunities to break loose. His 14 teammates have had either football or rugby experience at big eastern institutions.

This inter-sectional game on the lake front is the only major gridiron attraction here Sunday. Topping the Chicago lineup is Jay Berwanger, the Maroon's former one-man team. With these two All-Americans facing each other on the gridiron, Chicagoans will be looking at a pair of athletes who, between them, have refused small fortunes in pro football offers.

LEAGUE LEADERS MEET.

The undefeated and untied Mosart A. C., of the American division of the Greater Chicago Football league will meet Hawthorne, leaders of the National division, tonight in Weber park.

COACHING'S FUN (SATURDAY) FOR SCHMIDT OF OHIO

He and Players Relax, for Maroons Are Next.

Columbus, O., Nov. 6 [Special].—The Ohio State football squad took it easy today, with all the regulars who participated in the Indiana game Saturday being excused from practice. The remainder of the squad, however, went to work in earnest, not only in preparation for the game with Chicago in Chicago next Saturday, but in drilling the reserve team for a game with the Purdue reserves in Lafayette nert Saturday.

Excepting the usual bumps and bruises, the players again came thru a tough game without serious physical injuries.

Coach Francis Schmidt praised his second string players' performance against Indiana. Especially did Leonard Thom, John Hallabrin, and Dick Fisher come in for their share. Thom started the game at right tackle and the others replaced the regulars after the Buckeyes had run up a sizeable score.

PLANS HOOSIER SHAKEUP.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 6 [Special].—A shakeup in the Indiana university football squad which suffered a 24 to 0 defeat at Ohio State Saturday was promised today by Coach Bo McMillin as he began preparations for the Hoosiers' next game against Fordham at New York this week end.

"Some of the younger boys who looked good last Saturday may get the call at Fordham," McMillin said. McMillin warned the veterans that they will be on the bench at Fordham if they fail to show effective blocking and tackling in scrimmage under game conditions which will be held this week before the squad embarks Thursday. A blocking scrimmage today occupied the squad which emerged from the Buckeye game in fairly good physical condition.

FORDHAM DRAWS REST.

"THE BRIDGE PLAYERS" at GREAT NORTHERN HOTEL
VOTE MEISTER BRÄU BEST—28 to 4

WHEN members of "The Bridge Players" gathered for an evening of play at their club rooms in the Great Northern Hotel, they were asked to taste Meister Bräu Beer, compare it with other brands of bottled beer, and vote the results of their comparison by secret ballot. These past masters at the art of remembering, which is vital in the game of bridge, voted Meister Bräu the best of bottled beers by the landslide majority of 7 to 1.

Independent Investigator Stages Showdown Tests on Public Preference in Beer

To learn what brand of bottled beer leads in sales, Chicago newspapers secured figures from leading beer retailers. These reports showed Meister Bräu away out in front by from 2 to 1 to 10 to 1. The Reuben H. Donnelley Corporation was asked to check on this amazing popularity and determine the reason for it, by holding taste-and-compare tests where groups of men and women gather.

These tests show that the old-time, all-grain flavor of Meister Bräu gives it this astonishing preference both with those who remember back to the old days and with those who appreciate top quality.

MACHINE TOOLS.

Please send me some information on Giddings & Lewis Machine Tool company.—K. D.

Answer: Giddings & Lewis Machine Tool company manufactures high power precision boring, drilling, and milling machines. Major users of its products are manufacturers of electrical and gasoline motors, Diesel engines, generators, and compressors. The company's machines are also used to a large extent in the automotive industry for toolroom work.

Net income last year amounted to $359,575, or $3.60 a common share, against $249,454, or $2.49 a common share in 1937. In the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1939, net income was $324,822, or $3.25 a share, against $398,612, or $3.99 a share, in the same period last year.

There are 100,000 shares of $2 par common stock outstanding. Stockholders will meet Nov. 9 to vote on proposals to increase the authorized number of shares from 100,000 to 400,000 and to offer for sale 125,000 shares of the new stock. Funds from this sale will be used to acquire the Cincinnati Planer company for approximately $1,250,000 and for additional working capital.

It is also proposed to issue 100,000 of the new shares as a stock dividend to present stockholders at the rate of one new share for each share now held. Dividends totaling $1 last year and in 1937 were paid on this stock. So far in the present year dividends amount to 75 cents a share.

Current assets were $879,741 and current liabilities $61,183 on Sept. 30, 1939, leaving net working capital of $818,558. There is no funded debt.

ICE.

I purchased some common shares of American Ice company about 10 years ago, when the price was around $50 a share. I is now down around $2 a share. Can you give me any information on the trend of earnings over this period?—I. S.

Answer: Growing use of mechanical refrigerators has cut into earnings of American Ice company. Net income was above 4 million dollars in 1929 and 1930, but has not exceeded 1 million dollars since 1933. Last year a loss was reported. Net income in the last 10 years:

Year.	Net income	Year.	Net income
1929	$3,431,134	1934	$ 453,779
1930	3,200,270	1935	30,108
1931	2,831,858	1936	155,978
1932	1,424,313	1937	339,216
1933	872,489	1938	*279,607

*Net loss.

In the first nine months of the present year the company had a net income of $239,868, against a net loss of $29,139 in the same period last year.

BONDS' PRIORITY IN REORGANIZING PLANS IS UPHELD

Stock Claim Barred by High Court.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6 (AP).—A government contention that reorganization plans for corporations under the federal bankruptcy act should give precedence to the entire claim of bondholders before participation by stockholders was upheld in general today by the Supreme court.

The tribunal's views were made known in an opinion by Justice Douglas which reversed a plan for reorganization of the Los Angeles Lumber Products Company, Ltd.

"We believe," Justice Douglas said, "that to accord 'the creditor his full right of priority against the corporate assets' where the debtor is insolvent, the stockholder's participation must be based on a contribution in money or in money's worth, reasonably equivalent in view of all the circumstances to the participation of the stockholder."

No Dissent Announced.

No dissent was announced. Justice Butler did not take part.

Participating in the litigation as a "friend of the court," government attorneys had asked the tribunal for "a definitive judicial interpretation" of the standard by which plans of reorganization under federal laws are to be found "fair and equitable."

Joined by attorneys for the interstate commerce commission and the Securities and Exchange commission, Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson said, "The decision of this case should guide the proper disposition of thousands of corporate reorganization cases."

Counsel for the lumber company asserted that "to grant the government's demands would plunge the Supreme court into the legislative field reserved to congress."

Termed District Court Power.

"Congress," the counsel said, "left the findings of fact upon which the fairness of reorganization should be based to the United States District courts, subject to review on appeal. The government is urging the Supreme court to legislate rules to guide the District courts and other governmental agencies in their fact finding tasks."

Under the plan for reorganization of the lumber company, stockholders were permitted to participate to a certain extent along with bondholders. The plan was approved by the Southern California Federal District court and by the 9th Federal Circuit court.

The litigation opposing the plan was brought by Thomas K. Case of Los Angeles and the estate of Adele B. Cowan, owning $18,500 face value of the bonds.

Tax Refunds Blocked.

In another case the Supreme court prevented large tax refunds to oil companies by confirming a treasury method of treating development expenses.

In an opinion written by Justice Douglas, the court agreed with the treasury that when oil companies treated development costs as "current expenses" at the time they were made, the companies could not come along in later years and treat the development expenses as capital items to permit larger depreciation allowances.

Internal revenue bureau officials said that if the court had ruled otherwise, many oil companies might have been entitled to substantial refunds on the income taxes they paid in recent years.

Approximately 100 cases involving 8 million dollars already were pending before the board of tax appeals.

The issue came before the court in two opposite cases. The court reversed a 9th Circuit court decision which had ruled in favor of the Wilshire Oil company of Los Angeles on the point, and affirmed a 5th Circuit court decision in which the government already had won the same type of argument against the F. H. E. oil company of Fort Worth, Tex.

No dissent was announced. Justices Butler and Reed did not participate.

Rules on "Interurban" Issue.

The Texas Electric Railway company was held by the Supreme court to be subject to the provisions of the railway labor act, providing for settlement of disputes between carriers and their employés.

A decision by a three judge federal court in northern Texas holding that the legislation applied to the electric railway was affirmed without a written opinion.

The railroad contended it was exempt from the act under a provision excluding any interurban electric railway "unless such railway is operating as a part of a general steam railroad system of transportation."

The state of Massachusetts won a decision in a case involving the right of a federal court to order discontinuance of an intrastate rail line operated by a road in bankruptcy. The Supreme court held in an opinion by Justice Frankfurter that the jurisdiction of a federal court handling a railroad bankruptcy proceeding does not include control powers over intrastate lines.

Board for New U. P. & L. Will Be Elected Nov. 20

A meeting of preferred stock holders and debenture holders of the present Utilities Power and Light corporation will be held Nov. 20 to elect a board of nine directors for the new company, Charles True Adams, trustee, announced yesterday. Earlier that day, Adams said, a hearing will be held before Federal Judge William H. Holly on confirmation of the reorganization plan.

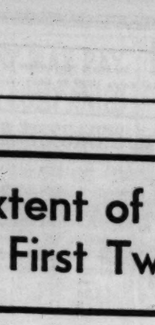
WOLVERTON CRITICIZES ADMINISTRATION PLAN FOR CONTROL OVER OIL

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6 [Special].—Administration proposals for safeguards against wasteful gas and oil production methods were directed at stabilization of the oil industry rather than conservation of natural resources, Representative Wolverton [R., N. J.] asserted today.



Rep. C. A. Wolverton.

Wolverton said figures introduced at a house interstate commerce subcommittee hearing indicated there was no need for the pending legislation "except that which exists in somebody's mind." Questioning witnesses on the point that most oil legislation in the last five years has been directed at stabilization, Wolverton said he thought the point was proved when most states shut down production last August after one major company announced a crude oil price cut.

The pending bill, introduced last July by the chairman of the subcommittee, would create a new division in the interior department to set up standards thru which the government would determine whether waste was accompanying oil and gas production.

42 MILLION ISSUE TO END DROUTH IN BOND FINANCING

New York, Nov. 6 [Special].—The two and one-half month drouth in new corporate bond financing will be broken next week, underwriters disclosed today. A group consisting of some 57 members is expected to offer $42,225,000 of bonds and notes of the Jersey Central Power and Light company on Thursday.

The financing by Jersey Central Power consists of $39,000,000 of first mortgage bonds, due in 1964, and $3,225,000 of serial notes, maturing from 1940 to 1949.

Illinois Levies 252 Million Taxes in Year

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6 (AP).—Illinois reported to the census bureau its tax collections totaled $252,690,000 in the fiscal year ended June 30.

The bureau said the total collections reported by 43 states whose fiscal years ended between Dec. 31, 1938, and Aug. 31, 1939, showed an 18.5 per cent increase over 1937 collections.

This, the bureau said, excluded unemployment compensation taxes, licenses, and fees except those on business and motor vehicles, alcoholic beverage system profits, and a few minor unspecified taxes. Using the unemployment compensation collections for both years, the increase was slightly more than 32 per cent.

Information for Pennsylvania was not available. Also left out of the report were Alabama, Maryland, Wyoming, and Massachusetts, whose fiscal years end after Aug. 31.

Taxes Jump Since 1937.

In the 43 reporting states tax collections, including unemployment compensation, amounted to $3,169,972,000 this year, compared with $2,398,900,000 in 1937, and, excluding unemployment compensation, $2,517,000,800 this year, compared with $2,124,900,000.

The unemployment compensation tax showed the largest increase in the two years, from $274,000,000 collected in 31 states in 1937 to $652,000,000 collected in the 43 reporting states this year.

Aside from this the largest percentage increases were in yields from sales taxes on specific commodities, license and gross receipts taxes on specific businesses, motor vehicle licenses, and poll taxes, all increasing more than 25 per cent.

Division of Taxes Shown.

Unemployment compensation taxes, motor fuel sales taxes, and sales taxes other than on motor fuel yielded approximately 20 per cent each of all state revenues this year. Income taxes, motor vehicle licenses, and license taxes on specific businesses accounted for approximately 10 per cent each, and the remaining 10 per cent of the total came, in order of yield, from property, inheritance, severance, and poll taxes.

General sales taxes, $81,517,000; motor fuel tax, $41,024,000; alcoholic beverage sales tax, $9,483,000; tobacco products sales tax, none; sales taxes on other commodities, none; amusements, gross receipts, $629,000; utilities, gross receipts, $11,744,000; insurance companies, gross receipts, $7,505,000; alcoholic beverage licenses, $1,419,000; chain store licenses, none; other licenses on specific businesses, $3,085,000; severance, none; motor vehicle licenses, $23,955,000; corporate income, none; individual income, none; inheritance, estate, and gift, $5,636,000; poll, none; public utilities, property, none; undistributed, property, $555,000; unemployment compensation, $66,140,000.

MORE INDICTMENTS ARE VOTED IN FEDERAL INQUIRY ON BUILDING

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 6 (AP).—Thirty-six additional indictments were returned today by a federal grand jury investigating the construction industry in Pittsburgh in conjunction with a nation-wide antitrust inquiry.

Most of the new indictments represented additional counts against some of the electrical contractors and contracting firms named in a previous indictment charging 45 individuals, 12 electrical contracting firms, and an electrical contractors' association with conspiracy to defraud the government in bidding on public works.

The new indictments accused the contractors of making false certificates in connection with bids on several PWA financed building projects in Allegheny county.

STEEL OUTPUT WILL RISE THIS WEEK TO 92.5%

Steel industry operations this week will advance 1.5 points to 92.5 per cent of capacity, the American Iron and Steel institute reported yesterday. This is the highest rate since the institute began compiling operating statistics in 1933, it was announced. A month ago operations were at the rate of 88.6 per cent of capacity, while a year ago they were 61 per cent.

Fulfilling earlier predictions, the institute reported October production of open hearth and Bessemer steel ingots was the largest on record. Vastly increased demands since the beginning of the European war boosted the total to 5,393,821 gross tons. The former peak of 5,286,246 tons was registered in May, 1929.

Fight on $40,079 Judgment Is Lost by Downers Grove

A $40,079 judgment in favor of the receiver of the First National Bank of Downers Grove against the village was allowed to stand yesterday when the United States Supreme court refused to review the case. The Circuit court previously had held that the village's sale of securities pledged by the bank before it closed, to secure village deposits, was invalid.

GEN'L MOTORS TO PAY DIVIDEND OF $1.25 DEC. 12

Boosts Year's Total to $3.50 a Share.

Directors of General Motors corporation yesterday ordered a dividend of $1.25 a share on the common stock, boosting the total which will have been paid in 1939 to $3.50. This compares with total payments on the common of $1.50 last year and $3.75 in 1937.

General Motors made three payments of 75 cents each earlier this year. The newly declared payment is to be made Dec. 12 to holders of record Nov. 16. In 1938 three payments of 25 cents each were made in the first three quarters of the year and another of 75 cents was disbursed in December. In 1937 a payment of 25 cents was made in March, two of $1 each in June and September, and in December that year $1.50 was disbursed.

Reflects Rise in Profit.

The General Motors payment will involve distribution of more than $53,600,000. It reflects the company's large increase in earnings in the September quarter and for the first nine months of this year, as previously reported, and a substantial improvement in car sales so far in 1939.

A regular payment of 75 cents and an additional year-end payment of $2.25 were ordered made to common stockholders by directors of Coca-Cola company. Both are payable Dec. 15 to stock of record Dec. 1. These payments will bring the total paid on the common stock to $5 for the year, compared with $4.50 last year, and represents the largest amount disbursed in any year since 1935.

Coca-Cola directors at the same time voted an extra month's salary to all employés outside the management group and announced the company's September quarter business established a record for any three month period in its history. The managerial personnel will participate in the distribution of about $250,000 additional compensation.

Same As Earlier Payments.

The 75 cent dividend was the same as those declared in the two preceding quarters, while the $2.25 payment is a year-end distribution.

North American Aviation, Inc., ordered a dividend of $1 on its capital stock, payable Dec. 15 to holders of record Nov. 20. The last previous dividend was 40 cents paid July 12, which was also the only disbursement this year. Last year a total of 40 cents was paid.

Directors of Harbison Walker Refactories company ordered a dividend of 55 cents a share on the common stock, payable Dec. 1 to holders of record Nov. 16. Payments of 15 cents were made in each of the three preceding quarters this year. In 1938 a total of 50 cents was paid.

Price Cuts Do Little to Aid Steel Sales, Says Fairless

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6 (AP).—Benjamin F. Fairless, president of the United States Steel corporation, told the monopoly investigating committee today that a reduction of steel prices ordinarily has little or no stimulating effect on demand, provided a "fair" price was in effect before the cut.

Benjamin Fairless.

He said this was largely true in the case of the major steel price reduction in the summer of 1938, altho production increased materially after the cut. The 1938 reduction, he said, was chiefly a matter of reducing published prices to prices actually being paid, and therefore could have had little effect on demand.

Fairless made these comments when the committee questioned him as to why his company and the steel industry had not reduced published base prices when business fell in the last half of 1937.

Tells of Bargaining.

Fairless replied that United States Steel actually had made "substantial reductions" below published prices in dealing with individual customers as a matter of bargaining.

"Our published price is the one we feel is fair," Fairless said, "and the one we want to get and feel we're entitled to. When we don't succeed, it's because competition won't permit. I don't know how we could operate our business on a daily fluctuating base price."

In response to a question by Leon Henderson, Securities and Exchange commission member, Fairless said one of the considerations was the belief that it would be difficult to restore the published price once it had been reduced. "We knew from long experience," he testified, "that it is easy to push prices down, but very difficult to bring them back up."

Increase Not Fully Realized.

The company never did realize fully an increase in prices published early in 1937, Fairless said.

Earlier a University of Virginia economist told the committee that speculators in steel, expecting heavy war business, are "likely to be disappointed in the near future."

The economist, M. G. Dechazeau, economic consultant for the justice department, asserted that "the present demand for steel appears to be highly speculative with much of it going into inventories."

"As such," he said, "it is unstable and likely to bring a future recession."

Allotments of RFC Notes Increased to $275,866,000

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6 (AP).—Because of a heavy oversubscription of the Reconstruction Finance corporation's offer of $250,000,000 worth of notes last week the final allotments increased the size of the issue to $275,866,000. Bids for the new 1 per cent notes, with which the RFC will pay off a $258,000,000 debt to the treasury, totaled $3,618,674,000.

MANY MARKETS CLOSED TODAY; CHICAGO'S OPEN

Many of the nation's securities and commodities markets, including the New York Stock exchange and other markets in that city, will be closed today because of state and local elections. The Chicago Stock exchange and the Chicago Board of Trade, as well as he mercantile exchange and the live stock market, will remain open. The New Orleans Cotton exchange and stock markets in Baltimore and Salt Lake City will continue business as usual, but the St. Louis Stock exchange will close at noon. Nearly all of the securities and commodities exchanges, as well as the banks, will close again Saturday for Armistice day.

TRUSTEE NAMED BY COURT FOR MAJESTIC RADIO

Claude A. Roth, an attorney, yesterday was appointed trustee of the Majestic Radio and Television corporation by Federal Judge John P. Barnes. Roth's bond was set at $50,000.

Judge Barnes ordered the trustee to file a report Nov. 20, set Dec. 4 as the date for filing a plan of reorganization and Dec. 27 for a hearing.

PROFIT TRIPLED IN NINE MONTHS BY EASTERN AIR

Coca-Cola Earnings Best on Record.

Earnings of Eastern Air Lines, Inc., for the first nine months of 1939 were more than three times larger than in the corresponding period of last year, Capt. Edward V. Rickenbacker, president, reported to shareholders yesterday.

Capt. Rickenbacker.

The company's net income was $456,840, equal to $1.08 a share, compared with $137,588, or 33 cents a share, in the first nine months of 1938. Profit for the third quarter was $93,424, equal to 22 cents a share, against a loss of $10,175 in the third period of last year.

Altho each year since 1935 has produced profitable operations, this has been the first year in which profits have been recorded in each of the first nine months, Capt. Rickenbacker said in a message accompanying the report.

Mail Revenues Increase.

Passenger revenues amounted to $3,984,983 in the nine months, a gain of 40 per cent over such revenues in last year's corresponding period. Air mail revenues were up 15 per cent to $1,286,750, and express revenues rose 35 per cent to $148,818. Eastern Air Lines now operates over a route of 5,330 miles, which gives the company second place among domestic air transport companies, Capt. Rickenbacker said.

The Coca-Cola company, leading soft drink producer, reported that its earnings in the September quarter were the largest for any three month period in the company's history.

Profits applicable to its common stock for the September quarter amounted to $9,235,411, against $8,134,792 a year ago. They were equal to $2.33 and $2 a share in the respective periods. For the first nine months of the year net earnings were $22,397,597, on the same basis, against $19,775,707 a year earlier. The earnings represented $5.59 and $4.94 a share in the respective periods.

The Pacific Tin corporation estimated its September quarter net in-

How much will the "SECOND TRANSFER" shrink your estate?

FOR HIS FAMILY, a man leaves property and securities accumulated over a lifetime—his estate. If left outright to his wife it comes to her "shrunken" by taxes and probate expenses that may be necessary and justifiable. Thus the first transfer is effected.

But usually, in the course of years, a large part of this same estate suffers a second, drastic shrinkage, caused by the transfer from the mother to her children. This is the costly second transfer! This is the transfer that may needlessly reduce your estate by as much as 30% of its total value!

Fortunately, in many cases it has been possible to set up a trust under Will which eliminates the second transfer entirely, prevents duplication of costs, and assures the heirs of a more substantial share of the estate. It is the logical step for the man who has applied thought and care to his estate during his lifetime to consult his attorney regarding the establishment of such a trust.

For over half a century, The Northern Trust Company has had the privilege of serving as executor and trustee for many of Chicago's most important estates. The result is a practical experience in probate matters and estate management which is always at your disposal. When making or reviewing your Will, you and your attorney are invited to consult with the trust officers of this institution.

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 6.—The stock market closed lower today after a highly erratic performance. Low priced issues swarmed all over the tape on public participation while professional traders lightened holdings of high grade stocks.

Final prices in the majority of cases represented modest improvements over the day's lows. Losses, nevertheless, ranged from fractions to more than a point.

Demand for the cheaper stocks continued unabated despite the necessity early in the session to suspend trading in Curtis-Wright common because of a heavy glut of selling. That, stock, after dropping to 11½, closed at 12⅝ for a net loss of ⅝ point.

Representative issues lagged for a variety of reasons, observers said, chief among which were the election day holiday tomorrow and the accent on cheaper stocks.

Steel shares moved up after announcement of the production figures, but closed with losses running to more than a point. Leading motors also were heavy, with Chrysler dropping 1¼ points. Most coppers dipped fractionally, as did oil stocks. Losses in chemicals ran to 2 points in du Pont.

Realizing sales after the recent spectacular advances weighed down aviation issues. Rail shares adhered to a narrow course in relatively quiet trading. Fractional declines ruled.

New York Bonds.

Month long recovery trends in corporate low yield loans lost a little force, partly, traders said, because of further irregularity in the United States government group. At that, several treasuries finished 1-32d to 10-32ds ahead, while a smaller number closed a little lower.

Bonds labeled as speculative and second grade received a selective play. Fractionally higher prices were paid for International Telephone 5s at 49⅞, Rock Island general 4s of 1988 at 15¾, American and Foreign Power 5s at 60⅜, Utilities Power and Light 5s at 80½, and Portland General Electric 4½s at 82.

Foreign loans also were mixed. Gains of 1 to around 2 points were made by Norway 4s, Poland 8s, and Colombia 6s of 1961. Poland 6s, Belgium 6s, and Australia 4½s were lower.

Chicago Stocks.

Price changes among volume leaders on the Chicago Stock exchange were virtually nil yesterday. ASSURES RAILS WILL MEET ANY WAR EMERGENCY

Hall Sees No Excuse for Federal Control.

Fitzgerald Hall, president of the Louisville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad, said yesterday the railroads are prepared to meet any emergency that may arise as a result of the war. He spoke at the annual convention of the Associated Traffic Club of America, meeting in the Palmer House. About 800 persons are attending the activities.

Hall cited the program of expansion being undertaken by railroads in preparation for handling additional traffic. Railroads have purchased 1,000,000 tons of rail, 60,000 freight cars, 500 new passenger cars, and 310 locomotives this year, he said.

Fitzgerald Hall.

"We—the railroads—are preparing for any potential emergency," he said. "One of the reasons is to leave no excuse for our political friends to take over the railroads."

Recalls War Control Lossess.

During the last war, Fall recalled, the government took control of the railroads and operated them at a heavy loss, both in taxpayers' money and efficiency.

The government took control of the railroads on Dec. 27, 1917, and while handling only 3 per cent more freight in 1918 as compared with 1917, operating costs rose 50 per cent, Hall said. The amount of freight handled in 1918 under private control and the amount handled in 1919 under federal control were approximately the same, he told the group, yet it cost the government 86 per cent more than it did private industry.

Since 1923 the railroads have purchased 35,000 locomotives and 1,500,000 new freight cars, most of which have been bought with the railroad industry's funds rather than government loans, Hall said.

Assails Waterway Subsidies.

He paid a compliment to the airway and trucking industries on the progress they have made, but classed the government's loans for the furtherance of inland waterways as an "inexcusable, economic waste."

"The railroads under our own management can meet any emergency," Hall said.

The convention is being sponsored by the Traffic club of Chicago, the Junior Traffic club of Chicago, and the Women's Traffic club of Chicago.

MEMBER BANKS AGAIN INCREASE BUSINESS LOANS

The federal reserve board yesterday reported another gain in commercial, industrial and agricultural loans. Banks in 101 leading cities increased these types of loans 18 million dollars to a total of $4,310,000,000 in the week ended Nov. 1.

Following are comparisons of the principal assets and liabilities of the weekly reporting member banks of the federal reserve system in 101 leading cities [in millions of dollars]:

COTTON

Cotton futures in American markets declined 40 to 41 cent a pound in yesterday's trading. The market was weak throuout the day with demand slow, and scattered selling sufficient to depress prices.

Trade reports said Japanese textile interests were preparing for a substantial increase in cotton goods exports. They believed cotton would work higher, it was reported.

Sales from Manchester, England, said keen competition for cotton goods markets in that country, particularly in South America.

Spot cotton closed .07 to .10 cent a pound lower with New York at 9.33 cents; New Orleans 9.19 cents; Houston, 8.75 cents, and Chicago, 8.97 cents per pound. Prices follow:

GOVERNMENT MAY PAY TELEGRAPH COMPANIES MORE FOR MESSAGES

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6 (AP).—The communications commission proposed in a report today that the rates paid by the federal government for domestic telegraph messages be increased from 40 per cent of the charges applicable to private commercial firms to 60 per cent of such charges. The increase would become effective Jan. 1, unless delayed by challenges filed in the next 20 days.

The government is one of the largest, if not the largest, customers of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies, the commission said. Official messages handled by Western Union in 1937 amounted to 5.2 per cent of the total domestic messages handled by that company. However, government messages produced only 1.5 per cent of the revenue from all the company's domestic traffic.

CHICAGO STYLE FORUM FORMED; SHOW PLANNED

Organization of the Chicago Style forum was announced yesterday by Irving Parsons, managing director. The group, which he said has the backing of business organizations, will launch its efforts to stimulate the style consciousness of Chicago by staging a style show in the Civic Opera house Feb. 6, 1940, during spring market week.

The forum hopes to encourage Chicago clothing manufacturers in the creation of original design merchandise. Parsons said the style show is expected to attract from 3,000 to 4,000 retail store buyers from various sections of the country.

Continue Hearing on Union Plea to Oust Rail Receiver

A hearing on a petition to remove Col. A. A. Sprague as receiver for the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin railroad was continued to Nov. 14 yesterday by Judge James H. Wilkerson in federal court. The petition was filed by the Almagamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employés of America. It charged that Col. Sprague as receiver for the Rapid Transit company, which rents part of its tracks to the railroad, is placed in an "inconsistent, dual relationship."

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Demand for hogs increased abruptly yesterday as shipments of spring pigs dipped to the lowest levels in 11 weeks at the Chicago stockyards. Top loads at $6.70, off 5 cents for the day, stood lowest since Dec. 24. However, sufficient sales were made at fully steady prices to hold the day's average at $6.50, the same as last week's closing price.

Little change occurred in the trade for cattle in spite of a decline in supplies. Slaughter lambs met good demand at strong to 15 cents higher prices.

FEDERAL AGENCY LOSES MONEY INSURING WHEAT

Farmers Get Back More than They Paid In.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6 (AP).—Uncle Sam went into the "red" in his first effort to insure American farmers against crop losses from drouth, floods, hail, insects, and other natural causes.

The Federal Crop Insurance corporation, which last year inaugurated a nation-wide program of crop insurance for wheat, reported today that it had paid indemnities in excess of its premium collections from insured farmers.

Government policies were taken out by 165,551 farmers on the 1939 crop. The farmers paid 6,769,120 bushels of wheat as premiums. About a fourth of the policy holders, or 42,420, reported crop losses and received indemnities totaling 9,461,730 bushels.

Loss Equal to $1,885,000.

Thus the government insurance corporation's losses amounted to 2,691,610 bushels of grain, or a cash equivalent of about $1,885,000 at current prices. The losses were taken from $20,000,000 of the capital stock with which congress invested the agency.

Leroy K. Smith, manager of the corporation, said that indemnities exceeded premiums because the 1939 wheat yield in 31 major wheat states was 10 per cent below average. Crop losses were particularly extensive and severe, he said, in five states with the largest acreage insured—Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, and South Dakota.

Balance in Theory.

In theory the insurance program is designed to make premiums and indemnities balance. Smith said, however, that fluctuations in each could be expected from year to year.

Farmers may obtain policies insuring them either 50 per cent or 75 per cent of normal yields. Premiums are based on a certain quantity of wheat per acre insured.

Plans are being made, farm officials said, to have congress extend the insurance program to cotton and corn. Officials estimate that twice as many wheat farmers will have policies on next year's wheat crop as this year.

GEN'L MOTORS OFFICIALS DENY TRUST CHARGES

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 6 [Special].—Two General Motors officials today took the stand in the anti-trust suit against the corporation in federal court here. They contradicted testimony given previously by three government witnesses, all former General Motors dealers.

The two officials were Felix Doran, Detroit, assistant general sales manager of the Chevrolet division of the General Motors Sales Corporation, and Roy W. Hill, Dallas, Tex., regional manager for Chevrolet.

Doran denied asking Clifford Majers of Dallas in 1929 why he did not use General Motors Acceptance corporation in financing time sales. He also denied forcing Arthur Teague, also of Dallas, to take 14 or 15 automobiles he did not want.

Doran testified that the agency of Fred Emich, Oak Park, Ill., was not canceled because of failure to use General Motors Acceptance corporation financing, as he had testified, but because he overcharged on finances when selling cars, sold a demonstrator as a new car, and did not have enough capital.

Chicagoans See Latest of Rail Streamliners

Railroad minded Chicagoans yesterday viewed the latest of the many streamliners of recent years—the Rock Island's Rocky Mountain Rocket. One of the companion trains which will begin Chicago-Denver service next Sunday, the streamliner was shown at the La Salle street station. Each of the trains consists of seven cars, three of them Pullmans. The trains are pulled by 2,000 horsepower Diesel-electric locomotives.

Local Loan Gives You the Service You Want

75% of our loans are Signature Only Loans to employed men and women. LOCAL LOAN originated and perfected this salary loan service because the great body of employed people—young or old and regardless of occupation—are entitled to a simplified loan method.

Our aim is to offer you whatever plan will enable you to borrow most easily. LOCAL LOAN makes liberal Furniture and Auto Loans, but if you are steadily employed we prefer to make you a loan On Your Signature Only without mortgages or endorsers. You may borrow $25 to $300—

On Your Signature Only

You make your own repayment terms [repaying any time within 20 months] and you are charged only for the actual time you have the money.

When you deal with LOCAL LOAN you borrow without the knowledge of your employer, friends and relatives.

We cannot tell you all about our service in our advertisement. Just phone one of the following offices and your request can be taken over the telephone so you can obtain the money more quickly when you call in person.

As little as $2.00 to $2.26 a week repays in full, including all charges, a $150 loan over 20 months at America's largest loan company. No salary assignments.

$2.00 a week on the average is all you need to set aside for every $150 borrowed on Personal's new amazing "Special" loan plan of only 1¼% per month on the actual balances owed. This plan is for persons with a steady income or salary sufficient to meet payments promptly without undue credit strain and a good credit record. You don't need co-makers life insurance, or bankable securities.

For persons without established credit and employment ratings and who wish to carry a loan larger than 8 to 12% of annual salary or income Personal offers its "Regular" loan plan. On this plan an average of $2.26 set aside per week takes care of everything on a $150 loan—the charge is based on 2% monthly on unpaid balances of $100 and less and 2% monthly on unpaid balances over $100.

Loans up to $300 on either plan on your personal note, or with furniture or auto Co-maker loans are also available on "Regular" plan. Seize this opportunity to save on loan costs. Come in or telephone today.
